EDUCATING FOR LIFE ISSUES

Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio, founded by Horace Mann, embarked in 1921 upon a bold experiment by which it has gained a nation-wide reputation. The college confers the B. A. and B. Sc. degrees. The enrollment is limited to six hundred students, who are chosen on the basis of physical examinations, high school records, intelligence tests, life sketches by the individuals, and recommendations by reliable persons. The traditional, dominant purpose of the institution is to stimulate and develop those gifts of intellect with which nature has endowed the student. Its philosophy is that the purpose of the college is to integrate life and its symmetric development. It holds that there is no single faculty, not even intelligence, which is the chief element of human excellence, or which chiefly needs systematic development. "Excellence lies in symmetry in development of every part of personality in proper relation to every other part. Every element necessary to a well proportioned life must have recognition in a college program. Specialization must be regarded as a normal concern of education, but not as its chief concern.

"In education, appreciation of relative values is the beginning of wisdom."

Antioch is primarily an effort to make a comprehensive, orderly appraisal of all the issues of life and of their relative values, and to build the college programme upon the results of such appraisal in replacement of the traditional and conventional determination of curricula for both liberal and professional education. It evaluates education ultimately by the degree to which it equips the student for meeting all the issues of life. These issues are many. Some are supremely important, others are trivial; some sure to be met, others are remote responsibilities; some are met every day, others arise but once or twice in a lifetime. "We must undertake to make an inventory of life—to catalogue the issues that in fact make it up—to give true weight to these various elements. Our efforts may be awkward and imperfect, but they will be better than none." Emphasis is laid on physical education and development, practical adjustment to life, the development of underlying traits of character by practical work, the development of social responsibility, and of a concern for the ultimate objective of life. Preparation for a vocation must be a part of nearly every student's education, but it must be given time and attention in proportion to its true relative value.

The work of the college is divided into four parts:

1. Required physical education.
2. Required liberal curriculum.
3. Technical or professional training.
4. Part-time economical work.

Part 1 includes periodic physical examinations, necessary corrective physical exercises, athletics for all, and courses in personal and social hygiene.

Part 2 aims to introduce the student to all major fields of human interest rather than to a few special ones, and thus to cause all significant gains of human knowledge and outlook to become the property of all educated men and women. This section occupies about a half of the student's time in classroom work. Free critical inquiry is encouraged, and the temper manifested by the students reveals their underlying desire to understand the real significance of life and to guide their conduct by that understanding.

Part 3 prepares the student for business, engineering, scientific research, education, journalism, and home and institutional management. It aims to impart a mastery of the fundamental principles rather than of specialized application. The first two years are exploratory, required liberal work dominating, while the student considers the choice of a vocation. Gradually vocational lines are defined, at first in general and then specifically. A half of the student's time is spent in the college, and a half of it is spent in practical economic conditions (in alternate five-week shifts) to develop initiative, self-reliance, responsibility, courage, and adaptability, and to help practical adjustment to life. This alternation between classroom and practical work is made possible by the co-operation of about 150 business establishments within a radius of 1,000 miles of the college. These offer a wide range of callings, chosen because of their educational value to the particular student. By this method it takes six years to graduate, but the college claims that this correlation of the student's practical and theoretical experiences makes him so much more efficient than he could be by the normal period for graduation that the prolongation is abundantly justified.

WELCOME TO E. T.!

The East Texas State Teachers College extends a cordial welcome to all new students who have enrolled in this institution this summer for the first time. It likewise extends a cordial welcome to those students who have been here in other quarters. The College is delighted to have such a large number of loyal sons and daughters attend its classes in preparation for life's great work. As President of the college I wish for each student a happy summer.

The City of Commerce and its good people, as well as the faculty, join me in wishing for every one a summer full of pleasure and profit. We will do all that can be reasonably done to make your work just what you would like to have it.

You are expected to make the greatest use of the institution possible. The chapel service occurs at 9:25 on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday mornings. The chapel programs are rendered jointly by the faculty and students. Your contributions in making the chapel programs worth while will be appreciated.

One aim of the faculty of this institution is to see to it that students receive individual attention in so far as this is possible. Students, therefore, are invited to have frequent conferences with their teachers, with the deans, and with the President of the college whenever service can be rendered. This is your institution and we want you to get the maximum amount of good out of it.

With every good wish for a happy and profitable summer,
I am Sincerely,

S. H. WHITLEY.

Information

For the guidance of students of the East Texas State Teachers College, at Commerce, Texas:

1. The school days of each week are Monday to Saturday, inclusive. All students, unless excused for sufficient cause, are expected to report to all classes on those days. If for any reason the instructor neither comes to the recitation nor sends an announcement, the students may be excused, at the end of fifteen minutes from the last bell.

2. Any student is permitted to take three cuts each quarter in each of his courses. A fourth cut in any course will reduce his grade in that course ten points; each succeeding cut, five points. No excuse whatever will be accepted for excess cuts other than serious illness. Students who are too ill to attend classes must at the time of their illness report their condition to their Dean.

3. For failure to make a grade of "C" in at least three regular courses, a student will be required to confer with his Dean before enrolling for work of the succeeding quarter.

4. Before making any trip out of town, a student must secure from his Dean a leave-of-absence card which must be signed by the proprietor of the boarding home and returned to the Dean on the day following the student's return. If the student wishes to go to some place out of the city other than his home, he must present to his Dean a written permission from his parents to make such trip. Students wishing to spend the night at some place in Commerce other than at their boarding homes must secure permission from their Dean before making such visit.

5. Upon withdrawal from school for any cause, the student must file with the Registrar a "withdrawal card" approved by his Dean and the President of the College, giving the date and the cause of his withdrawal. Any student leaving without this notice forfeits all rights and credits as a student.

6. In order that class room work may proceed from time to time uninterrupted, students are required to vacate the halls and corridors of buildings during recitation periods. Students not in recitation may report to the library, or they may go to their rooms for the purpose of studying.

7. Students are required to confine their social engagements and pleasures to Saturdays, Sundays, and Wednesdays, and to use the other evenings of the week for study. Any variations from this regulation must be approved by the Deans. In all relations, students should be orderly, courteous, and considerate of the rights of others. From June 1 to September 1, students shall be in their rooms not later than 8:30 p.m. each study night. Juniors and Seniors are not required to observe the above named hours. However, all students must terminate their social engagements at not later than 10:30 p.m. and must on all nights retire at not later than 11:00 p.m.

8. If for any reason, rules are declared off, such suspension applies only to the event named in the announcement. Arrangements for all students' socials, parties, and picnics, must be approved by the Deans before any announcement of such function is made. To avoid conflicts, all students' gatherings, including rehearsals, must be scheduled with the chairman of the student events calendar. Students are requested to confine parties, picnics, and club meetings as far as possible to Saturday and Wednesday evenings.

Young women who wish to attend carnivals, tent shows, and similar forms of amusement must communicate with their Dean before doing so.

9. Young men and young women are not permitted under any circumstances to engage in riding or driving together without first securing permission from their Deans, and notifying the proprietor of the boarding home that the Dean's permission has been given.

10. Young women students are required to secure permission of the Dean of Women to receive social attention from young men other than College students, and the proprietor of the boarding home must be notified that such permission has been given. A young lady who wishes to receive the attention of young men residing outside of Commerce must first present to her Dean a letter of permission from her parents.

11. Dancing by men and women students together is permitted only after conference between students and Deans in each individual instance. Young men or young women are permitted to dance with the opposite sex only after filing with their respective Deans the written permission of their parents. In no case is dancing permitted in public places.

12. Married students or mature students who desire privileges other than those mentioned above must confer with their Deans.

13. As a matter of courtesy, students must at all times inform the proprietors of their homes where they may be found when away from home.

14. Each student is given ten days after his matriculation to select a permanent home. During this time he may move, but not without permission of his Dean. After the expiration of this time, if a change in either boarding or rooming place is desired, the student must confer with his Dean about the change and give ten days' notice of such change to the proprietor of his boarding home. Provided that for sufficient reason, the Deans may move students without notice.

15. Students desiring special privileges or permits should apply to their Deans in person. No request should be made over the telephone or through another person except in cases of emergency.

16. The official bulletin board is designed for the use of officials and instructors of the College in communicating with individual students and classes. Students are at all times held responsible for all announcements placed on this board.

17. Proprietors of boarding homes are expected at all times to cooperate with the College in the enforcement of the above regulations by keeping the Deans informed of all infractions thereof or of any other irregularities in student life.

18. Nothing in the foregoing rules shall imply the absence of the right inherent in the College administration to deal with any and all offenses against the dignity of the institution not mentioned therein.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE MAY BE UNIVERSAL

The gradual adoption of English as a universal language is predicted by Prof. George M. Wilcox, educational director of Near East Relief, in his annual report.

His experience with 18,000 children of a half-dozen Near Eastern races, who are students in the orphanage schools under his direction, leads him to the conviction that English, "provided it continues to produce a great literature and to avoid puristic complications," will continue to extend its linguistic conquests.

"It has the advantages," he points out, "of being an amalgam of several racial elements, and of easily absorbing serviceable words from other tongues, even the most remote. Although already an old language, it is still young in its flexibility and adaptability, and it is recognized the world over as the language of freedom, faith, and friendliness—the uplifting forces which are widening human life everywhere today.

"The world is in need of a universal language, and several artificial ones have been produced in an effort to meet this need. Volapuk has long since been forgotten; Esperanto and Ido have comparatively few followers. But a language, if it is to be accepted, must have a natural growth and there can be no doubt that English has at least as good a chance as any other of becoming the world's step-mother tongue.

"If an artificial language were to be adopted, it might be provided by combining the words that occur in many spoken tongues, such as the word 'sack,' which is so universal that it must date nearly to the Tower of Babel. But most of these words are already in English.

"I find a universal eagerness among the children in the Near East orphanages to learn at least a smattering of English. And it seems to be astonishingly easy for these children to master a fairly fluent vocabulary. There is certainly no basis for the old-fashioned theory that English is a difficult tongue for a foreigner to acquire."

CUBS HAVE SUCCESSFUL SEASON

The E. T. Cubs, under L. D. Parsons, had a very successful season in baseball this year. The Cubs played twenty-four games, losing nine, winning thirteen and ending one with a tie. (Ed Note—The other one will evidently be reviewed next week.) The Cubs had one of the best teams this year that they have ever had. The season was ended by two games with Commerce High School. The former was won by Commerce HI, and marks the first time in two years that the High School has defeated the T. S. in any kind of athletics. In the next game, the Cubs came back and beat High School 11 to 0. With Faussett on the mound for the cubs, the High School could do nothing that resembled base hits. Faussett was the outstanding player for the Cubs, both on the defensive and on the offensive. He was the best hitter that the Cubs have ever had. While not pitching, Faussett played short stop.

During the season, the Cubs defeated seven schools that are noted for their ability in athletics. Among these seven we find Terrell Prep School of Dallas.

Members of the class have had heavy expenses during the last year. On January 1, next, there will be a need for such a fund and the amounts promised will then be collected.

The Ex-Students' Memorial Loan Fund is a chartered one, to which Mr. Will C. Hogg of Houston made the first contribution, five hundred dollars. The summer classes of 1923 and 1924 supplemented it. The fund is lent to worthy students at a small rate of interest. With the increases due to payments of interest and to additions made by the classes, the present total of the fund is about $1,000. It should be $10,000, and it is hoped that future classes will insure its being augmented to this extent.

HENDERSON COUNTY CLUB

The Henderson County Club met on Monday night, May 30. This Club has grown considerably since its first meeting. There was a large enthusiastic crowd present. Each individual had a "pep" of his own. This was especially evident when Mr. H. D. Phillips, head of the Spanish department at E. T. S. T. C. made his talk on "Civilization a Thousand Years From Now." The speaker pointed out that the boys would no longer have to worry about proposing to young ladies, for the ladies themselves would do the proposing.

Mr. J. G. Smith, Assistant Dean of Men of this institution, explained that should his speech fall below the expectations of the hearers they should place the blame for same upon Mr. John Lomax, who was in one of the classes that he had recently taught and examined. The whole of Dean Smith's remarks seemed to have reference to John, and you may all, of course, guess what Mr. Smith really had to say about him.

Mr. J. V. Nelson, President of the club, thoroughly convinced all the young men of Henderson County that it is easy to be happy, even though married, by telling them that the best way to keep away from a rolling pin is by doing all the work for their wives. All his statements, of course, were accepted as being really true, seeing he "speaks as one having authority," being "one who knows."

Mr. Bill Harnille's talk on the appreciation of music was indeed creative of great enjoyment. His splendid observations led the audience to believe that Bill has specialized in the realm of music.

The club enjoyed the presence of Messrs. McPeters, William Johnson and John Lomax, who were members of the "Hoo Doo" Band. These young men are to be congratulated upon their ability to put over such a splendid musical programme.

A motion was made and carried that all Van Zandt County students be invited to join in with Henderson County. So, now's your chance, Van Zandt! Come out, be sports, show your colors.

The Singing Heart

I have a song, not very long,
That's musical and sweet.
'Tis not divine, for it is mine;
It glides on rhythmic feet.
Oft in the day I hear it play
Upon the chording strings;
Then in the night, in notes so light,
Sweet melodies it brings.
To save from deep and stupid sleep
The soul it would caress
In sweetest sense of recompense,
And rapturously bless!
No human hand can e'er command
By scientific art
This instrument to heaven lent—
This glad and singing heart!

Literature and Literati

Conducted by WILLIAM CANTRELL, JR.

Last week "The Anthology of American Poetry" came off the press. Among the poems it contained were several by the Campus poet of East Texas State Teachers' College, Mr. Ben Braddy.

This anthology is original in that it contains only poems of hitherto unknown poets. The poems taken up are frequently good; many seem destined to live while others will die the moment they are read. Several of the poets whose work appears here are, in the opinion of the reviewer, outstanding in modern poetry and will make their influence felt in the future literature of the country. If only one of these poets were brought to the front, the effort expended in producing this anthology will be justified. The reviewer believes that several will profit from this production. Those who are interested should not fail to acquire this volume, for it denotes a stage in the development of modern verse and poetry.

In the same manner that "Drums" marks a step in progress in the field of romantic literature dealing with the Revolutionary War, "Marching

On" is progressive in the field dealing with the Civil War. The author of these novels, James Boyd, presents his latest in a manner and with a viewpoint that is refreshingly new. He deals with the Civil War from the standpoint of the poor white, almost poor white trash. In the novels of the past the Civil War has been dealt with in reference to the planter class. Boyd takes for a hero a young yeoman of the South whose loyalty to the South leads him through the terrible horrors of an "inter-familia" war. The world generally believes the South to contain nothing but the rich planters, and the negroes, and the author is attempting to correct this misconception. Few people know that there were in round numbers, 4,000,000 slave holders in the Northern army, compared to the 3,000,000 in the Southern, and that the war was not fought to free the slaves. The truth is presented by the author in a very interesting manner. Every citizen of the United States should eradicate his unjust prejudices, and this novel will sweep away many of them. It is recommended by the reviewer as a book well worth the reader's time.

FORMER STUDENTS ARE MARRIED

One of the prettiest weddings ever solemnized in Commerce took place Wednesday evening, June 8, at 8:00 o'clock, when Miss Nadine York, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. York, and Mr. D. C. Kennedy, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kennedy of Quitman, Texas were joined in the bonds of holy wedlock.

The ceremony took place at the First Christian Church. Rev. P. F. King was the officiant.

The Church was decorated elaborately with palms, ferns, and arbors of orchid and pink Wisteria, presenting a beautiful garden scene. The bride was attended by Miss Lucile Thomas of Denison, Texas, as Maid of Honor, Mrs. Kent Stivers of this city served as Matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Lemore Macon of Leonard, Miss Margaret Clark of Dallas, Miss Elizabeth Dillingham and Miss Sarah Louise Taylor of Commerce.

The best man was G. R. Kennedy, of Quitman, brother of the groom, and the groomsmen were Melvin Howse with DeLay, Chas. Blaylock of Commerce, and W. Nelson Vickery of Dallas.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, H. L. York. She wore a gown of white Elizabeth crepe with trimmings of duchess lace. The tulle was adjusted to her hair with a spray of duchess lace and orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 1301 Live Oak Street. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. W. W. Oldsworthy, Mrs. Earl Sandridge, Mrs. J. H. Wilson and Mrs. L. W. Macon.

Mrs. York wore a costume of April crepe Elizabeth, trimmed in lace. Mrs. S. H. Wheeler of Houston, Texas, sister of Mrs. York, was attired in a gown of cream lace over pink satin. Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy left for a western bridal trip. The bride wore for traveling, a suit of blue kasha cloth with a close fitting hat in harmonizing tones. Both Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy are graduates of the East Texas State Teachers' College.

THE TEACER

(By Herbert Hoover)

The Public School Teacher cannot live apart; he cannot separate his teaching from his daily conversation. He lives among his pupils during school hours, and among them and their parents all the time. He is peculiarly a public character under the most searching scrutiny of watchful and critical eyes. His life is an open book. His habits are known to all. His office, like that of a minister of religion, demands of him an exceptional standard of conduct. And how rarely does a teacher fall below that standard. How seldom does a teacher figure in a sensational headline in a newspaper? It is truly remarkable, I think, that so vast an army of people, approximately eight hundred thousand, so uniformly meets its obligations, so affectively does its job, so decently behaves itself, as to be almost utterly inconspicuous in a sensation-loving country. It implies a wealth of character, of tact, of patience, of quiet competence, to achieve such a record.

At this time a move for a big home coming for next year was gotten under way by the head of the school, who expressed the wish that at next year's banquet a representative of each class be present for every year since Mr. Mayo started the school.

With next year's home coming in mind, Mrs. T. H. Brady was elected president of the association and Mr. Frank Young was elected vice president. Mrs. C. V. Hall was named secretary-treasurer of the association.

CHURCHES

The Methodist Church

(Almost opposite Post Office.)
The Methodist Church is especially desirous that the Methodist young people of the College enter fully and always into the fellowship of all its social and worship occasions.
The College Epworth League meets just preceding the evening preaching hour. This League is composed entirely of students from E. T.
At the Sunday School hour, Dean Ferguson teaches the college class. All who have heard him, say that he is a great Bible teacher. And he has a great class to teach!
Once each month the college young people are invited to a social under the direction of the college class, all finances being cared for by the Sunday School. At this occasion, the pastor, Mrs. Lutz* (Assistant Dean of Women,) a special director of games and a specially appointed committee of the class unite in seeing to it that the college students have a good time together.
The pastor, Rev. C. A. Long, strives to make the Sunday evening services of special interest to the young people, both in the atmosphere and in his messages. And during the summer months the mid-week services will be of special interest to young people of the College. A brief period of worship will be followed often by some special social or recreational feature. The first of these special mid-week services was held on Wednesday evening, June 8. The church extends to all Methodist teachers and students a cordial invitation to share its worship and fellowship.

Church of Christ

(Monroe Street, N.)
Students and visitors will find a combination of attractions at the Church of Christ. To begin with, the full list of services is provided. At the Bible classes, 9:45 a. m., Professors Hall, Rogers and La Grone teach classes of young people. Professor W. W. Freeman has a class of boys of base ball age that meets in the open, out of doors.

This church celebrates the Lord's Supper every Lord's Day.

The preaching is done by members of the college faculty. Dr. W. W. Freeman speaks on the first Sunday in the month. Professor C. W. LaGrone occupies the pulpit on the second Sunday. It is filled on the third by Professor Claude V. Hall. The remaining services are conducted by specially invited speakers.

The congregation includes a large group of young folk. They meet at 7:15 each Sunday for a religious programme. At present they are debating some subjects in which they are interested.

En route to the business section of the city, we pass the building, on Monroe Street, four squares north of the E. T. campus. Large bulletins are kept posted with good mottoes so that "he who runs may read."

First Christian Church

(At intersection of Sycamore and Park Streets.)

The pastor, Rev. Phillip F. King, and the officers of the First Christian Church offer greeting to the students of the East Texas State Teachers' College and give them a most cordial welcome to all the mid-week services. A Bible school is conducted every Sunday at 9:45 a. m., with a special class for college students. Preaching services are held each Sunday at 10:50 in the morning and 8 in the evening.

Beginning on next Sunday, June 12th, this church will have special evangelistic services each day for the following two weeks. Preaching at 10 in the morning and at 8 in the evening. Evangelist Arthur W. Jones will do the preaching and Arthur Bryant will be the leader of song. A most earnest invitation is extended to college students to hear these men and to engage in the services.

First Baptist Church

(At intersection of Sycamore and Washington streets.)

The First Baptist Church welcomes the students to Commerce and to the First Baptist Church. We hope that the Baptist Students will quickly find their places in the church life. The College Sunday School Class meets at 9:45 a. m. in the Hippodrome Theatre. Prof. J. G. Smith, Dean of men, is the teacher of the college class. Two college B. Y. P. U.'s meet in the church at 6:45 p. m.

Miss Mildred Wheeler of Fort Worth has been employed a student secretary for the summer. She will be glad to help you in any way.

All Baptist Students should join the local church on the first Sunday in town. The Church is the Bride of Christ. You cannot honor Christ unless you honor his bride. We will write for your letters. You are going through the formative period. The ideals you develop in college will probably be your ideals during life.

Sunday evening you will enjoy the Baptismal service. The church has twenty candidates for Baptism. We welcome you to a friendly, democratic Church.

Pastorate of the Rev. J. R. Hickerson.

Presbyterian Church

The Presbyterian Church, located on the corner of Caddo and Monroe Streets, cordially invites all Presbyterian students and their friends to join in its service of worship during stay in Commerce.

Although without a pastor, regular church services will be held each Sunday morning, at eleven o'clock, at which time some interesting speaker will address the congregation. Sunday School meets at 9:45. Come join the College Class, where a hearty welcome awaits you. Christian Endeavor meets in the Annex at 7 o'clock each Sunday evening.
