Board Approves College Changes

Two new colleges will be created from the existing College of Arts and Sciences at ETSU as a result of recent action by the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System.

In addition to approving ETSU's plan to divide its College of Arts and Sciences, the Coordinating Board authorized ET to grant four new degrees and approved new emphasis in two others.

The College of Arts and Sciences will be divided into two separate administrative units—the College of Liberal and Fine Arts and the College of Science and Technology—effective next fall. Consisting of 24 academic and special departments, the College of Arts and Sciences was considered too large to permit effective management.

Dr. Roger Brooks, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, will become dean of the College of Liberal and Fine Arts. The college will include the departments of aerospace studies, art, bible, history, journalism and graphic arts, library science, music, political science, sociology and anthropology, speech and drama and literature and languages.

The new Department of Literature and Languages represents a merging of the former separate departments of English and foreign languages and reflects a current trend to consolidate modern languages in a single department.

The College of Sciences and Technology, for which a new dean will be named shortly, includes the departments of agriculture, biology, chemistry, computer science, earth sciences, home economics, industry and technology, mathematics, physics and a new Center for Technological and Career Development.

The CTCD will work closely with all departments of the university and with regional business and industry to develop programs of a technical and vocational nature, many of them two years in length.

The Department of Geography in the old College of Arts and Sciences will be merged with the Department of Earth Sciences, and the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation will be shifted to the College of Education.

New degree programs approved by the Coordinating Board include a B.S. in law enforcement in the Department of Sociology and Anthropology; B.S. in vocational education in the Department of Secondary and Higher Education; a Master of Public Administration in the Department of Secondary and Higher Education; a Master of Public Administration in the Department of Political Science, to be offered through the Federation of North Texas Area Universities with ETSU as a degree-granting institution; and a B.S. in guidance and counseling in the Department of Student Personnel and Guidance.

The Coordinating Board also approved ETSU's proposals to offer a revised B.S. in industrial education with greater flexibility to meet the needs of industry, and a new emphasis in urban education through the Department of Secondary and Higher Education.

Joint Recital Set

Mu Phi Epsilon, international professional music sorority, and Pi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, music fraternity, will present a joint recital at 6:30 p.m. Monday, May 1, in the Concert Hall of the Music Building.

The program will include "Fanfare for a Festival," by Nelson; "Psalm 150," by Bender; "Under the Willow Tree," by Barber; "Go Way From My Window," by Niles; and "That's All," by Bright. The public is invited.

AT COMMENCEMENT

862 Are Degree Candidates

Eight hundred and sixty-two degree candidates—a record number—will be awaiting diplomas when ETSU commencement exercises begin at 7 p.m. Saturday, May 13, in Memorial Stadium.

There are 674 bachelor's, 174 master's and 14 doctoral candidates. ETSU will confer three honorary doctorates.

Dr. Steen

Thomas

Honorary doctor of laws degrees will be awarded to Felix R. McKnight, editor and co-publisher of the Dallas Times Herald; Dr. Ralph W. Steen, president of Stephen F. Austin State University; and O. Pendleton Thomas, chief executive officer and director of B. F. Goodrich Co.

Dr. Paul W. Barrus, professor and former head of the ETSU English Department, will deliver the commencement address, "The Furnished Mind." Dr. Barrus, who has been a member of the university faculty since 1949, was the first recipient of the ETSU Distinguished Teaching Award in 1969.

After Dr. Barrus' address and the presentation of honorary degrees by Dr. D. Whitney Halladay, ETSU president, the undergraduate and graduate degrees will be conferred.

The Rev. William S. Montague, pastor of the First Christian Church of Commerce, will give the invocation and benediction. After the degrees are awarded, ETSU Director of Alumni Affairs Rob Whitener will greet the new graduates.

ETSU has been involved in only two other honorary degree presentations in its 83-year-history. In May, 1970, the university awarded the doctor of laws degree to State Sen. A. M. Aikin. In 1943, what was then East Texas State Teachers College presented an honorary doctoral degree to the late Sam Rayburn, former Speaker of the U. S. House of Representatives, on behalf of the State Teachers Colleges of Texas.

Dr. Steen, who has written 15 books on American and Texas history and government, became Stephen F. Austin's third president in 1958. Prior to becoming a university president, Dr. Steen had served on the Texas A&M University faculty as head of the history department.

MISS ET for 1972, Lonnie Tucker of Dallas, will serve as one of the hostesses for the Lone Star Conference Spring Sports Championships, which began on the ET campus Thursday and will last through Saturday. Competition is being held in track tennis and golf, with ET favored to win the tennis crown.

VP Election Cancelled, Case Reopened

By Bobby Templeton

Wednesday's election for vice president was cancelled and the Reid vs. Stretcher case opened up for review before the Student Supreme Court as a result of action taken on an appeal filed by Danny Reid with Dr. Bob Butler, dean of student activities.

The Student Supreme Court had called an election for Wednesday for a new vice president of the United Student Association in its original ruling in favor of Gary Stretcher, plaintiff in the case. Stretcher began the case back in March with a petition before the court stating that Reid lacked the necessary credit hours to run for office.

The election was cancelled because the Supreme Court did not have authority to call an election, according to Joe Forrester, assistant to the dean of student activities. He said Butler ruled this way because neither the constitution nor the Election Code gives the court the power to call a special election. "The court may only ask the Election Commission to call such an election," he said.

Forrester said the Student Senate and the Election Commission are the only bodies that may call an election.

Butler decided that the Supreme Court had the authority to rule on the case, so he reopened the case to be ruled upon by the court when a quorum of the court is present. Forrester said a quorum of the court is now six justices with the swearing in of James Penny as the eighth justice. The court had no more than four justices present at previous hearings of the case.

If a special election is asked for by the court, only those names which appeared on the first ballot will be allowed to run in the special election, Forrester said. The Election Code states that the Election Commission has two alternatives in ruling on a disqualified candidate, and these are the certifying of the candidate with the next highest number of votes or the calling of a special election with the ballot stipulation as stated above.

The only names that could appear on a special election ballot are Gary Stretcher and Reid. Four students had registered for Wednesday's election.

With reaction to Butler's decisions, Reid said, "I have succeeded in what I started out to do." He said he wanted to at least make the student Supreme Court follow the rules as set up in the constitution and the Election Code.

In other student government action, the Student Senate met for a brief seven minutes Wednesday night with only 16 senators present. The only discussion came from Senate Ad Interim President Darrell Glueck, who said, "Constant inactivity of this organization (the Senate) only adds more weight to the criticism heralded at it by members of the press and other critics." The Senate has met without a quorum for the past three weeks.

Last Forum Arts Program To Host TWU Dancers

The 12-member Modern Dance Group from Texas Woman's University will present the closing program for the Spring Forum Arts series at 1:30 p.m. Monday, May 1, in the University Auditorium.

The dancers will perform 16 numbers featuring songs from the Thanksgiving, Easter and Christmas seasons.

The group, under the direction of Dr. Anne Duggan, dean, College of Health, Physical Education and Recreation at TWU, will conclude its spring tour through Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, and Arkansas with this performance.

In 1956, the Modern Dance Group, begun by Dr. Duggan 35 years ago, appeared in New York City at a world-wide convention of physical therapists. They also appeared on NBC's "Tonight Show" and "Home" television show with Arlene Francis.

He is currently editor and co-publisher of that newspaper. McKnight has served five times as a member of the Pulitzer Prize Jury.

Goodrich Co., as chief executive officer, vice chairman of the board and a director. He became chairman of the board on April 18. In 1967, ETSU awarded Thomas the Distinguished Alumnus Citation.

EDITORIAL

We Do Regret...

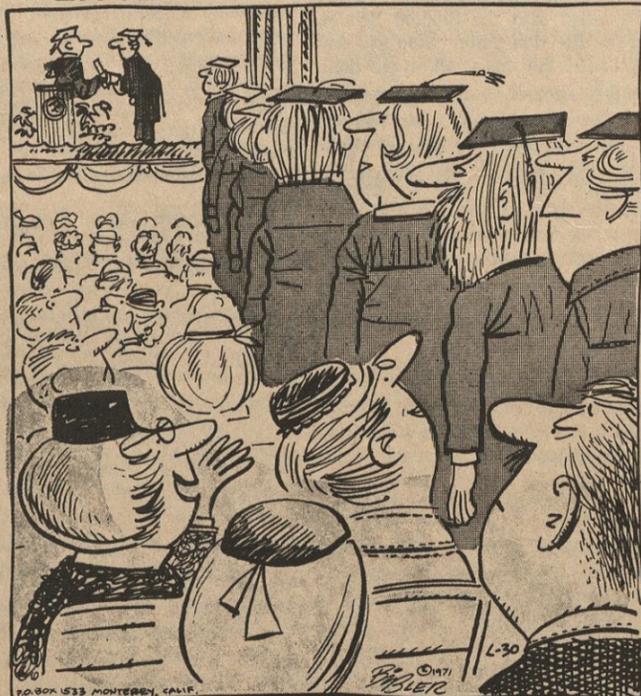

This is our last issue this semester. This issue will be met with much the same criticism of earlier papers. Again we are unable to print all the information that has been gathered through various sources. Space limitations censor even this final paper; some news will have been omitted.

Just as this is our last paper, so, too, is the semester quickly drawing to a close. Dead week begins Monday, and the following Monday, exams start. Graduation is scheduled for Saturday, May 13. We report these events in this column because we fear that we will not have space to do it elsewhere. We sincerely hope that the circumstances under which many newsworthy events have, of necessity, gone without acknowledgement will be corrected in the very near future.

The first summer session will begin June 1, with the first summer edition of The East Texan to be published on Friday, June 16. The second summer term will end Aug. 25.

Campus Art Shown at Hemisfair

Ten ET artists have had works accepted in the First Annual Graphis Invitational Show consisting of 125 art pieces in graphic media by artists in the Southwestern United States and Mexico.

The art works are showing at the Mexican-American Cultural Exchange Institute in Hemisfair Plaza, San Antonio.

ET exceeded all other universities in the Southwest in number of awards, and was represented by graduate student, Thomas Carroll of Mesquite, with the Jurors First Place Award of $150 for a color etching entitled "Mr. and Mrs. USA." Juror's Second Place Award of $100 went to Patricia Johnson, wife of art faculty member Richard Johnson, who entered a plexiglass and pencil construction called "American Red Cross."

Merit awards to ET artists were to David Wallin, Fred Hentchel, Richard Johnson, art faculty, and Karl Umlauf, art faculty.

Other ET artists represented in the show were Charles McGough, head, Art Department, Lee Baxter Davis, art faculty, Bill McClure, graduate student, and Walter Drew, and Fred Hentchel, students.

'Day of Prayer'

ET personnel will be featured at both services Sunday, April 30, in observation of "Day of Prayer for Colleges" at the Commerce Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Roger Brooks, dean, School of Arts and Sciences, will speak at the 10:50 a.m. worship service. Administrative officials have been spokesmen for this service for the last 19 years.

Dr. John McQuary, head, Department of Student Personnel and Guidance, and ruling elder of the church, will give a special prayer for higher education at the morning service, and Dr. D. C. Butler, English faculty, retired, will pronounce the benediction.

Letter To The Editor

To The Editor:

Wednesday night the curtain fell on one of the better plays presented this year at East Texas State University.

If you missed the Brian Friel play "Lovers" . . . it can safely be said that you really missed one excellent night of entertainment.

Nathan Wilson and his cast, who labored on this play prior to the spring break, deserve a great deal of praise for their hard work and devotion. It is a shame that only a few ETSU students availed themselves the opportunity to see this tremendously funny, and yet sad play.

So many people worked hard to present this to University Playhouse patrons . . . they all can't be named, but they deserve a great deal of praise. And to Nathan Wilson, his cast, including a certain old Irish gentleman . . . I say bravo!

I haven't spent a more enjoyable evening this semester.

John Self
Tyler senior

To The Editor:

There is another election coming up in Commerce that is pretty important to us Texans, the Texas State Primary on Saturday, May 6, in which voters will select their party candidates for the November election.

We can stay over Saturday again because we have one very good candidate to push for governor, FRANCIS FARENTHOLD. Mrs. Farenthold is the only Democratic candidate who is an attorney and the only one who has been talking reform since 1968. "Sissy" is the 'den mother of the dirty thirty,' a coalition of liberal legislators who helped expose the wrongdoings of Mutscher, Smith and Barnes.

What is Sissy Farenthold for? She is for a strong ethics bill; she is the only Democratic candidate to publish the amount and origins of her income. Sissy is for strong governmental controls on beach and stream pollution. Sissy has a perfect AFL-CIO voting record. Sissy wants to place students on the college boards of regents. But most of all, Francis Farenthold is for honest government.

We students have the vote. Lets stay in Commerce on Saturday, May 6, and elect a governor who will be a credit to Texas, Francis Farenthold.

To The Editor:

We would like to raise some questions concerning criteria for editorial approval of articles which appear in The East Texan. We feel that a number of important cultural activities have been overlooked by the student body, and that this phenomenon is

In an earlier game this spring the students scored a victory.

INDEPENDENT LEAGUE

Horns Take Softball Title

By Jim Andrews

The Horns, behind the three-hit pitching of Dennis Carpenter, defeated the Delta Sigs, 16-3, for the independent fast-pitch championship.

Darrell Penny led off the game for the Horns with a double and scored on an error on the throw from the outfield. Randy Lanier, Dennis Carpenter, Joe Dempsey, and Keith Hambry singled, and Ken Jantz doubled to produce the Horns' five runs in the first inning.

In the bottom of the first, the Delta Sigs countered with a run. Kevin Louvell reached first base on an error and scored on a single by John Johnson.

The Horns scored twice in the second inning on a single by Clanton, a double by Lanier, and a single by Dempsey, which drove in Clanton and Lanier.

In the third inning, Hembry led off with a single and Jantz and John Sweeny walked to load the bases. A single by Penny, a triple by Clanton, and a double by Lanier accounted for five runs.

Tony Interrante singled to open the Delta Sig half of the third, and he scored on a double by David Thompson.

The Horns added four runs in the fourth as Sweeny and Penny singled and scored on a single by Lanier. After Carpenter walked, Lanier scored on a single by Dempsey, which moved Carpenter to third. Carpenter then stole home.

Mac Feuer singled to open the bottom half of the fourth for the Delta Sigs and scored on a single by Interrante, after Lovell was hit by a pitch.

The fifth inning was scoreless, and the game was called at the end of the fifth, because the 10-run rule was invoked. The rule states that the game is over if, at the end of five innings, a team is ahead by ten or more runs.

Carpenter was the winning pitcher for the Horns, and Thompson was

SWT Bobcats Lead Race For LSC Sports Trophy

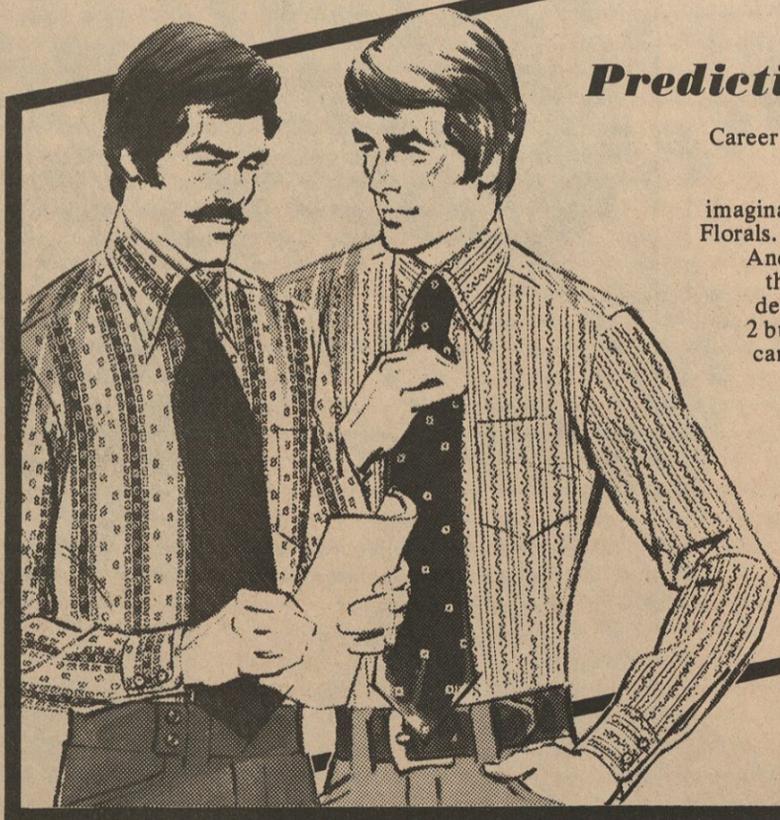

Southwest Texas State University is the leader in point totals for the Lone Star Conference All-Sports Trophy.

The LSC awards the trophy on the basis of finish in the five conference sports—football, basketball, track and field, golf and tennis.

SWT's Bobcats have scored 35 points with a football co-championship and a third place finish in the basketball race. Second with 30 points is Texas A&I, a third place finisher in football and a fourth place finisher in basketball. Others are Howard Payne, 28; Sam Houston, 27; Angelo, 26; S.F. Austin, 24; East Texas, 21; Sul Ross, 11; and Tarleton and McMurry, 9 points each.

In the major sports—football, basketball and track and field—the place of finish is worth twice as many points as the place of finish in the minor sports—golf and tennis.

SFA, Angelo LSC Favorites

By Kenneth Brazzle

Survival will be the ET Lions' main task when the Lone Star Conference Track and Field competition gets underway at 4 p.m. today in Memorial Stadium.

ET's only listing in the LSC statistics come in the 440-yard dash and 440-yard relay. The Lions have a third place in conference standings in the 880-yard relay but the 880-yard relay is not a LSC event.

Field competition could provide a strong showing for the Lions. ET has top listings in the triple jump, shot put, discus, and pole vault competition.

"According to the current conference ratings we should finish about fifth, but the point spread will be extremely close. A few upsets in certain areas could change the team finishes completely," said Bill Hardage, assistant track coach.

The Lions finished ninth in the LSC track and field tourney last year.

Angelo State and Stephen F. Austin are the top favorites in the LSC meet. Angelo could be a slight favorite over SFA since the Rams have strong showings in the track events among conference teams this season.

East Texas

Track coach Delmer Brown and his squadmen will have a lot of pushing to do if ET is expected to compete in some of the track events. ET, who has been unimpressive in the track events this season, may field their strongest competitor in the 440-yard dash. The Lions are weak in the 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, and 880-yard run. Coach Brown's squad has failed to produce a single time mark in the LSC listings in those events.

Craig Manning, a freshman from Kaufman, is the only Lion trackster listed in 440-yard dash. Manning has run a 49.0 in the event, which is good enough for sixth place in LSC marks.

Ed Latimer senior team co-captain said, "Josh Owusu should win both the triple jump and the broad jump be enough to make everyone else in the conference jump off second place in these events."

Latimer, a two-year letterman, will be entered in the 100-yard dash, mile relay, and triple jump competition. He has the third best triple jump in conference standings this season, with a 43-3. Latimer also ran a 10.2 in the 100-yard dash, which was the best by an ET trackster in that event all season.

Wayne Rucker will be counted upon to provide ET with good marks in the pole vault and javelin competition. He is listed as the No. 4 man in the pole vault standings. Rusker has a vault of 14-6½.

Greg Cronholm carries the fourth best mark of 54.6 in the 440-yard medium hurdles into the LSC meet. Mike Fields follows Cronholm in the listings with a time of 55.3.

Field events could provide the most points in the meet for the Lions, since Jon Washington and John Mayo are listed among the top performers in their event.

Washington has the second best toss in the discus throw, with a mark of 158-4. Mayo has the fourth best with a mark of 154-10. In the shot put event Mayo and Washington are third and fourth, respectively. The two have put shots of 51-0 and 49-9.

Angelo State

Joshua Owusu could make Angelo State a slight favorite in the LSC meet.

Angelo coach David Noble will be depending on Owusu, who was voted the outstanding field performer in the meet last year, for first place points in the long jump, triple jump, and the high jump as well as a member of the 440-yard and mile relay teams.

Owusu, a sophomore from Ghana, won the first triple jump in LSC history a year ago with 50-11½, but the wind disallowed the mark as a meet record.

K. O. Okyir, also from Ghana, leads the conference in the 100-yard dash, with a 9.4. He is tied for first in the 220-yard dash, with a 21.3 clocking. Okyir equalled the conference record of 9.4 in the 100-yard dash. However, that time was wind aided, and Okyir recently has been bothered by injuries.

Angelo has the best time in the 440-yard relay, with 41.5.

McMurry

Rickey Parris, winner of two indoor NAAI pole vault titles, and one outdoor NAAI title, will be one of the top attractions for McMurry in the LSC meet.

Parris set the LSC record at 17-0½ a year ago. His best this year has been 16-9. Injuries have slowed Parris this spring.

The Indians also have Doug Robinson the current leader in the mile run. Robinson has a top time of 4:11.0 this season.

Stephen F. Austin

The Lumberjacks have to rate as one of the favorites in the conference's track division. SFA has top times in every track event except the mile run and three-mile run.

Jesse Allison and Tim Whitfield are two Lumberjacks listed in the top ten of the 100-yard dash. Both Allison and Whitfield have times of 9.7 in the event.

Three SFA sprinters are mentioned in the 220-yard dash and 440-yard dash statistics. Allison has a 21.8 in the 220, while Whitfield and Charles McManus each have 22.0 in the event.

One of the top performers is Ricky Briton in the 440-yard medium hurdles. Briton has the second best time in Texas this spring, with 51.6. The LSC record is 52.3.

Howard Payne

The Yellow Jackets are strong favorites to capture the distance track events.

Billy Fordjour from Ghana, will head HP's long-distance runners in the three-mile and mile run. Fordjour has the best time in three-mile run this season of 13:57.6 and the second best mile run of 4:11.1.

Fordjour may receive competition in the three-mile race from teammates Jim Heerwald and Doug Chaney, who are listed second and third in conference marks for the event.

Wayne Hatcher and Mike Murphy will be two other top performers for the Yellow Jackets. Hatcher heads the list in the 880-yard run, with a time of 152.6. Murphy is the shot put leader with a toss of 57-9½.

Buddy Ward will be out trying to outjump Jeff Janke of Southwest Texas State for the high jump title. Ward is tied with Janke for the conference lead in the event, each with jumps of 6-6.

Sul Ross

Sul Ross, defending LSC track and field champs, features one of the outstanding runners in the conference in Jackie Harvey.

Harvey, who is the defending LSC 220-yard dash champion, will be entered in the 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, and 440-yard dash. Harvey has times of 9.5 in the 100; 20.9 in the 220; and 48.5 in the 440.

The Lobos have two strong competitors in the javelin throw in Rick Thorson and Ysabel Duarte, listed as No. 2 and No. 3 in the conference. The duo have throws of 198-4 and 191-9, respectively.

Texas A&I

Texas A&I's best bet for points may come in the field events, with Eldon Tuttle and Tom Argubright. Tuttle has provided the LSC with the longest javelin throw this season of 205-10. Argubright is top man in the discus category, with a 164-4.

Tommy McMillion is second only to Briton of SFA, in the 440-yard medium hurdles, with a time of 53.6. David Weathersby is the leader in the 120-yard high hurdles. Weathersby has a clocking of 14.1 in the event.

Team-wise A&I has top billing in the sprint medley and second in the 880-yard and 440-yard relay.

Southwest Texas

Like ET and A&I, Southwest Texas State's strong events may come in field competition.

Syd Gilzow, who placed third in both the shot put and discus at the LSC meet last year, is SWT's top attraction in the field category. Gilzow is second in the shot put standings, with a toss of 57-1 and third in the discus competition with a 156-3 throw.

Teammates Alan Moore and Scott Emerson could give Paris of McMurry, a battle in the pole vault event. Moore and Emerson are listed as the No. 2 and No. 3 man in that category.

Jeff Janke is the high jump leader in the conference with a 6-6 leap. Janke also runs the 120-yard high hurdles, posting a time of 14.8.

Charles Estill established himself as the LSC favorite in the 440-yard dash, with a clocking of 48.2 in the SWT meet last week. His time is the best in the conference this spring.

Sam Houston

Sam Houston has three men ranked in LSC comparative time and distance statistics, the highest a sixth place. Lynn Sultemeir has heaved the shot 48-0½ for the sixth-place ranking. Ron Carroll has tossed the discus 145-4 for a seventh position, and the Bearkats' 440-yard relay team is ranked last, with a 44.0 time. Earlier in the spring, SH finished last in a quadrangular meet in Commerce.

Money Is Real Problem For ETs Married Students

By Bobby Templeton

Money is a problem with most college students, but it is an even more critical problem for married and graduate students who no longer are dependent on parents for financial support.

With 3,379 married and 2,249 graduate students, or 42 per cent and 28 per cent, respectively, in an enrollment of 8,003 for the spring 1972 semester, ET statistically comprises a large portion of students in tight money situations. Most of these students, however, manage to meet monthly expenses through the help of the ET Financial Aids Office and through various jobs.

Jerry Lytle, director of financial aids, said National Defense and Texas Opportunity Plan loan programs are the loans most widely used by married students. He said about 35 to 40 per cent of the some 2,200 students who secure loans are married and/or graduate students.

The financial aids director said, "We have experienced a tremendous growth in our office as a result of the increased number of graduate and married students." In the past year the Financial Aids Office has taken on two new programs, the Institutional Loan Program and GI benefits. This brings the total number of major loan programs to eight.

H. B. Dodson, Commerce junior, was married about a year ago and has experience the financial "pinch" of married life. He said he works 37 hours a week at a gas station to add to his TOP loan money to pay the monthly bills. In addition to his job, Dodson is carrying a full load of courses.

The real problem faced by married students is the addition of children in the family budget. Joe and Pat Wetzel are one such couple who must make the budget provide for three persons instead of just two. Wetzel said the only income he, his wife and child have is from his 48-hour a week job at a local discount store. Both Wetzels are students, with Joe taking two graduate courses and Pat taking three undergraduate courses.

The cost of married students for all expenses varies with each couple, but the average expense is about $1,000-1,200 for a semester depending on living quarters and size of the family, according to the families interviewed.

Lytle said the major problem faced by most married students is to qualify for an independent status for the different loan programs. He said federal qualifications for a married couple to prove independence from parents include three guidelines. These guidelines are: (1) No more than $200 a year may be received from parents or friends for financial aid. (2) Students cannot have lived with parents for more than four months a year. (3) Parents cannot have claimed students on income tax returns for at least one year.

"Most married students are unable to fall under these guidelines because gifts from parents usually amount to more than $200 a year," Lytle said. "It is hard to prove, however, that students have received such gifts," he added.

Some students have thought of ingenious methods of bringing in extra money. One such student, Evie Harper, teaches twirling lessons to girls in the Commerce area. The only other means of support she and her husband, Jim, have is a monthly GI benefit check.

Another way approximately 440 students save money is to live in university housing. With apartments priced as low as $49 a month, including utilities and telephone, campus housing is desirable for married students. Dr. H. Don Pope, director of university housing, said, "Waiting lists for married housing are always long. About 150 students alone are on our temporary summer housing list." He added that only about 75 openings are available in the temporary housing.

Being an independent graduate student is as much of a problem as being married. Mary Young, Trent graduate, is having to work full-time in the ET Records Office while working on her master's degree. She will have added financial troubles when she gets married on May 21 because she will have to quit her job as her future husband, John Rhodes, has a summer internship in Dallas. They will return next fall to complete work for their degrees.

Although the number of married and graduate students at ET with financial troubles is great, the money problems can be minimized by a combined effort of the Financial Aids Office and the initiative of students to work.

Last Job Interview Set

The last scheduled job interview for this semester will be conducted Tuesday, May 2, at the Student Placement Center, located on the first floor of the Student Services Building.

An Ennis school representative will be on the ET campus looking for qualified teachers for kindergarten, grades one through four, sixth grade language arts, sixth grade math, seventh grade reading, ninth grade physical science and high school chemistry.

Opera Film Scheduled

The opera "Boris Godounov" by Modest Mussorgsky will be shown on film at 7:30 p.m. Monday, May 1, in the Journalism Auditorium, according to Dr. Ellis Sandoz, head, Political Science Department. Admission is free for the film, sponsored by the ET Political Science Department.

Latin Banquet Changed

The Latin banquet scheduled for Friday, April 28, has been changed to a picnic at 1 p.m. Sunday, April 30, at the City Park, according to Dr. Paul Barrus, English faculty. Those attending will be members of Dr. Barrus' Latin class and their guests.

Campus-Wide Evaluation Set

For the first time ET students campus-wide will have the opportunity to evaluate both their instructors and courses.

Dr. Jerry Morris, dean of Admissions and Records, said the questionnaire which will be given by each instructor during the week of May 1-5, is a way of letting each student candidly evaluate both course and instructor.

Morris said the questionnaire will consist of opinion questions concerning each course and the way the instructor both prepares and presents the material.

According to Morris, the questionnaires will be distributed to each department head, who will see that they are distributed to each student during class periods.

Each instructor will either select a student to administer the questionnaire or the class will select someone within the class to be in charge of the evaluation.

When completed, the questionnaire, which takes about 20 minutes to complete, will be collected and placed in a sealed envelope and delivered to the department head.

The questionnaire will not affect a student's grade, because it cannot be examined by either the instructor or anyone in the department until final grades have been turned in, Morris said.

IUC Explores Feasibility of Bibliographic Network

An exploration into the feasibility of establishing a computer-based bibliographic network among the Inter-University Council schools is the purpose of a special meeting of the IUC of the North Texas area to be held today at Southern Methodist University, according to Dr. William Highfill, library director.

Attending the meeting will be Donald Kerr, chief cataloger; Miss Frances Jones, acquisitions librarian; and Dr. Highfill.

Fred Kilgour, executive director of the Ohio College Library Consortium, will serve as consultant for the meeting.

According to Highfill, OCLC is a bibliographic network which is operational and includes memberships of approximately 25 Ohio colleges and universities. This network allows for the exploitation of the benefits of centralized processing including cataloging, and the implementation of borrowing between OCLC libraries.

Representatives from each of the 14 IUC member schools which include Austin College, Baylor Dental College, Bishop College, Dallas Baptist College, East Texas State University, North Texas State University, Southern Methodist University, Texas Christian University, Texas Wesleyan College, Texas Woman's University, The University of Texas at Dallas, The University of Texas at Arlington, University of Dallas, and the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School, will be represented at the special meeting.
