ET Chooses 37 For Who's Who

Thirty-seven ET students have been named to the publication Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges for 1973-74.

For a student to be named to Who's Who, he must have a 2.75 grade average and must complete at least 60 hours of study. Students are nominated members in each department of a school, and there no limitations on the number that can be nominated.

Those who receive the award are chosen by an election committee of about 30 faculty members and 30 students chosen by the president of the United Students Association.

IRHC Liquor Survey Response Favorable

An Inter-Resident Hall Council survey regarding liquor in private rooms of residence halls which was conducted at Whitley, Smith, Berry and Hubell Halls is being evaluated in the Housing Office, according to Darlene Ewing, Inter-Residence Hall president.

Initial results of the survey showed 68 per cent of the students who responded were for allowing liquor in resident hall rooms, 21 per cent against, and 11 per cent no opinion, Sue Zschoche (pronounced Chucky), director of women's housing, said.

Because additional surveys have been returned to the housing office, all surveys will be recounted and divided by halls, Ms. Zschoche said.

The written proposal in conjunction with the survey would allow liquor in private rooms only, but not in lounges or public areas in the residence halls, similar to the situation at the University of Texas, Austin, Miss Ewing said.

The basis for the proposal is that students consider the residence halls home and since 18-year-olds are now adults by law, liquor should be allowed in private rooms, Miss Ewing explained.

Ms. Zschoche said ramifications regarding the proposal are being studied in the housing office, and she expects to make a recommendation within two weeks.

The proposal would next go to Dr. Don Pope, director of housing, and Dr. Bob Butler, dean of Student Life.

Senate Approves Cabinet Members

Eddie Garcia, USA president, had all five of his proposed cabinet members approved by the Student Senate in the senate's meeting Wednesday night.

The senate also approved two nominees for the supreme court and the nominees for comptroller and administrative assistant presented to the senate Wednesday, Oct. 24.

Robert Walker, nominee for attorney general; Henry Garland, nominee for secretary of internal affairs; J. L. Earley, nominee for secretary of research; Freddie B. Orr Jr., nominee for secretary of state, national and international affairs; and Lynn D. Schoelerman, nominee for secretary of academic affairs, were presented to the senate by Danny Reid, chairman of the rules and judicial committee. Each nominee met with the approval of the senate.

Wednesday, Oct. 24, the senate questioned Judy Gaut and James R. Moore, nominees for the supreme court, Gary Watterson, nominee for administrative assistant and Vicki Palmer, nominee for comptroller, but no action was taken.

Robert Mansker, graduate senator, finished his questioning of Palmer in this week's meeting and the senate approved her appointment as comptroller. It then approved the other candidates.

In other action the senate defeated a resolution that would "endorse the concept" of ET playing football games on nights other than Saturday or Sunday, and approved a resolution giving senate approval to the concept of a one-hour academic course in student government. If approved by the administration, the course will be offered to all students and credit will be received.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

SFA Backer Criticizes Lion 'Fans'

Dear Coach Hawkins,

I really don't know how to word this letter, but I'll try to make my point clear.

I'm a Lumberjack backer all of the way, win or lose, so I was at the game between the "Jacks" and your team Saturday. Yes, we won and I was very happy, but I was very disappointed in your fans for the treatment they gave your quarterback. I'm not lucky enough to have a son playing football, but it would break my heart to see a son of mine receive such treatment as that kid did from your fans Saturday. I'm 30 years old and that is the first time I have ever seen a college team booed by their fans. I know your quarterback had some terrible bad breaks and he did make mistakes, but he did not deserve to be booed by his "fair weather" fans. With fans like that he doesn't need enemies. That kid has good days as well as bad ones just like everyone else. They should be for him when he is losing as well as when he is winning. He didn't need those boos Saturday, he needed their support. I couldn't help hoping he would grab that ball and show those stupid people what he could really do, even though I am a Lumberjack fan.

I thought it was very poor sportsmanship when one of your cheerleaders got on the mike and told our band to stop playing, but when your fans booed your team it was simply disgusting. My heart went out to your quarterback and his team. I only hope the team didn't hear those people. I think the people of Commerce owe those kids a public apology, especially that quarterback. God knows we know what losing is, we have been there a long time, but I have never heard our fans boo our team even though we have some of those fans that like to make their smart remarks too.

Coach Hawkins, you may think this letter out of line, but I thought you should know we fans of the "Jacks" thought you and your boys needed more respect than you got from your fans. I feel better just letting you know that there are people who care and respect kids that are out there trying in the game of football, no matter win or lose.

(From A Lumberjack Fan)

Comments by Sport's Editor Jake Sandlin

Head Football Coach Ernest Hawkins received this letter after the Lions' 49-20 Homecoming loss to the Lumberjacks of Stephen F. Austin, Saturday, Oct. 20. He let us borrow the letter and asked if we could run something about it.

The letter, unsigned, from a "Lumberjack fan," concerns the "booing" of ET senior quarterback Will Cureton and the Lion team during ET's loss to SFA. The discourtesy to our team from the "fairweather fans" at the game was not a mark of sportsmanship and certainly not a mark of support or respect. It did not impress a few of the Lumberjack fans, obviously.

If there was, also, a discourtesy to our guests by an ET cheerleader ("one of your cheerleaders... told our band to stop playing"), that cheerleader, or a head cheerleader, could slightly redeem our school's uncalled for action with a note of apology.

ET fans seem to have forgotten that many of this year's players were members of last year's conference and national championship team. They were not booed when they won it all last season, and not capturing a second consecutive national title is no basis for disrespect by their fans—the ones they play for and look to for support.

The Lions have a home game Saturday, against Sul Ross, and another against Tarleton, Saturday, Nov. 17. The team wants and needs, cheers, not boos. Hopefully, fans agree, and visitors will remember our support, not our spite for the team that represents us.

To The Editor:

It has come to our attention that ETSU has partially neglected its duty in the fight against pollution. Many of us enjoyed the Homecoming festivities on the weekend of Oct. 20 and attended the Homecoming football game against Stephen F. Austin. As a result of this football game the usual mountain of litter, trash, garbage, rubbish, or what ever you prefer to call it remained in the stadium and surrounding parking lots as a solemn reminder. The problem is that this reminder has remained, and remained and remained! At the time this letter was written this grossness had lingered over an eight-day period. It stands to reason that at least part of this litter in our stadium has or will find its way to the rest of our campus and community. We respectfully submit that those responsible for cleaning up after football games have been neglectful in their duties and should be more prompt. If no one is officially responsible, then we suggest that the United Student Association address itself to solving this problem. The sign on the north side of our Student Union implores us "to help beautify our campus." We feel this to be a step in the right direction.

Miffed at the mess,
Steve and Helen Smith

To The Editor:

The purpose of this letter is to bitch about the total apathy that exists on and in the campus of East See LETTERS, Page 6

Derby Day Questioned

Last week the members of Chi Omega, social sorority, could have caused Sigma Chi Derby Day to be cancelled this year if they had gone along with two other sororities who wanted to drop out, according to Melanie Blakely, Chi Omega president.

Instead there was a Panhellenic meeting with members of Sigma Chi, social fraternity, to work out a few compromises. The main objections the women had toward Derby Day were two events, the limbo and pushball. Any spectator at these two events can verify how degrading they are to the women.

According to Roberta Whitener, Office of Student Development, the Sigma Chis were "very nice about the objections and substituted two other events in their place."

However, the Chi Omegas called James Roberts, Derby Day chairman, Monday, Oct. 20, and announced they would not be participating in it this year. It is the contention of Chi Omega that Derby Day does not benefit anyone except the Sigma Chis, Miss Blakely said. Other women sororities contend that throughout the preparation for this year's Derby Day the Sigma Chis showed little regard for their (the sororities) feelings about it.

Perhaps this Derby Day fiasco will serve as a remainder to re-evaluate the validity of upcoming events. Surely a fund-raising project can be found that is more in keeping with dignity of the Greek system than some of the events imposed on the women sororities at Derby Day.

in the American Ballroom of the Student Center, according to Wanda Taylor, AKA member.

The show is open to anyone on campus who wants to participate. Advanced tickets are $1 and $1.50 at the door, Miss Taylor said.

First and second trophies will be awarded for individual and group acts.

Concert To Feature 15th Century Music

Music from the fifteenth century, along with other classical pieces will be presented in the ET Chamber Singers free public concert at 8:15 p.m. Monday, Nov. 5, in the Music Concert Hall.

Under the direction of Charles Nelson, music faculty, the choir will present a modern premier of the parody Mass "O gloriosa regina mundi" written by the Papal singer Jehan Vincenet during the third quarter of the fifteenth century. The piece has not been performed in more than 500 years.

The Mass forms part of the complete works of Vincenet being edited by Dr. Bertran E. Davis, music faculty, for publication in the American series "Recent Researches in the Music of the Middle Ages and early Renaissance." According to Davis, the independence of the different melodic lines in the polyphony of the Mass reminds one of the layers of sculptural ornamentation which was a normal feature in the construction of the Gothic cathedral.

In the mid-fifteenth century, polyphony was normally realized by not more than 10 singers, including boy sopranos, the "cantores pueri" of Papal record. Most of the singers in the chapel were priests, or men training for the priesthood, who composed the polyphonic music sung by the choir. The performance will include instrumentalists' playing violin, Renaissance flute, recorder, and klahorn, all of which were prevalent during this time.

In addition to the Vincenet Mass, two other liturgical works will be presented by the Singers, The Slazburg Mass, K. 192, of Mozart, and the Stravinsky Mass of 1948. According to Nelson, "Stravinsky wrote this after studying some of Mozart's Masses which he felt were 'rococo-operatic sweets of sin.'" The Stravinsky Mass is a chamber work for singers accompanied by woodwind ensemble.

LSC PREVIEW

Title Race Whittled To Three

Attempts to capture this season's Lone Star Conference title have failed for all but three teams with three weeks of action remaining.

Co-leaders Abilene Christian (6-1-0, season, 6-0 LSC) and Howard Payne (7-1-0, 6-0) are way out in front of the remainder of the conference and appear headed for a showdown Saturday, Nov. 17, in the season finale for both teams in Abilene.

ACC takes on Tarleton (1-6-0, 1-5-0) at 7:30 p.m. in Stephenville. Wildcat Wilbert Montgomery will be after the LSC's 21-year old scoring mark of 114 points set by ET's Marvin Brown in 1952 and matched by Southwest Texas' David Morrison in 1967. The freshman tailback has 110 points in six games, scoring 18 touchdowns and one two-point conversion.

HP hosts Southwest Texas (3-4-0, 2-4) at 4 p.m. in Brownwood. The Yellow Jackets are second in LSC total defense, giving up 162.1 yards per game, and lead in scoring defense, allowing 9.9 points a contest. SWT tops the conference in both offensive and defensive rushing, gaining 220.4 yards per game to its opponents' 143.7.

The other team with an outside shot at the LSC crown is Angelo

State (4-2-2, 4-2), the league leader in total defense, allowing 155.5 yards per game. ASU challenges Stephen F. Austin (5-3-0, 3-3) at 2:30 p.m. in Nacogdoches.

Other games slated for Saturday are Texas A&I (1-6-0, 1-5) battling Sam Houston (1-6-0, 1-5) at 2:30 p.m. in Huntsville; and ET (4-4-0, 3-3) hosting Sul Ross (3-4-0, 3-3) in a 7:30 p.m. battle in Commerce.

ET Hoping for Home Win

By Jake Sandlin

After dropping its last two games in Commerce, ET is out to restore home crowd confidence Saturday, as the Lions return to Memorial Stadium at 7:30 p.m., to do battle with the Lobos of Sul Ross in a Lone Star Conference clash.

Destroying their home victory streak of 12 games with consecutive losses to Abilene Christian and Stephen F. Austin, the Lions (4-4 season, 3-3 LSC) will attempt to snap its two-year losing string to the Lobos (3-4, 3-3) and to regain its domination in the SR series, which ET leads 15-5-3 at present.

"They (Lobos) have got a typical Sul Ross ball club," Lion head coach Ernest Hawkins said earlier this week. "They have a real aggressive team with a good offense and a good defense. They hit hard and play hard, very representative of the typical Sul Ross team that has beaten us the last two years."

The Lobos spoiled ET's dream of an undefeated LSC season, nipping the Lions, 15-14, in Alpine last season. Two years back, SR knocked off the Lions, 21-6, after ET had defeated Southwest Texas, then the nation's No. 1 team, the week before.

"I would think that their beating us the past two years will give us added incentive to win this year," Hawkins continued. "I hope so, anyway."

The Lobos had their troubles last week, losing 38-22 to the Lumberjacks of SFA, and giving up 507 yards in total offense. ET, meanwhile, was downing Southwest Texas, 28-14, after suffering a 49-20 thrashing by SFA the previous week.

"The kids came back and played well," Hawkins said. "They wanted to win and worked hard all week. It wasn't our best game because we still made mistakes we shouldn't have."

"I was real proud of the way they played," Hawkins added. "I believe that a team that continues to work hard will continue to improve. If our guys continue to work hard they will continue to improve, and we will have a chance to win the rest of our ball games."

The Lion offense had improved for its struggle with SWT, suffering only two turnovers during the game and clawing its way through the LSC's best defense against the rush, gaining 210 yards against the Bobcats. Heading the ET attack were junior tailback Craig Powell and senior quarterback Jack Frampton, in his first starting role in two seasons.

"We felt we had some mistakes on offense and turnovers that we could not afford, so we decided to make a change, hoping to cut out the turnovers," Hawkins said of the choice of starting Frampton over regular quarterback Will Cureton. Frampton hit seven of 10 passes for 109 yards and threw a 21-yard touchdown pass to split end Dudley Slice.

Powell did most of the damage on the ground, running for 175 yards in 39 carries and scoring twice, to take over the conference rushing lead, with an average of 94.4 yards per game.

"Craig has always had the potential of a very fine runningback but hasn't been getting the blocking he needed to show his ability," Hawkins said. "He was hurt in the first ball game and missed one game because of the injury, so he had a slow start. He's always been a fine runningback, though, and we've considered him all along to be one of the top runningbacks in the conference."

Lobos ranking high in LSC statistical departments are wide receiver Billy Byrd and defensive back Jerry Neel. Byrd is third in the conference pass-catching category, with 27 receptions for 494 yards and four touchdowns. Neel is the second leading pass thief in the LSC, picking off four passes with 21 yards in returns.

IN DISTRICT MEET

ET Women Play for Title

By Holly Cooper

ET's women's varsity volleyball team, along with eight other teams, will participate in the Texas Commission on Intercollegiate Athletics for Women District II Tournament today and Saturday in Fort Worth. The double-elimination tourney will be held on the Texas Wesleyan College campus.

Beginning play at 4:15 p.m. today against Texas Women's University, ET will advance to the winners' bracket with a win and to the losers' bracket with a loss.

Other than ET and TWU, teams participating in the tournament are Midwestern University, Tarrant County Junior College SE, The University of Texas at Arlington, Abilene Christian College Metroplex, North Texas State University, Southern Methodist University and Texas Wesleyan College.

Lion volleyballers clobbered ACC, 15-0, 15-0, 15-2, and 15-0, in a home match Thursday, Oct. 25. Becky Strane took high point honors in the first game, with six points, and Sara Irving led scoring in the second game, with six points.

Sandy Small topped ET scorers, with six points, in the third game, while Linda Loftin led the Lions to victory in the final game by scoring 10 consecutive points.

Miss Irving's four points led ET to a 15-11 win in the first game against TCJCSE, Oct. 30, at Whitley Gym. Debbie Ryburn's seven points paced the Lions to a 15-12 win in the second game.

ET's second squad split wins with TCJCSE in the final two games. TCJC took a 15-8 win in the first game as Connie Hammonds led ET scorers with four points. The Lions reversed the score with a 15-8 win over TCJC. Peggy Clarke's eight points was high for ET in the second game.

Linebacker Addy Injured

Sophomore linebacker James Addy underwent knee surgery Tuesday morning and will miss ET's remaining three games, according to head coach Ernest Hawkins.

The 6-0, 190-pounder from Simms suffered torn ligaments in his right knee during the Lions' 28-14 victory over Southwest Texas State last Saturday. Addy made four unassisted tackles and caused two fumbles against SWT before being injured.

Addy had started at weakside linebacker since the second game of the season.

Texas State University.

Why? Almost every person on this unresponsive campus lacks even the slightest amount of interest in what goes on in this university. If you think we're kidding about the apathy try to think back on your instructors. Take a look at the rampant juvenile pettiness existing our powerless puppet of a student government if you think the students have any say in what goes on.

The administration and faculty of East Texas State University instigate and perpetuate the general state of apathy that exists on this campus. An example that stuck out like a sore thumb recently, was the lack of interest shown by students, faculty, and administration in the Homecoming activities. The faculty failed to announce or support the bonfire and torchlight parade, the administration would not support or provide equipment, and the students made no outraged cry of indignation when the fire marshall from security demonstrated his superb lack of fire fighting expertise by trying (numerous times) to put out the bonfire almost immediately after it was started.

The responsibility for this apathetic state rests on whom? Since the students are itinerant, the faculty should make the main attempt to carry on the traditions of pride, integrity and honor. Where else does responsibility for the carrying on of these traditions rest, than on the faculty and administration to whom we look for our support and guidance? Where is the so-called Faculty Senate?

But is the student body so transient that it is entirely unable to carry on those basic traditions? Should we expect organizations like Alpha Phi Omega and Gamma Sigma Sigma to carry on the back-breaking tasks of building bonfires that the administration will not support or encourage and to organize and develop parades students don't watch (but which all the so-called traditionalists insist on)? This is typical East Texas status quo.

Where do we, the student body, stand? Does anybody really care?

All the departments are so involved in their own pragmatic egos so that they do not bother to pull together to make ETSU recognized as a unit. This university should not be a bunch of unrelated parts, but should have something unique about it as a whole.

Where is the Faculty Senate? Are you offended by this? If so, then maybe you are part of the problem.
