New Miss Texas Visits ET

By Beulah Gilbreath

In her first official appearance after winning the title, Miss Texas 1971, Janice Bain, told girls attending a charm school sponsored by the ET Music Department that the most important thing to remember in entering a pageant is "to be yourself." Miss Texas spoke at 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. in the Bluebonnet Room of the Student Center.

The 5-foot-7, blue-eyed brunette as Miss White Settlement was crowned Miss Texas Saturday night in the Tarrant County Convention Center Theater in Fort Worth, after winning the talent division of the pageant in Friday night's preliminary competition. Her talent number was "The Kiss Waltz" from the opera "Il Bacio." Miss Bain had also won the talent division in the 1970 pageant, when she entered as Miss Denton.

She said she followed the advice of Phyllis George, who won the 1970 Miss Texas title and went on to win the Miss America pageant. Miss George set an example by entering the pageant two years in a row.

Miss Bain added that she did not think all future winners of the pageant must be competing for the second year. However, she said that the first year is one of total excitement. "Everything is exciting, even the luncheons you attend. The second year you know what to expect."

"Of course, my second year certainly turned out to be more exciting," Miss Texas commented with a grin.

Miss Bain spoke to the charm school's 15 girl participants—ages 12 through 17—about entering pageants. She gave the girls a description of what a pageant means to her and tried to "prepare them for the outcome, whether they should win or lose."

Also for entering pageants, she instructed the girls in walking, turns and posture.

Commenting about the feeling of losing, Miss Bain said, "I've never felt totally defeated. I was always able to bounce back, whereas some girls are depressed for weeks after losing a pageant. It's easier to lose if the woman who wins is better qualified." As an example Miss Bain told of her feelings of losing to Miss George. "Phyllis is beautiful, with a wonderful personality and an abundance of poise and charm, plus she is intelligent. After she won the Miss America pageant it was hard to feel bad about losing to her."

Miss Bain said that she entered the pageant primarily for the $2,500 scholarship to Texas Christian University. She will also receive a $3,000 wardrobe and a $500 fashion award.

She said the most important prize was the scholarship. "Now I can go to school on my own." Miss Bain, a music major who has been attending North Texas State University, will transfer to TCU for her senior year.

Although she said most women probably enter the pageant for the scholarship, she added, "A girl can't enter a pageant without learning something. She gains the experience of competing with other girls. This sense of competition helps prepare you to meet the problems of the world."

In comparing this year's pageant with last year's she said the atmosphere of competition seemed more noticeable this year.

Miss Bain said she and her chaperone, Mrs. James N. McMahon, soon would begin shopping for her wardrobe to carry to the Miss America pageant in Atlantic City in September. She said she will choose a fall wardrobe. In discussing the various hem lengths, Miss Bain said she preferred regular street length or hot-pants to the midi length.

Although Miss Bain knows Miss George from the previous year's pageant and from attending NTSU with her, she will not be able to receive personal coaching from her before leaving for the week in Atlantic City since Miss George is leaving for a United Services Organizations (USO) tour in Vietnam. However, Vera Neilson, her voice coach at NTSU will continue to help her prepare her talent presentation throughout the summer.

The charm school to which Miss Texas spoke was directed by Jan Hollingsworth, an ET graduate who teaches first grade in a Houston elementary school.

The girls were instructed in modeling, pageantry, make-up application, hair styling, choosing accessories to compliment their clothes, social graces, exercise and figure control and modern dancing.

Fox Named New Coach

Bobby Fox, an All-America quarterback at ET in 1955, has been named as an assistant football coach at ET, according to Athletic Director Dr. J. J. Hawthorne.

The 36-year-old Fox, who led the 1954 and 1955 Lion teams to Lone Star Conference Championships, succeeds Bradley Mills, who resigned in March. Fox will coordinate ET's defense.

Fox has coached 15 years. He began in 1956 in his hometown of Kaufman. In 1959, he moved to Texarkana Junior College where he spent three years as an assistant coach and four years as head coach.

One of his prospects at Texarkana was Richard Houston, who later starred at ET and now plays flanker for the professional football New York Giants.

After the Texarkana Junior College football program was discontinued, Fox spent three years as an assistant coach at Tarleton State College and two years as an assistant at West Texas State University.

The two-time All-LSC performer received a bachelor of science degree from ET in 1956 and a master of education degree from ET in 1962.

He is married to the former Peggy Bankhead of Commerce, and they have two children, Kevin, 9, and Mel, 14.

Bookstore Prices Fair to Students?

With tuition and building use fees going up at ET, complaints about book prices will probably become louder and more commonplace this fall than ever before.

However, if a student gets upset about the resale value of his textbooks he should take care to direct some of his epithets at the National Association of College Stores instead of solely at the University Bookstore.

According to Jack Winn, manager of the bookstore, the association recommended what he refers to as the "80 per cent method" for the University Bookstore as they do for several other members of the association.

He added that all of the college bookstores he is familiar with use the 80 per cent method or the 75 per cent method, as recommended by the NACS.

Under the 80 per cent method a book costing $8 new would cost 80 per cent of that total used, or $6.40. The bookstore buys back the book at one half of whatever the present retail price is. If the book is selling at $8.50 the bookstore will buy it back at $4.25.

Under the 75 per cent method the $8 book would sell used for $6 but would only be bought back at one half of the used price, or $3.

Winn pointed out that use of the 80 per cent method allows a student to use an $8 book for $2.40 a semester if he buys it used and sells it back. The 75 per cent method would cost $3 per semester for the same book. He said that the original costs are determined by the publisher.

Winn explained that the bookstore only buys back books during the last two weeks of every semester in order to cut down on thefts. He said that in the first year of operation, 1963, the bookstore bought back books all year and subsequently books were stolen all year.

Now, at least, Winn claimed, students get to use their books most of the year until the stealing season comes around. Furthermore, it allows the bookstore to conduct a concentrated effort to catch the culprits, according to Winn.

Do not go to the East Texas Bookstore on Lee Street expecting a better deal. The manager, Ray Zeanah, uses exactly the same formula as the University Bookstore.

The only difference in prices would probably come as the result of an overstock of a particular book. In such a case Zeanah said that he would make an appraisal of the situation and might buy back books for less than the 80 per cent formula calls for. He added that a book that is no longer used by any classes would probably be bought back for half of what the book would cost used. In other words, a discontinued book that normally sold new at $8 and used at $6.40 would only be bought back at $3.20 instead of $4, as the 80 per cent method dictates.

Zeanah also only buys books back during the final two weeks of a semester.

'Melon Festival Set

The Student Center will have a "Watermelon Festival" from 6:30 to 11 p.m., Thursday July 22, on the east lawn of the Center, according to George Maguire, Student Center program director.

Maguire said that the free festival is open to students and faculty members and entertainment will be provided.

SC Movies Selected

The "Sterile Cuckoo" and "The Bank Dick" will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, July 18, in the American Ballroom of the Student Center. Admission will be 50 cents.

"The Bank Dick," starring W.C. Fields, Franklin Pangborn, Grady Sutton and Una Merkel, is centered around the "hero" (Fields) who captures a bank robber and is rewarded with a job as a bank detective.

Pool Open at Night

According to Dr. William Crabtree, health and physical education department, the swimming pool will be open in the evenings beginning Monday, July 19.

The pool will open at 6:30 p.m. and close at 8:45 p.m. Monday through Thursday for the remainder of the semester. This is being done to allow faculty, students and their families to use the pool as their time allows, according to Crabtree.

Each faculty member and student must present an ID card before being permitted to swim; members of the family must have a note from their parents in order to gain admittance. There will be one life-guard on duty.

PROPAGANDA POSTERS from World War II line the library wall. Dr. William Highfill, director of the University Library, put the posters up in commemoration of National Nostalgia Week. The posters were left from the 1940s when ET was a War Information Center for much of Hunt County and the East Texas area. The posters will be taken down today. 2,747 Books Borrowed

A total of 2,747 publications were borrowed from other libraries by ET graduate students and faculty members through the interlibrary loan service of the ET library between 1965 and 1970, according to Mrs. Diane Sauce, assistant reference librarian in charge of interlibrary loans.

During the same period the ET library lent out 535 publications requested by students and faculty of other universities and colleges.

Mrs. Sauce reported that transactions were heaviest in the areas of history, English, and political science.

Items most frequently in demand are theses and dissertations, journal articles, newspapers on microfilm, and monographs.

International Night Set

The annual International Night, sponsored by the Student Center, will be held from 7:30-8:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 20, in the Founders Lounge of the Student Center, according to George Maguire, Center program director.

Maguire said that the night is set aside for international students and American students to associate and get to know each other. He said that the persons participating will be served refreshments and may play free games in the recreation area of the Center.

Ag Teachers Build Trailers

Twenty-one area high school vocational agriculture teachers constructed two stock trailers in three days during a Trailer Construction Workshop during the week of July 5-9 at ET.

In assembling the two trailers—a 20-foot goose-neck and a 14-foot tandem—the teachers employed welding, assembling, cutting, wiring and painting skills.

Workshop instructors were Dr. A.C. Hughes and Dr. Charles Jones of ET; R. J. Smith of Royce City and Joel Barton, a welding specialist from the Texas Education agency.

Regents Look at Budget

The ET Board of Regents met at 2 p.m. Thursday, July 15 in the Braniff Conference Room at Dallas Love Field.

The major agenda item was consideration of the 1971-72 operating budget.

Cadets Receive Awards

Three ET AFROTC cadets received awards during the first session of Air Force summer camps at March Air Force Base, Calif.

The Commandant's Award, which designates the most outstanding cadet at his summer camp, was presented to James Howell, Omaha, Tex., junior. Howell, selected the top of approximately 200 cadets, was judged on attitude, military bearing, appearance, and general performance.

The Vice Commandant's Award, which designates the most outstanding cadet in his flight at a summer camp, was awarded to Tim Butto and John Nevins, both ET juniors from Wichita Falls.

Graduate Honored

Miss Francis Reasonover, ET graduate, was part of a unit recently honored in Washington, D.C. as recipient of the U.S. Department of Agriculture Superior Service Award.

Miss Reasonover and two other women represented the Expanded Foods and Nutrition program staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. These three unit specialists are members of the American and Texas Home Economics Association and have served on both national and state committees within Extension and the Governor's office to improve Extension's educational nutrition program.

FACULTY NOTES

Music Articles Published

Several articles by Dr. James E. Richards, head, Music Department, will be included in the sixth edition of Grove's Dictionary of Music and Musicians, which is now being prepared.

The articles include topics about French composers and French sacred music of the late Baroque Period. The ET Music Department head will concentrate particularly upon those large choral and orchestral works known as "grand motets" that dominated the sacred music scene during the reign of Louis XIV.

The articles are an outgrowth of research Dr. Richards began for his doctoral dissertation. He extended and expanded his research recently through a faculty research grant from ET.

The grant enabled him to continue his work in 24 European libraries during the summer of 1969.

As a result of his studies in Europe, the music department head had purchased what is believed to be the only complete collection of "grand motets" in the world. These are now being accumulated on microfilm for the University Library.

Dr. Richards will also have published another article related to his European research in the Music Educators Journal.

Lambert Publishes Article

Dr. Howard B. Lambert, math faculty, has written an article which appears in the latest editions of "Pacific Journal of Mathematics," an independent research journal.

The article, titled "Differential Mappings on a Vector Space," is the result of research Dr. Lambert conducted at ET. It discusses the concept of a derivative normally studied in freshman calculus.

Dr. Lambert, who holds a Ph.D. from Texas Tech University, a master's from Louisiana State University and a master's from West Texas State University, joined the ET faculty.

Lewis Elected President

John W. Lewis, geography faculty, was elected vice president of the Faculty Senate for 1971-72 at a may meeting. Elected to the Executive Committee were Dr. William C. Adams, Dr. R. L. Bidwell, Dr. Robert G. Munday, Dr. Trezzie Pressley, Dr. D. Arlington Talbot and Dr. Grady G. Tice. Dr. L. D. McNew was elected parliamentarian. Dr. Richard Meyer, vice president, Academic Affairs, serves as president of the Faculty Senate.

Byrd Appointed Judge

Dr. James W. Byrd, English faculty, has been appointed a regional judge for the National Council of Teachers of English Achievement Awards program for 1971.

Judging committees, composed of English teachers from colleges and high schools, will evaluate the writing skills and literary awareness of nearly 7,000 selected high school students in their junior year.

Bryant Attends Conference

Mrs. Rita S. Bryant, elementary education faculty, will be on the program at the conference of the Texas Association for the Improvement of Reading, July 15-16.

The seventeenth annual conference will be held on the Stephen F. Austin University campus.

Mrs. Bryant will be an interrogator following an address by Dr. Jo Stanchfield of Occidental College. Mrs. Bryant organized the reading conference and served as chairman for two years.

Pan Am Team Looks Good

ET head basketball coach Jim Gudger reported that his United States Pan American team is "going pretty good" in preparation for Pan American Games in Cali, Colombia, July 29 through Aug. 12.

Still bothered by his team's lack of experience in international basketball competition, Gudger does seem pleased with the team's talent and depth.

"Jim Chones is tough," said Gudger in describing the 6-11 center from Marquette. "He could be one of the best basketball players in the country next year. The thing that impressed me most about him is the way he works. He has a real good touch for a big man."

University of Houston sophomore-to-be, 6-10 Dwight ones, is another big man getting Gudger's attention. Gudger testified, "He can do it all. He can go into any level of basketball and hurt anyone."

Another Texan 6-8 Jim Forbes of University of Texas at El Paso, "could be the soundest forward in camp. He's probably the purest shooter among the big men, and he's only a freshman," Gudger said.

The Pan Am team worked at the Oral Roberts University in Tulsa, Okla., July 5-9. The squad then played the Denver Rockets Saturday, July 10 in Denver and returned to Tulsa for four more days of workouts.

Wednesday, July 14, the team went to Vancouver, B.C., for an international tournament. After the tourney, the Pan Am team goes to Miami, Fla., before going to South America. The assistant coach of the U. S. team is John Bach of Penn State.

Don't judge our book by its cover. Locusts are a lot less expensive than they look.

Propaganda Posters Line Library Walls

By Guy Ames

In order to commemorate National Nostalgia Week, July 3-10, Dr. William Highfill, director, University Library, has lined the walls of the library's north lobby with World War II propaganda posters.

"You can help to build me a gun," comments a soldier in battle greys in one of the posters.

In another a familiar Uncle Sam says, "I need your skill in a War Job."

One poster has this plea from a housewife—"Make this pledge: I pay no more than top legal prices. I accept no rationed goods without giving up ration stamps."

All of the above appeared on posters during WW II. "They called it 'war information' then; we call it propaganda now," Highfill said of the posters.

He explained that during the war ET, then East Texas State Teachers College, was designated War Information Center for much of the Hunt County area.

Some 200 such posters are housed in the library and have not been displayed since the war was over.

In addition to the posters, ET received booklets and pamphlets from 110 different issuing agencies. The agencies range from the Alabama Policy Committee to the Zionist Organization of America.

The pamphlets take up a pasteboard box about three feet long, one foot wide, and one foot deep. Included are food and fuel ration tickets used by civilians during the war.

Miss Opal Williams, library staff, was here when ET was the information center and recalled that all duplicates of the "information" publications have since been destroyed but that one copy of each publication remains stored in the library's Special Collections Room.

Conscience Helps $ Return

There are times when the conscience begins to bother everyone. Which is, or was the case of Nancy Marlowe, Paris junior.

Miss Marlowe applied for a T.O.P. loan from the financial aids office at ET and was granted the money. When she picked up her $165, so she thought, she was given an extra $100 bill at the same time, according to Susan Pruett, Longview senior, Miss Marlowe's roommate.

It seems the extra $100 bill was stuck to another, which caused the mistake and Miss Marlowe's conscience to act as it did.

Anyway, Miss Marlowe stood the agony as long as she could and finally returned the $100 bill to financial aids. The man who took the money back told Miss Marlowe "I wish I could give you some kind of reward," according to Miss Pruett.

Ecology Club Plans Trash Pickup Sunday

The Ecology Club will sponsor a bicycle ride-trash pickup-picnic beginning at 10 a.m. Sunday in front of the Student Center and ending at the Commerce City Park, according to Jim Miller, president.

Thursday the club investigated the Commerce sewage treatment plant to determine its efficiency. Results were not available at press time.

Miller announced at the Monday meeting that plans for the club-sponsored "bottle drops" are almost completed. He said that he is now seeking official approval of the project, which consists of providing some sort of container for no-deposit bottles in the major buildings on campus, urging students, faculty, and staff to use the containers, and collecting the bottles and selling the glass to Dr Pepper Co. in Dallas.

Miller explained that the bottle drops would accomplish a two-fold purpose — recirculating what would be potential ecological hazards and making money in the process.

The Sunday trash pickup will be conducted on and around the campus. Participants will work their way toward the city park where a picnic will be held. Following the picnic, plans call for a bicycle hike around Commerce. Miller said that each participant should bring his own sack lunch. Bags for the trash will be provided.

Miller said that if enough aluminum cans can be collected they will be taken to the Alcoa redemption center in Dallas.

The sewage treatment plant investigation was conducted by Dr. John Chambers, biology faculty and club moderator, and several club members. The investigation was to determine whether the plant had a sufficient number of cleaning stages for a city the size of Commerce, according to Miller.

Plans to take bacteria and chlorine counts of the city's water supply had to be dropped because of lack of equipment.

At the July 5 meeting club members sent letters to national political leaders urging their support against four Alaskan natives' claims bills now before Congress. Becky Kilmer, chairman of the projects committee, explained that passage of any of the four different bills would indirectly allow construction of the Aleyeska pipeline, which is considered ecologically dangerous by many ecologists.

The letters were sent to President Nixon, Sen. John Tower, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, Sen. Henry Jackson, Rep. Wayne Aspinall, and Rep. John Saylor.

Miller reported that two more restaurants, the Pizza Inn and the Lions Den, have complied with the club's request to stop using plastic straws.

$600 Stereo Stolen

A $600 stereo unit was stolen from Room 209 of the Music Building during the weekend of July 3-4, according to Sgt. Max Clay, ET security officer.

The unit, which belonged to the Music Department and included turntable and speakers, was reported missing at 3 p.m. July 4.

No one has been arrested in connection with the crime.

Clay reported that the Security Department arrested an ET student last week who had a stolen bicycle in his possession. He has not yet been officially charged.

Clay said that an unusually large number of tickets have been issued recently to students who have been parking in areas marked for visitors. He also warned that cars should not be parked in the striped zones in the parking lot behind the Industrial Arts Building.

Gudger Announces Signings

Head basketball coach Jim Gudger has announced the signing of seven players to letters of intent for the 1971-72 basketball season.

"I think the recruiting has been fairly successful. We are still looking for one more man. The recruiting is not over and we are talking with several other prospects who could possibly help our program," Gudger said.

Four of the recruits are from junior colleges. They are 6-2 junior guard Greg Alexander of Bee County Junior College and Michigan City, Ind.; 6-6 sophomore forward Ken Williams of Bee County Junior College and Texarkana; 6-6 junior forward Billy Stewart of Panola Junior College and Lafayette, La., and 6-6 junior forward Bill Bryan of Lon Morris Junior College and Centralia, Ill.

From the high school ranks are 6-0 guard Michael Wilson of Chicago, Ill.; 6-4 guard Dale Reed of Liberal, Kans, and 6-10 center Bruce Kerr of Des Plaines, Ill.

Among the returnees from the 1970-71 Lion team, which posted a 5-20 record, are 6-3 guard Jim Vander Poel, who averaged 17.3 points a game as the team leader; 6-8 forward Bob LaFavers, who averaged 14.9 points, and 6-7 forward Barry Wilson, who averaged 7.9 points.
