Let's Keep The ET - NT Game On A Home Basis

Let's keep the annual East Texas State-North Texas State annual football affair to a home and home basis.

True more people would probably see the game if played in the Dallas Cotton Bowl each year, but there is no guarantee of this. Of course, the number one reason for officials wanting the game played in Dallas is for the financial income, Doesn't the opinion of the students occur to these officials whose main interest is evidently publicity and money that this game will bring each school.

The CAMPUS CHAT, official publication of North Texas State Teachers college, was quite enthused over the possibility of the ET-NT game being an annual Dallas affair.

A lot of the financial backing comes from the businessmen of Commerce. These businessmen are almost 100 per cent in favor of keeping the game on a in home and home basis.

So the North Texas officials and the East Texas State officials favoring the moving of the games to, should consider someone besides themselves.

These East Texas State "high raters" should forget the amount of money and publicity that it will bring to the school, and think for a minute about the common people (the students at ET).

After all, the games are for the college and students make up over 90 per cent of the college.

If the game is moved to Dallas, many students will necessarily have to miss due to financial and other problems confronting students.

Too, if the annual classic is moved to the Cotton Bowl, the keen rivalry that exists between the two schools, will decrease considerably.

The home team in this annual grid grudge, usually selects this game for their homecoming game. Many exes Mater not only to see the game, but also to see friends and the college itself.

Another main factor in keeping the contests on a home and home basis is that the people backing the team the the citizens of Commerce.

Spangler Welcomes Exes

East Texas State Teachers college feels honored to have the Ex-students come back "home" every year to renew old acquaintances and share once again the excitements and joys of college days.

We want you to feel free to take your old place in the "ET family" once again for a day.

Bring that old ET spirit and join us at Lion Stadium for a Lion victory. Have a good time and come again.

Editor's Eyeview

East Texan Staff Welcomes All

by JOE MILNER Editor, East Texan

A new column appears in the EAST TEXAN this week. Charles and Margie Stubblefield combined the neighborhood gossip of GI Village into a very interesting column. We would like to hear comments on this column which will be published often in the future.

The football queen election, which could have stood a little more advance planning garnered over three hundred and twenty-eight dollars for the Memorial Stadium Fund.

The election which ended at five last night, saw Rose Jean Mosley come out on top with a total of 10,978 votes. (The method of voting was a penny a vote.)

The heavy pre-deadline voting elected Janice Miller to be one of the attendants in the football queen crowning. Miss Miller had a total of 8,892

The other attendant elected was third place Eloise Boss. Miss Boss, who rose in the top three on the final day had a total of 7.965 votes.

The crowning of the queen will take place aceremony prior to the East Texas-North Texas game tomorrow.

This week marks the close of the regular Lion football schedule. With thousands of people on the campus today and tomorrow, we would like to extend to each of them a hearty welcome.

Welcome is in order for both East Texas State and North Texas State exes, as well as the North Texas students and faculty. Let us, the students of ET, be courteous to the invading team and fans, and let's fight it out on the gridiron.

All exes and North Texas students are extended an invitation to the dance sponsored by the T Association in Whitley Gymnasium Saturday night after the game.

I, speaking in behalf of the entire EAST TEX-AN staff, say WELCOME EVERYONE.

Civic Music To Open Concerts

by J. PRICE

The mid-winter student entertainment program look forward to returning to their Alma is being formed this week. It will be wedged in between basketball games, Christmas holidays and first semester exams and second semester

Already set for the college stage are three Civic nusic concerts which are free to college enrollees. Devy Erlih, 18-year-old violinist, will start the strongest other than the students, are local concert ball rolling on December 5. Sylvia Zaremba, another teen-age artist who possesses all the talents of an arrived concert performer, will pick-up where Erlih left off after New Years on January 8.

Then on January 15 the high-light of the associations circuit dances on to the Ferguson auditorium stage under the title Ballet In Time.

This group of four artists has been formed for the smaller music organizations whose yearly budget will not allow one of the larger ballet companies. But they have not sacrificed quantity for quality. Ballet Intime will present classic ballet with some of the best artists in the business in featured roles.

The college variety show or amateur night which has been in the discussion stage is slowly being put into more exact dates and action.

The college dance band under the baton of Arthur Phillips is a sure bet to be featured on

Happenings In GI Village Are Revealed

By CHARLES and Margie Stubblefield

Before sinking your teeth into this luscious bit of reporting I'd like for you to read and heed this plea. It takes facts to make interesting reading so let the old lady and me hear from you if there is any bit of news, spicy or otherwise, that should be reported. Be a rat, tell on your friends and this will be a column to look forward to. Who knows, you may be a real news hawk like "Beagle-Nose" Benson some day. "Beagle-Nose" was to have helped us gather choice news tidbits but on his first assignment he, "Beagle-Nose", became too absorbed in a local key-hole and when the news item he was pursuing suddenly flung open the door in his face she caught his nose in said keyhole, doing much damage to the appearance of one famed for many things before beauty. I am happy to report that old "Beagle-Nose" is resting well at a local sanitarium, recovering from an emergency operation, namely the removal of a key-hole shaped wart from the end of his prominent proboscis. In a statement issued shortly before he went under the knife "Beagle-Nose" said, "D-u-n-h, I would leave the cicer on my nose but the shape of it gives away my profession. D-u n-h." Unquote.

Travel, so the story goes, is broadening and besides that you learn things when you go places. Take those football wives who are to be seen at every out-of-town game for example, "Pee-Wee" Shipman, Durlene Crawford, "Kitty" Batchelor, Judy Hale, Katy-Bob Fields, Ruth Scarborough, Margaret Harrison, Sharmain Ramey, "Shorty" Boucher, Jeannie Watkins, Nell Alexander, Charlene Shelton, Oneita Spangler, and "dearly beloved" form a well knit group that gives admirable support to our "Fighting Lions." These gals are the best darn advertising this institution could have. They are well-dressed, well-behaved, well-corsaged, wel-come, and well-built to mention just a few of their assets. Don't ask me how they all get to where they are going. It's probably a mystery even to them. A Lincoln Zephyr, the Shipman Town and Country car, leaves Commerce with six or a half dozen in it and when the darn thing reaches, say. Houston (I can spell that), not less than a cool dozen disembark, just as fresh as Daisies and twice as pretty. (Not that I dislike Daisies but these gals are all there, believe you me) Thanks again girls for representing our students so ably when the team plays away from home.

A mild roit occurred in and near the GI Village last Saturday night when several of our solid citizens heard a radio report that Denton had bit the dust in their game with Houston University. Melvin Blize galloped up out of breath with the gladsome tidings and very naturally the report sppread like butter on a hot pancake. Abe and Oneita Spangler, Harold and Jeannie Watkins, J. D. and Marie Allred, and Margie and Stubb formed a tight huddle about the Spangler's radio, hoping against hope while the announcer announced games far and near (mostly far) but never mentioned the Eagles. He told us that Oxford had eked out a victory over Cambridge with a goal from the field in the last twenty seconds of the game. Then he played "God Save the King" and "Long May She Wave Old Bunting of Cambridge" in honor of the from the radio we began to devise ways and means of two teams and we knew we were too late. Pulling our heads discovering the score.

"A Ouija Board", I exclaimed, with the white heat of discovery burning in my eyes.

"Nah," said Allred, "Ouija Boards only have a range of fifty miles."

"Oh, I should have known."

"How about mental telepathy?" chimed in Shorty. "Good idea, but the range of our combined mentalitie, wouldn't reach from here to the front door, '! said a voice better left unidentified.

At this juncture Jeannie came off her chair like an English teacher off a thumb-tack. "I know some people in Denton. How about a phone call?" gasped she.

"What a mistake I made." mutters Shorty reaching for his razor and grabbing her by the hair. We bounced him to the floor and got his strait-jacket back on him in time to avert disaster. At the same time the women deluged Jannie with money and jewelry to finance the phone call.

"How much does it cost to call a foreign country!" asked Marie, pulling off her jade earrings and nylon jj

"Who can speak Dentonish?" queried Oneita, throwing her silverware and dishes into the middle of the pile

"I can" confessed Jeannie, a crimson blush on her cheeks and tears coursing down her face at having to make such a confession.

"I'm betrayed" sobs her spouse from his wire cage. De dropped in on the Dr. Parsons' to make the phone call and while children played and shouted, Sut wagged and barked, grandpa and grandson chortled and cooed, we sang the Alma Mater to keep our spirits up.

At last a faint jingle broke through the bedlam and enlightment was at hand.

"Yes, this is Mrs. Watkins. Oh, is that so? Too bad. Thirty-three to nothing? Thank you."

What if we don't eat this week? At least we learned something. Denton is in Texas, the people there put their pants on one leg at the time, and whether they won, lost, or tied last week we still have to beat 'em. SO GET OUT THERE SATURDAY AND SUPPORT YOUR LIONS WITH A LIONS SHARE OF CHEERING.
