East Texas State Programs To Be on Air at Different Time

East Texas State Teachers college is on the air at a new time three days each week with a series of summer programs via Radio Station KSST, Sulphur Springs.

Thirty-minute broadcasts now originate each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday from Ferguson auditorium at 8:45 a. m., Dr. Frank Young, acting dean of faculty, has announced.

An effort to improve the quality and appeal of East Texas State's radio show also has been launched, Dr. Young said.

"We are attempting to design our programs to render a public service from educational, informational and entertainment viewpoints," he said.

Dr. Young said the best in both student and faculty talent is being sought to insure East Texas a highly rated listener audience.

"As we are aware that few radio programs can stand up without outside help," he said, "we are doing promotional work on our own part to obtain the greatest possible benefit for our time and work."

Trio Is Discovery

Dr. Young said that East Texas State's Lullaby Trio, described as the most outstanding radio discovery this year in East Texas, has been scheduled for a 15-minute program each Tuesday at 8:45 a. m.

The trio is composed of Boll Sorrells of Honey Grove, former New England night club singer, Joe McKenzie of Commerce and Homer Holt of Shreveport, La. Sorrells also accompanies at the piano.

East Texas State News service will be on the air at 9 a. m. each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday with a summary of campus news up to the moment, interviews with local personalities and features from the East Texan and the New Varsity magazine.

Staff members of the new service and campus publications will compile and edit the news broadcast under direction of J. Garland Smith, head of the department of journalism.

Photography Lab Gets New Rooms, New Improvements

Remodeling of the photography laboratory began this week with numerous improvements being made.

Dr. W. W. Freeman, instructor, announced that two small rooms are being constructed in the large rooms.

"This remodeling will enable more persons to work in the lab at the same time," Freeman said. Tony Martin, a student, and a 1940 ET graduate, are contributing their time to this construction.

When completed, the photography laboratory will consist of two rooms for film development, separate rooms for contact enlargement printing, a daylight room for chemicals and a reloading room.

"Since only one course is scheduled for the summer term, senior and graduate students will have first choice of taking the course," Freeman said.

Freeman has purchased a new enlarger which will be added to the laboratory during the summer semester.

"All we need now to have a modern photography lab is a larger fan," Freeman stated. "The one we have now is too small to produce satisfactory results."

Completion of the laboratory is expected this week.

New Marine Squad Headed by ET Grad

Captain William A. Sparkman, Jr., USNCR has been assigned as Commanding Officer of the Marine Ground Control Intercept Squadron 20 in Dallas.

Sparkman, a graduate of East Texas State, will be in charge of the newly organized Marine Radar Squadron at the Naval Air Station in Dallas. Sparkman's home is 1322 Chestnut Street Commerce.

Publication of Locust Is Delayed; Students Wait in Anticipation

Students at East Texas State Teachers college waited painfully the week for the 1947 Locust.

And, according to information obtained by Editor Virginia Mason in Fort Worth, there's more waiting ahead.

All of the yearbook has gone to press. Forms in the office of the printers are locked. Press cylinders are turning over and over.

As of Friday 250 man hours stood between the first and the last Locust press run.

The printers, however, were still unable to promise a definite delivery date.

Precisely how many actual hours will be required to wedge in 250 man hours is impossible to determine, stated the printers, because the labor situation is more unstable than ever before.

From the printers the unbound Locust—14 sections and 16 pages each—must go to the cover company in Dallas for binding.

Cover for the Locust was designed and printed last March in Dallas.

Business Manager Bill Campbell stated that copies of the yearbook will be delivered to all persons who have paid required deposits.

"Copies will be mailed to all of these persons who do not call for them at our special office in the mural room in the Main building," Campbell said.

It is important that all persons who intend to be away for the summer leave their correct home mailing address with the publications office, he said.

Employed at Taft

Charles B. (Pee Wee) McHaffey will be employed with the Coastal Bend Grain Company at Taft during the summer months. A sophomore student, he will return to ET next fall.

They sing by Ear

Trio Makes First Appearance at Plantation

A negro waiter heard three voices harmonizing in a men's room at the Plantation, notified the band leader and in a few minutes, the trio made its debut.

This is the story of the beginning of the "Lullaby Trio," composed of Bill Sorrells, Honey Grove, Homer Holt, Shreveport, and Joe McKenzie, Commerce.

It all began while the three boys were attending a Marpessa function at the Plantation, May 7. As the evening progressed, the three fell like harmonizing so they stepped into the wash room to avoid disturbing anybody.

A negro waiter overheard and told Glen Henry, orchestra leader, of his discovery. Henry, in turn, asked the boys to sing that night.

Appear on KSST

From there, the boys began a series of appearances on East Texas State's radio programs originating in Ferguson auditorium three times a week via KSST, Sulphur Springs.

The trio's rehearsals are strictly informal with curly-haired Bill Sorrells lastly chording the piano while lean and lanky Homer Holt, and smiling Joe McKenzie sing alone.

LIFE GUARDS AT NEW POOL. . . . Roy Hendrix, Birmingham, Ala., Leon Batchelor, Dallas, will spend the summer looking after swimmers in Commerce's new natatorium which opened Sunday.

Bathers Are Safe

Hendrix, Batchelor Guard Swimmers

East Texas State bathing beauties may swim in the new Commerce natatorium without fear of drowning!

Recently hired to save swimmers from the perils of deep water are Roy Hendrix, junior physical education major, and Leon Batchelor, junior industrial education major.

Mack Cayce, superintendent of the pool emphasized the fact that swimmers may feel perfectly safe as the life guards will be on duty from 2 p. m. until 10:30 p. m.

Experience in Navy

Both boys have had previous experience in the navy as swimming instructors and life savers. Hendrix has been an instructor of swimming for seven years.

Before going into the navy, he taught swimming at the Birmingham Athletic club, YMCA and various city pools in Birmingham.

While in the navy, the soft-voiced Alabamian taught survival to naval air crewmen at Stanford University, Cal. for three months. He was also a life guard at Pensacola, Fla. during his navy career.

Hendrix went through the aquatic school of Adolf Deiffer, American backstroke champion at Bambrade, My. He also worked Tuesday morning as 1500 students in Ferguson auditorium halted to listen to the broadcast.

Singing entirely by ear, the boys use hit song books, occasionally changing parts on certain songs and ad libbing when they see fit.

Sorrells had previous experience singing in New England night clubs from February to August of 1946, but the other two are comparatively new at this crooning business.

Trio Selects Theme

Theme song for the young trio is "We Three." Such songs as "Someday I'll Meet You Again," "Shanty Town," "Lazy River," and "I'm in the Mood for Love," are rapidly finding a place in their repertoire.

Although musically inclined, none of the boys is majoring in music. Sorrells is majoring in history, Holt is majoring in physical education, McKenzie is majoring in mathematics.

Aim of the trio is to get a sponsor and have a regular radio program of their own, although the plan is just in the budding stage.

"We don't entertain any thoughts of getting rich off such a program," Joe said, "but it would be nice to have cigarette money!"

Narrow Streets May Prove Serious Hazard As Traffic Increases

Commerce's narrow streets may seriously bottleneck campus traffic this summer when an expected 500 commuters seek space for their automobiles, on Lee and Monroe streets and on the campus drive.

College officials and local citizens in general have expressed concern over the lack of adequate facilities to accommodate the tremendous influx of automobiles.

Added congestion will be caused by approximately 50 to 100 cars belonging to construction workers on Blinn hall.

Long an irritation to ETSTC drivers, the thoroughfares now may possibly become a real hazard, campusites believe.

"A city that can build a swimming pool, a new recreation project, and install modern parking meters, must be financially able to widen its streets," Carol Robnett, graduate student, stated.

"These latest installations are progressive accomplishments for a city. It is inconsistent that its streets should be so antiquely constructed."

Near-accidents were numerous this week, especially on Tuesday and Wednesday when nearly 2000 students registered for summer school.

When cars are parked on either of the streets, it is impossible for the entericly busses to pass through. The "No Parking" signs allowing parking only one side of the street are really enforced, and if enforced, cause added inconvenience to commuters who walk several blocks from their cars to classes.

Various plans are being proposed to remedy the hazard. Some suggest that the college grant the land for the street-widening if the city does the construction work.

Goolsby Accepts Position

Jackie Goolsby, former society editor of the East Texan, has recently accepted a position in the advertising department of the Texarkana Gazette.

Miss Goolsby is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. Aaron, 1215 Orleans, street, Texarkana, Ark.

Most Students Are School Teachers And Vets; Males Outnumber Females

Eight-hundred and 97 men and 860 women, most of them veterans and public school teachers, scrambled for housing and classroom seats here today as the summer enrollment at East Texas State Teachers college reached 1,757 at noon Wednesday.

President Arthur C. Ferguson said he expected the total enrollment to approximate 2,000 when final registration is completed. Pre-registration was scheduled to close at 4 p. m. Wednesday. Classes were to begin at 7:15 a. m. Thursday.

Commerce, with its 4,500 population, has felt the strain of its largest transient population since Pearl Harbor, Dr. Ferguson said, but elaborate postwar improvements have enabled both East Texas and the city to meet the emergency.

New Students Are Pleased with ETex College and Campus

Students making their initial appearance on the East Texas State campus show pleased expressions, despite the fact that they have just completed the dreaded job of registering.

Many students, just out of high school, numerous transfers and ex-students officially entered ET this week.

"I wouldn't think of going anywhere else," said pretty, brunette Ellen Kate Cox, a Commerce High school graduate. Miss Cox, who lives at 2209 Bryn-ard Street, plans to major in home economics.

Harold Simmons, a math major from Golden, states that he finds East Texas State to be just as he wanted.

ET Like Home

"ET is like home; there are so many people and a number of buildings," said Max Campbell, a graduate of Buckner's Orphans Home in Dallas, Campbell, a math major, lives at 2308 Campbell Street.

Dark-haired, friendly Margaret Lou Turner, a transfer from TSCW, says that "ET is certainly a swell college." Miss Turner, a sophomore, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Turner, Daingerfield.

"I like it here; it's friendly," says Gary Curtis, a sophomore transfer from NTAC, Curtis, a graduate of Mineola High school, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Curtis, Mineola.

Good College

Ida Sue Baskin, a freshman from Martin's Mills, states that this is a good college. Miss Baskin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Baskin, lives at 1816 South Park Street.

"It is really a very nice place," Frank Rholes Jr. said. Rholes is a Mineola High school graduate, majoring in business.

Arlin Patterson, a commuter from Greenville, believes he is going to enjoy school here. A math major, Patterson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Patterson, Greenville.

Blond Jean Sharp, a Commerce High school graduate, thinks the ET campus is an extremely nice place." Miss Sharp, who lives at 2313 South Bols D' Arc, plans to major in home economics.

New Policy Adopted For Library Fines

A new policy about library fines will be adopted beginning with the summer semester, Miss Opal Williams, head librarian said today.

"If a person owes a library fine, he will not be allowed to check out a book to be used outside the library until he pays the fine," she stated. "He will, however be allowed to use any book within the library," she said.

According to Miss Williams, this policy is already in use in many colleges and universities. It has already been adopted in several of the teachers colleges in Texas.

Construction of 71 veteran hutments and apartments has alleviated the housing problem, he said. Some students, however, are commuting from as far away as 50 miles.

New and improved eating places downtown and on the campus will accommodate an almost unlimited number of patrons, Dr. Ferguson pointed out.

East Texas is sponsoring a summer recreational program in cooperation with Commerce municipal swimming pool and Lake Fannin, Lake Davy Crockett and Bonham State park in Fannin county, he added.

Streamlined Program

East Texas State also has streamlined its academic program to meet the demands of accelerated education for veterans and public school teachers.

Observers point out that more and more teachers are seeking bachelor's and master's degrees because of salary increases which accompany such achievements.

Special workshops designed to promote realistic and practical classroom instruction, are being conducted for teachers of exceptional children. Spanish as Texans can apply it and elementary music education.

East Texas State's program for exceptional children, acclaimed by educational leaders throughout the nation for its aggressiveness and insight, is a series of seminars and field trips designed to show teachers how to instruct 15,886 handicapped minors in Texas.

Compton Will Teach

Miss Mary Compton, professor of education for handicapped children at Alabama college, is supervising the lectures, field trips to the Texas Society for Crippled Children in Dallas and laboratory work. J. E. Franklin and Myrtice Pledger are assisting.

Physical education swimming classes for both men and women are being offered for the first time at East Texas State in the municipal natatorium. The pool was opened June 1.

A hospital and a music hall, constructed from government surplus property, are expected to be completed at the end of the first six-week summer session July 14.

Music Workshop Will Function in Summer

The Music department, under the direction of Mr. Chester N. Channon, will conduct a music workshop for elementary school music teachers during the summer semesters, Miss Louise Turner has announced.

"This is the first time we have offered this type of instruction," Miss Turner said, "but we will offer it each summer in the future."

Miss Grace Patton, music instructor in the Training school will present classes of children for observation for members of the workshop group.

Better Food May Be Obtained for Serving in College Cafeteria

Students may enjoy better food this summer, Mrs. Coma Leewright, dietician, said today.

"The food situation looks a little better," the kindly dark-haired, cafeteria manager said, in stating that she would put out "every effort to secure, good, wholesome food."

"People see certain foods in grocery stores and wonder why we don't serve them here," she said. "They seem to forget that food has to be brought in by the truck, and not by the case," Mrs. Leewright continued.

The short, energetic dietician thought it possible that the cafeteria would be able to get sliced pineapple and cocoanut, two varieties in the past, this summer.

Meal prices for one six weeks are: one meal, $22; two meals, $36.50; three meals, $44. Tickets for these meals may be bought at the business office.

People other than college students will pay thirty-five cents for lunch, and dinner.

The cafeteria has been thoroughly cleaned and fumigated since last semester, Mrs. Leewright said.

Students employed at the cafeteria are Howard McMillan, cashier, Lou Bullock, Jane Horten, and Peggy Kieffer.

Other students will be added as they are needed, Mrs. Leewright said.

Miss Muriel Jean Gipson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dewey Gibson, 1812 St. John, Greenville, became the bride of Roger Kimberlan Arnold, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Arnold, of Sulphur Springs, in a double ring ceremony held Friday at 7:30 p. m. in the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Jack Monrie, pianist, played "Oh Promise Me," and Miss Claudine Cook sang "I Love You Truly." Mrs. Monroe played "At Dawning" during the ceremony and the traditional wedding ceremony and were used.

The couple pledged their troth

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a powder blue dressmaker suit of summer weight wool crepe fashioned with full push-up sleeves. Her Milan straw hat was trimmed with a navy bustle bow and navy veil and her accessories were navy and white. She carried a white Bible ornamented with gardenias and showered with stephanotis and for something old she wore an heirloom brooch belonging to her maternal grandmother.

H. C. Cheek, Jr., Sulphur Springs, attended the bridegroom as best man and the candles were lighted by Harold Arnold, brother of the bridegroom, and Jack C. Mason.

It has been demonstrated that under intense heat, and in the presence of oxygen or air, the carbon in a diamond unites with the oxygen and the gem burns itself into a black, worthless crisp.

Smith Has Own Ideas

BY BETTI WAYNE TRAPP

Some like 'em tall, some like 'em dark, but this week, we like 'em small and blonde—a la Celia Smith.

The blue-eyed elementary education major knows what she likes too. The pertinent facts on her favorites are: the color blue, fried chicken, semi-classical music, football, and casual clothes.

On the subject of entertainment there's nothing like the wide outdoors, according to Celia. But if your entertainment is confined to the inside of four walls, "playing cards is a wonderful pastime," she says.

Friendliness is the quality in people that the beguiling native of Paris admires most of all. It also happens to be the trait she likes in East Texas men.

Hitting a sour note, Celia says, "the boys here are too critical of girls who are supposedly their friends, and their conversation around them is anything but pleasing."

This lover of crowds and excitement intensely dislikes two-faced people, the ever present funny guy, squeaking doors, getting up early and squash.

In Miss Smith's opinion, the five men on this campus, "most appealing to coeds," are Harold Watkins, Kenneth Quesenberry, Johnny Grann, Gene Hale, and Osborne Amburg.

Vital statistics on this week's pin-up cutie included a five feet two inch stack of "wim, wigor, and Witality," complete with a 32 inch bust, twenty-two inch waist and 36 inch hips.

Miss Foshee Weds Louis Stevenson, Jr.

The marriage of Miss Marjorie Foshee, daughter of Mrs. Alpha Foshee, 2215 North Fitzhugh, Dallas, and the late C. J. Foshee, to Louis C. Stevenson Jr., took place May 31 at the home of the bride's brother, Clinton J. Foshee, 5223 Denton Drive. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Stevenson, Rockwall. The Rev. Foy Thomas officiated.

Given in marriage by her brother, the bride wore a pale-blue afternoon dress with white accessories and carried a white orchid bouquet.

Attendants were Miss Elizabeth Clemons, maid of honor and Mitchell Smith, best man.

The bride and bridegroom will live in Commerce. Mrs. Stevenson was graduated from Sunset High school and attended NTAC, where she was a member of the Sans Souci club. Mr. Stevenson, a graduate of Rockwall High school, is now attending ETSTC. He is a former member of the 17th Airborne Division in the United States and the First Airborne Army in the European theater of operations.

Elizabeth Ann Yeager Becomes Bride Of Frank Jefferson Phillips, May 27

Miss Elizabeth Ann Yeager, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Yeager, Greenville, and Frank Jefferson Phillips, II, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Phillips, Greenville, were married Tuesday evening, May 27, at the First Baptist church, Greenville.

Dr. Ray Summers of Fort Worth performed the ceremony.

Triple white arches marked the length of the aisle and were entwined with Southern Similax and caught to the pews with bouquets of white gladioli and huckleberry.

The bridal party passed under the arches toward the altar of Woodwardia fern trees as a background for three white arches which were decorated with Southern Similax and white tapers.

Following one year in the Army Medical Corps he entered East Texas State, where he is now a student.

The couple will make their home in Greenville.

Town Softball League Starts Next Week; Knight Park Field Being Put in Top Shape

Opening date for the city softball league is tentatively set for next Tuesday according to park director Mack Caise.

Work is now being done on the diamond and with its completion play will begin on the Knight Park field. Lights are being set now and the infield reconditioning is drawing to a close.

Guy Harrison, East Texas State senior from Stephenville, is recreational director, and at the present time he has six teams definitely lined up to play in the city softball league. Play will get under way next week and will continue until approximately Sept. 1.

Teams will play twice a week under the lights. The park directors said a schedule will be set up so that every team in the league will play two games a week regardless of the number of teams entered. If necessary, Harrison said two leagues will be organized to take care of all of the teams.

Teams that have asked for admission are Buddy's All-Stars, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Woodmen of the World, Alexander's Sheet Metal, Bennett's All-Stars, and the Chestnuts. Several college boys will be seen in action on these teams with two of the teams, Buddy's All-Stars and the Chestnuts, being made up entirely of college players.

Harrison said any softball team that would like to enter should contact him and they would be welcomed to the league.

The park directors expressed faith that a good brand of fast softball will be offered at Knight Park this summer. With the large number of male college students enrolled at East Texas State, the director expects many of them to participate.

The field will be in good condition for the opening games. Sand has been worked in the infield and the lights adjusted to make it a tiptop softball diamond.

Tuesday night has been designated as opening night if work on the field is completed in time and at the present it is expected to be finished.

Former Lion Gridder On Summer Faculty

Perry Fite played 30 minutes of the first football game he ever saw.

From that day back in 1925 until now, the game has been number one in the life of the retired coach and former East Texas State grid star who is a teacher at Crozier Tech in Dallas and a member of the summer faculty at East Texas State this year.

Perry lettered five years at East Texas State and captained the team in 1923.

"That was back in the days when the desire to play the game and the know how to keep from getting your neck broke were the only requirements for a college football player," he said.

Lived in Cabin

Fite lived in a cabin on the corner of Lee and Campbell streets with Frank Morgan, who captained the Lion team in 1921, to finish his education at East Texas State. Old Lion fans remember Perry as one of the roughest toughest gridsters they have ever seen on an East Texas field.

Perry had to interrupt his education to go to Linden where he taught and coached his first football team in 1924. "It wasn't a high school team, just a little old ringer team made up of high school boys, but we had a lot of fun," he said.

Fite was graduated from East Texas State in 1926 and went to Dallas to teach drawing in grade school. He went on to Texas A & M to finish his master's degree in 1932. It was this same year, 1932, that Perry went to Crozier Tech in Dallas as line coach. He was named head football coach there in 1935 and coached the Wolves to a state baseball championship in 1938.

The good-natured sports enthusiast was named head coach at Tech High in 1940 and served in this position until his retirement in 1946.

While coaching at the Dallas High school, Fite helped the Wolves to the state finals in 1933, and to three city championships in 1934, 1935 and was head coach of the 1945 city champs.

ET is First

Fite earned a master's degree from A&M with a major in industrial education. He also majored in industrial education at East Texas State.

Although his education was more advanced at A&M, Fite declared proudly, "For me, it's East Texas State first, last and always in all things."

Fite's missionary work admittedly is one of the paramount reasons East Texas State carries weight in Dallas county.

Carpenter Accepts Scout Director Job

Coach Darrell Tulley's 1947 basketball team took a setback last week when Richard Carpenter, senior from Cumby, left school to accept a position as field director for the Boy Scouts in the Hugo, Okla., district.

Carpenter, a two year basketball letterman at East Texas State, was one of the standout players on the third place Lone Star Conference team last year.

Last Season Leaders Struggle to Hang on

Last season's leaders in the professional baseball world are hesitating about entering the first division this season.

The biggest surprise of the season as yet is that the world champion St. Louis Cardinals are in the cellar in the National League race. The Redbirds were picked to repeat their last fall's performance.

The Cardinals, noted for their hot weather performing, have a winning percentage of a little over .400.

In the American League Boston and Ted Williams Inc. are trying to stay in the first division. To date last year's AL champs have won only half their games. The Detroit Tigers, with-run king Hank Greenberg, are setting the pace in the junior circuit. Paul (Dizzy) Trout, Fred Hutchinson and Hal Newhouser, a twenty-six game winner last year, are displaying good hurling for the Tigers.

In the Texas League, Dallas, winner of the Dixie Series, is slowly joining the leaders. Hank Oana, who has been absent from the Rebels line-up since the opening inning of the season, returned to the mound Monday night to pitch a four hitter as Dallas out-classed Oklahoma City 9 to 2.

Bob Moyer, TL home run leader last year, has hit a slump at the plate. The Detroit owned first sacker has hit only three homers and is batting only .280.

Johnny Lipon, a shortstop on loan from the Tigers, has proved to be the number one shortstop in the league with his excellent performances with the Rebs.

Track Stars Will Run Big Six Conference

In the Dallas High school stadium on the night of June 13, the Southwest Conference and Big Six conference all-star trackmen square off in what promises to be one of the all time great track meets in the southwest.

With favorable weather, stars from these two conferences are expected to be down near record time in several events.

The mile run with little Jerry Thompson of Texas and Bobby Ginn of Nebraska running against each other is picked to be the thriller. In regard to times for the event, Ginn ran a 4:19.3 in his conference meet while Thompson did a 4:20.4 in the Southwest conference affair.

The Big Six conference boasts of a good hurdler in Floyd Gaultney of Missouri who won the high hurdles in their meet in a respectable time of 14.7. Winner in the Southwest was Ralph Scott of Arkansas.

Checking of conference meet results, the Big Six has the edge in the field events and the boys from the southwest rule the running events. Scofield of Kansas set a new Big Six high jump record with a 6 feet 7 5/8 inch jump and in the broadjump the distance neared 24 feet.

In the sprints, the Southwest conference is a one, two, three,

Classy Baseball Offer ed At Greenville Park By Rampaging Major s in State Loop Race

BY JOE CALVIT Sports Editor

To those of you who are new at East Texas State and to those who have been here but haven't seen the Greenville Majors play this season, there's some mighty fine baseball being unveiled at Phillips Field in Greenville when the Majors are home.

Right now they are home and the fans who were out to see the games Monday night were presented two of the finest games played there this season. The Majors took a 3 to 2 decision from the Texarkana Bears in the first game but Lefty George Milstead lost a tough 10 inning 1 to 0 affair in the finale.

Smooth Infield

The Greenville nine has about the smoothest working infield in the league with Harry Davis coming up with more than his share of hard hit ground balls at first base. Davis is an oldtimer and the skipper of the Majors. The shortstop, Vince Battle, is a little hefty fellow who you wouldn't think could handle a hot grounder hit to either side of him at all but just watch opposing batters try to hit one by him and see how many he throws out at first.

In talking with several fellows who have seen the Majors play this season, nearly all think that the fellow who has the best possibilities of going higher in pro baseball is the big left fielder, Dean Stafford. You've heard of Charlie Keller's build. Well, take a look at Stafford the next time you are at the ball game. He powers the ball through the infield and hits quite a few long drives.

Littlejohn Makes Good

Here's a brief notice that Jimmy Littlejohn is playing shortstop for the Sulphur Springs Eagles and is doing ok. Sunday he banged the ball up against Sulphur Springs' distant left field fence for a double. To those of you who don't know Jimmy, he was one of the Lions' better basketball players last year and has been playing shortstop for the Commerce Texans until the spring term was out.

Al Valls, the streamlined trackster, is on his way up to Washington to do some fishing (commercial) along with another Laredo lad, Sam Reeves. Jim Batchelor will do the biggest part of the hurling for a Dallas semi-pro baseball team this summer. Red Griffin is catching for him.

There is quite a bit of talk going around about the failures of such baseball stars as Hank Greenburg, Stan Musial, Country Slaughter, and of late Bob Feller. Greenburg was purchased by the Pittsburgh Pirates for the sole purpose of putting the ball over those outfield fences but til now, he has failed miserably. The two Cardinal starts, Musial and Slaughter, haven't got going since their World Series victory over the Red Sox last fall. Musial has been bothered by illness this spring and Slaughter was injured in the series last fall but he should be fully recovered by now. For Feller... well Bobby
