Registration for Speech

Test To End Friday

Registration for the Speech Proficiency Test will continue through Friday, Jan. 25 in the Speech Building. The test will be given Monday-Friday, Jan. 28-Feb. 1, according to David Rigney, speech faculty.

The test is required for entrance into the Teacher Education program.

Amtrak Route Decision Due

The route for "Inter-American," the division of Amtrak to come from St. Louis to Laredo, Tex., was to be decided at a meeting of the National Railroad Passenger Corporation Board of Directors Tuesday, Jan. 22, in Washington, D.C., after the East Texan went to press, according to Dr. Ellis Sandoz, head, Political Science Department.

Dr. Sandoz, organizer of the Northeast Texas Amtrak Committee, said that a route was to be decided from Texarkana to Dallas and from Dallas to Austin.

Petitions totaling 5,066 signatures from Commerce and Greenville residents and ET were presented to Amtrak President Roger L. Lewis, with 1,600 names of ET students requesting Amtrak to be routed through Commerce, according to Ken Davis, political science graduate and Greenville assistant city manager.

Davis made the trip to Washington and talked with the Amtrak head on behalf of ET commuters who would use the train.

"Lewis was extremely interested in the commuter approach. Amtrak is not in the commuter business. Their primary concern is passenger service," Davis said. "One proposed schedule would put the train through Commerce between four and six in the morning. This was only one proposal and is not official," he said.

Davis said the train could not do anything but benefit the area if the fuel situation gets worse. Students could use it to go home and commute.

"If times get hard, it might be well worth it to have another form of transportation other than the automobile," Davis said.

Student Development

Director Resigns

Jack Lassiter, director, Student Development Services, has resigned, effective Feb. 1. He said he plans to go into the retail shoe business in McKinney.

Lassiter said he felt this was a better opportunity for the future and financially. He added that he was not dissatisfied with his job at ET and was saddened in leaving.

Dr. Bob Butler, dean of Student Life, will be taking over Lassiter's duties.

A successor has not been named as of this time, Dr. Butler said.

Functions of the Office of Student Development include administration of fraternities and sororities, registration of student social events, assistance to student clubs and organizations, student government sponsorship, attendance policy administration and personal records of individual students.

Coffeehouse To Open

With a newly redecorated interior, and a new stage built during the Christmas holidays, the Coffeehouse of the Student Center, will open Friday, Jan. 25, for the noon and evening meals with entertainment by "Blue Ridge," a local three-piece acoustical group, according to Judd Germany, entertainment director, Student Activities Board.

Students dining in the Student Center Cafeteria may take their meals into The Coffeehouse, located near the cafeteria on the west side of the center, and be entertained free, he said.

"Blue Ridge has a good sound, and we think that they will really liven up the whole lunch hour—spice up lunch, if you will," Germany said.

"We've put a lot of work in this place—everyone at the SAB wants the Coffeehouse to be a permanent

Higher Costs Cause Problems

By Hardy Bratton

Spiraling tuition, inflation, the energy crisis, and the economic slowdown have combined to create financial problems for both ETSU and its students.

F. H. McDowell, ET president, said enrollment figures this semester will be about the same as spring 1973, approximately 8,000 to 8,300.

According to McDowell, those figures represent the break-even point. He told faculty members last week that if enrollment dropped 1,000 students by the fall of 1974, 50 faculty members would lose their jobs.

McDowell said, "Teachers have nothing to worry about this spring." He did emphasize that teachers, in view of higher cost of getting an education today, should work to make the courses more meaningful.

McDowell views ET as a commodity which must be sold to the prospective buyer. He said students must see that their money is well-spent for the product offered. "It's up to everyone employed here to see that it's done," he said. "Each of us lations man or woman."

For the product offered. "It's up to everyone employed here to see that it's done," he said. "Each of us must be the university's public relations man or woman."

Dorm Occupancy 60 per cent

According to the president, one way to keep the school "in the black" is to attract students to the dormitories. Dorm occupancy is about 60 per cent of capacity.

"The money we collect for room and board," said McDowell, "is used to pay off our bonded indebtedness." As of August 1972, ET had $15 million in outstanding debts. "As of right now," he said, "we are at the break-even point."

ET has been able to pay back the principal and interest on loans, but has failed to put the required one-third of its profits into the school reserve fund.

There is now about $1 million in the fund with payments running $800,000 per year for the debts, according to McDowell.

Asked why dorm occupancy was down, McDowell listed two reasons. First was the Texas Legislature's passage of the law giving the 18-year-old adult legal rights. "We cannot efficiently enforce our dorm-occupancy rule," he said, "and we are hurting."

Henderson, Binnion, and Mayo Halls were closed for lack of occupants. McDowell said architects are working on plans to convert the halls to office space, classrooms and continuing education facilities.

Construction Project Slated

The conversions are part of a $4 million construction project set to start soon. Included in the project will be the building of a new addition to the Agriculture Department, construction of an art and music creative village, and the building of a new performing arts center.

McDowell justified the new construction as an updating of facilities to campus standards of education.

The second reason for low dorm occupancy, McDowell related, is the energy crisis and money crunch the middle income student is experiencing.

Interviews Scheduled

The Corpus Christi Independent School District will be interviewing prospective employes in the Placement Office Thursday and Friday, Jan. 31-Feb. 1, according to Director of Placement Services Pete Mann. Prospective teachers in all areas except art and social studies are being interviewed, he said.

Atlantic Richfield, also interviewing on Feb. 1, is looking for accounting majors for permanent jobs, though some summer positions are available, Dr. Mann said. Students interested in scheduling interviews need to contact the Placement Office for an appointment, he said.

Car Pools, Buses Highlight Spring '74

As the second week of classes for the 1974 spring semester began Monday, Jan. 21, it appeared that, despite the energy crisis and its related problems, there would be little change in the number of ET students enrolled, with an increase in car pools and more students using the bus service.

Although final figures were not available at press time Monday, Don Johnson, associate director for records, said that this spring's enrollment should reach approximately 8,200, close to last spring's enrollment of 8,316.

The energy crisis has caused problems for commuters, according to Roberta Whitener, assistant director, Student Development, and more students are taking advantage of the commuter services offered by ET. At last count, 929 students had registered at the special commuter desk located in the Student Center, she said.

Whitener said that approximately 200 students, over twice as many as last semester, are taking advantage of the buses which travel between Dallas and ET. She said Transportation Enterprises, Inc., the company which operates the buses, scheduled five buses each day this semester. The Saturday bus was dropped because not enough students bought tickets.

Despite the rising costs of living, ET students found no increase in the cost of campus housing when they returned to school this spring. The price of room and board is the same as it was last fall, according to Mr. W.L. Kelley, vice president, Administration.

William Smith, senior director, ARA Slater Food Service, said that his company is faced with price increases in every department, including some products that were not expected to increase in cost.

He said that bread and pasta products have increased in price because of the current wheat situation, and milk, ice cream, and even dry beans and rice have increased in price. Williams said that he was informed last week a new increase in the price of meat was imminent.

Williams said that students should not be affected by the price increases and that no plans had been made to limit students on seconds as was done last fall. He said that the "no seconds" policy was instituted not because of price, but because of limited availability of certain products.

Dr. Don Pope, director, ET Housing, said that his department has begun several new programs to aid students and promote interest in campus housing. He said no figures were available as yet on the number of students living in the system this spring.

All residence halls have been furnished with commuter boards, so that students can locate rides with other commuters. Overnight housing for commuters in residence halls is also being provided, Pope said, at a cost of $3 a night.

A student is required to provide his own linen, and arrangements should be made in advance to insure a reservation, Pope said.

NEW BLUES — An ET Security officer is seen here wearing one of the new blue uniforms which have replaced the familiar khaki uniforms. The 34 new uniforms, which arrived on Jan. 10, were bought at the approximate price of $2,500.

TEXAS POLITICS

Early Campaigning Begins; Top Three Seek Reelection

By Richard McKinney

Now that the Constitutional Convention is underway many Texas politics are swinging into campaigns for local and statewide office. It was no surprise when Gov. Dolph Briscoe reaffirmed his intention to seek the top spot again.

Challenging the governor in the Democratic primary will be Hugh Wilson of Port Arthur and Gordon F. (Pop) Wills. Wilson has previously lost two primary campaigns for state office.

In the Republican primary, former Houston State Sen. Henry Grover has announced that he will run again. Grover nearly defeated Gov. Briscoe two years ago in one of Texas' closest gubernatorial elections in history.

Fighting Grover for the GOP nomination will be Fort Worth attorney Odell McBrayer and former Lubbock mayor Jim Granberry. Neither have run in state-wide primaries before.

Ramsey Muniz, Corpus Christi attorney, has also announced that he will again seek the governor's chair. In 1972, Muniz ran on the La Raza Unida ticket, and polled more than seven per cent of the total vote. He is unchallenged for the La Raza nomination.

Hobby Hill Unchallenged

In the race for lieutenant governor, incumbent William P. Hobby Jr. of Houston, has announced that he will seek re-election, rather than attempt a race for the governorship. Hobby cited a desire to work in the Legislature during the possible constitutional interim and changeover, as the reasons for his decision.

Also seeking re-election is Atty. Gen. John Hill. Hill explained that he is interested in protecting Texas consumers from unfair practices by oil companies during the energy crisis, especially price-gouging. Hill had been expected to make a bid for the governorship. He and Hobby are unchallenged for re-election in both parties.

In other state-wide races:

Former Texas Secretary of State Bob Bullock has announced that he will seek Robert S. Calvert's post in the Democratic primary. Calvert, the incumbent comptroller of public accounts, is not seeking re-election.

Mack Wallace, an East Texas area attorney, has filed for the Railroad Commissioner race in the Democratic primary.

Agriculture Commissioner John White has announced that he will seek his thirteenth term in that post.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong, while not making a formal statement, has begun organizing a staff for a re-election bid.

Farenthold?

The major question-mark in Texas politics at this point is former State Rep. Frances Farenthold. Now living in Houston, Ms. Farenthold teaches law at Texas Southern University and is national chairperson of the National Women's Political Caucus.

Many observers had indicated that

Ms. Farenthold would make a second try for the governor's chair. In 1972, she forced Dolph Briscoe into a primary runoff for the Democratic nomination, defeating then Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and former Gov. Preston Smith.

Ms. Farenthold emphasized recently that she would "mull over these things right until deadline." The filing deadline is Feb. 4.

She strongly hinted, according to published reports in Austin and Dallas newspapers, that she might challenge incumbent Railroad Commissioner Jim Langdon in the Democratic primary. "I haven't completely blocked out the gubernatorial race," she said.

The Texas Railroad Commission regulates, besides railroads, the trucking, oil, gas, pipelines, propane, butane and utilities industries in the state. "It would certainly be a race of national interest (due to the energy crisis) and I hope it will be of great interest to Texans," she commented. Texas produces 40 percent of the petroleum products used nationally.

ET Student Seeks Post

A race of local interest is that for the district 10 seat being vacated by State Rep. James D. Cole of Greenville. ET graduate student Robert Mansker, Commerce, has indicated that he will run against Sulphur Springs attorney Jay Brim, Greenville attorney Smith Gilley and Greenville insurance agent J.L. Green Jr.

Cole has held the seat 14 years. The district includes Hunt, Hopkins and Rains counties.

In other local races, all incumbents have filed for re-election except in the district and county judge contests, and in the Hunt Co. Democratic chairmanship race.

Commerce attorney Richard Carter has filed for the county judgeship and is being challenged by Ed Terrell, who unsuccessfully tried for the office in 1970.

Hill Ruling Highlights

Rights Discussions

By Richard McKinney

A ruling by Atty. Gen. John Hill that forbids any additions to the current Texas Bill of Rights highlighted events during the first 10 days of the Constitutional Convention in Austin. Some delegates had submitted proposals which would add certain provisions to the bill dealing with rights for the handicapped and a right-to-work article.

The ruling came as an interpretation of the Constitutional Amendment authorizing the convention. The amendment provides that the current Bill of Rights must remain unchanged. Hill explains that this also excludes additions, along with alterations, corrections and deletions.

More than 30 proposals were submitted to the convention during the first week. The whole convention is now meeting only weekly to handle procedural matters. Committee meetings are being held daily to hear public testimony on any proposals for the new state Constitution.

'Shoppe' To Open Today

A case of candy and all the ice cream one can eat will be given away at the grand opening of Ye Olde Sweet Shoppe today at 11 a.m. on the ground floor of the Student Center.

The store, a development of the Student Activities Board, will offer 12 flavors of ice cream, including orange and lime sherbert, rocky road, chocolate chip, and pistachio, as well as 48 different kinds of candies and nuts.

The ice cream, available in cones and packed pints and quarts for take-out orders, comes from Lilly Dairy Products, Inc. in Commerce.

"We're lucky to get the ice cream so close," Sweet Shoppe Manager Bob Abney said Monday.

"Since we're getting the ice cream right here in town, we don't have to worry about a storage problem or a supply shortage, plus we're assured of freshness," he said.

Regular hours for the store will be 9:30 a.m.-4 p.m. Monday-Friday.

"Everyone's excited about the opening. We have an excellent location, and feel that we offer a genuine service to the students," Abney said.

Prices for the ice cream cones will be tentatively set at 15 cents for a one-dip cone, 25 cents for a two-dip cone and 35 cents for a three-dip cone.

BEOG Checks Ready

Recipients of Basic Educational Opportunity Grants may pick up their checks in the Financial Aids Office on Monday, Jan. 28.

Institutional scholarship checks will not be ready until after the twelfth class day. A specific date is not yet available, according to Randy Alexander, institutional scholarship officer.

Law Enforcement Application Due

Law enforcement grant and loan applications are due in the Financial Aids Office at 5 p.m. Friday, Jan. 25, according to Dana Johnson, coordinator of law enforcement loans.

Grants are available to working law enforcement officers who are attending school. These grants cover tuition, books and fees. Recipients must be full time employees working in the law enforcement field. They are not required to take a specified number of hours.

Entire repayment of the grants may be cancelled if the recipient works in one law enforcement agency for two continuous years upon completing school. The grants are cancelled at a rate of 50 per cent per year.

Stipulations for loan applicants include taking a full load, but not necessarily working in the law enforcement field. Loans can also be cancelled if the recipient works in the law enforcement field four years upon completing school.

Tapes Showing at Founder's Lounge

Groove Tube I, a series of video taped performances, is now showing at the Founder's Lounge of the Student Center.

The series, being shown continuously from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m., Monday through Friday, will be a regular feature of the center for the rest of the semester.

"We had Groove Tube here last semester, and it's back by popular demand," George Maguire, program director, Student Activities Board, said last week.

"Movie Orgy," a parody on TV programs from the 1950's until the present, is this week's feature.

The programs come from Video Tape Network, Inc., a New York firm specializing in video taped shows. Some of the topics of "Movie Orgy" include "Sex Olympics," and "Cramp TV Kitchen."

Other shows scheduled for the semester are "Movie Orgy I," Feb. 4-8; "Chicken Little Comedy Show," Feb. 18-22; "Movie Orgy II," March "Movie Orgy III," April 8-12; and The Ace Trucking Company, April 15-19.

Ballroom of the Student Center.

The new organization intends to create, maintain and support present and future benefits for veterans, according to J. R. McCulloch, VETSU organizer. "VETSU will also open channels of communication through which the needs of veterans may be recognized and helped," McCulloch said.

VETSU is not school sponsored but is a volunteer organization of veterans designed to help veterans and dependents who receive benefits from the GI Bill. Programs are underway to secure loans to cover overdue benefit checks, to form a book exchange, to find jobs, housing and various services, to get merchandise discounts and to advise veterans of information concerning them about benefits. The information and resources will be pooled among the veterans. New members are invited. It will not be a club or fraternity but a service organization, McCulloch said.

Dr. Fred Tarpley, head, Literature-Languages Department, also attended the MLA meeting, where he participated in several linguistic sessions and read a paper, "The Naming of Pets in Commerce, Texas."

Other literature-languages faculty members attending the meeting were Drs. Thomas Burke, Juan Gamez, Dorys Grover, Mamie Hafner, Lawrence McNamee, Jim Reynolds and Richard Tuerk.

Zander Gets Grant

Dr. Arlen Zander, physics faculty, has been awarded a $20,000, two-year research grant by the Robert A. Welch Foundation of Houston for his project "Determination of Proton-Induced Ionization of Cross Sections of Selected Metals."

Dr. Zander said his research will involve bombarding highly purified metals with a proton beam and when the protons strike the metals, intense X-rays will be emitted. By observing these X-rays, Dr. Zander will be able to obtain information about the structure of the atoms in metal.

Dr. Zander's research has been made possible through the purchase of specialized equipment under a previous faculty research grant.

Frosh Granger—'Intimidating'

By Kenneth Durham

Potential...superstar. Height...anywhere from 6-5 to whatever it takes to get the job done. Weight...220 pounds. Hobby...making points for the Lions and intimidating and outplaying the person he is responsible for guarding on the basketball court. Where...anywhere ET plays a basketball game. Name...Nate the Great. This year's goals...lead ET to the Lone Star Conference basketball title, make LSC "Freshman of the Year" and receive All-LSC honors. This is but one way to describe ET freshman basketball sensation Nate Granger.

After 14 starts this season, Granger has relied on his inside shooting ability and his powerful legs to score 240 points, about a 17 points-per-game average, and to haul down 157 rebounds, an 11 per-game average. He had his best game of the season against Texas Christian University, grabbing 17 rebounds and scoring 24 points, and also hit for 20 points and pulled in 17 rebounds against LSC foe, Stephen F. Austin.

"Nate has been playing good basketball, and, in the games to come, we must get the ball to him more," Coach Jim Gudger said. Nate helps our team on both ends of the court by scoring needed points and by grabbing rebounds on the offensive and defensive boards," Gudger said.

Long before Granger came to ET, he was a star basketball player for Weequahic High School in New Jersey, where he twice made first team High School All-America and was named to the first team All-City and to two All-Star teams.

"I came to ET so I could get away from the fast city life and have a better chance at making the starting team my freshman year. I received more than 100 offers from colleges and universities, including Rice, Northwestern, University of Houston, Eastern Michigan, Colorado State, and the University of Mexico," he explained.

"Playing forward for the Lions gives me the chance to show that I can score points and get rebounds for the team in any situation."

O'Neal Tarrant, ET's playmaker sophomore guard, was glad to see Granger don the ET's gold and blue. "Nate is very versatile, and this makes him a valuable access to our offensive and defensive game plan," Tarrant said.

Granger's outlook on ET's chances in LSC competition this year is bright. "I think we can win the LSC championship, if we continue to play the kind of ball we're playing now," Granger added. "Having O'Neal on my side increases ET's chances at the LSC crown because he is the kind of player who can turn a game around for you when things are going bad," Granger said.

FCA Sets Meeting

Finalizing plans for its third annual banquet will be the major topic at the Fellowship of Christian Athletes meeting at 7 tonight in Room 101, Field House.

Olympic weightlifter Paul Anderson, known as the "world's strongest man," will be the guest speaker for the banquet, but other plans are pending.

Also on the agenda is the decision of dividing ET's chapter into groups to visit area high schools to encourage their organization of FCA chapters.

Women's IM Badminton Registration Deadline Set

Registration deadline for women's intramural badminton will be Friday, Jan. 25, in Whitley Gym. Play will begin Monday, Jan. 28.

Basketball free-throw competition, the first women's intramural activity of the spring semester, will be held at 7:30 p.m. today and Friday, Jan. 25, in Whitley Gym.

Carolyn "Scooter" McQuary, McKimney sophomore, has been appointed student director of women's intramurals.

Fraternity Games Reset

Fraternity basketball games have been rescheduled for Tuesday and Thursday nights, according to Barney Iles, men's intramural director. Games will start at 6 p.m. Monday-Thursday, in the Field House, with the independent league playing on Monday and Wednesday.

Earlier, Iles had scheduled the fraternity league to play on Monday and Wednesday nights, but a majority of the fraternities hold their weekly meetings on Monday nights.

FRESHMAN FORWARD Nate Granger (42) rebounded and shot for two of his 16 points against Texas A&I earlier this season. The 6-5, 225-pound Granger is the Lions' second leading scorer and top rebounder, with game averages of 17 and 11, respectively.

LSC ROUNDUP

SH Ranked Eighth in NAIA

Sam Houston's Bearkats, last year's No. 1 team in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics at the end of regular season, are rated eighth in the latest NAIA poll, released Thursday, Jan. 17.

The Bearkats, though, may be in trouble as far as repeating as Lone Star Conference champs.

SH school officials announced last week that the Bearkats had used an ineligible player in one of their LSC victories and may have to forfeit the win. Conference officials are currently investigating, and action is pending.

Also in the NAIA statistics of last week, four LSC players were listed among the nation's top 60 scorers. Hoegie Simmons of Texas A&I is listed as the 17th top scorer in the NAIA, with a 26.2 average per game. Abilene Christian's Andrew Prince is ranked 28th, with a 24.4 average; ET's O'Neal Tarrant is 50th, with a 22.2 average; and Archie Myers of Stephen F. Austin is 53rd, averaging 22.1.

Prince is ranked ninth in rebounding, pulling down an average of 16.5 per game, and Floyd Allen of SH is 19th with a 14.9 average.

ACC is ranked 21st in scoring offense, averaging 89.5 per game. Angelo State and Southwest Texas are ranked among the top 25 teams in free throw percentage, standing at 16th and 24th, respectively. AS has hit .738 per cent of its free throws, while the Bobcats convert .724 per cent.

fourth-round draft pick of the Steelers in 1971.

Sam Houston welded its hold on the top spot in Lone Star Conference basketball Monday night, with an easy 87-71 win over second-place Howard Payne in Huntsville. It was HP's second consecutive conference loss and dropped the Yellow Jackets into a second-place tie with ET, each with 5-2 records. SH stands 7-0 in LSC play.

In other LSC games Monday night, ET struggled by Sul Ross in overtime, 100-89; a surging Stephen F. Austin team outran Abilene Christian College, 104-94; Southwest Texas State dropped Texas A&I, 92-80; and Tarleton downed Angelo State, 79-64.

In LSC games Saturday night, SFA upset HP, 89-86, in Nacogdoches; SH overcame an 18-point deficit to nip ACC, 74-73, in Huntsville; TS knocked off SR, 85-71, in Stephenville; and ET ramled by AS, 97-86 in Commerce. SWT and A&I were idle.

Hair-Raisers Put ET in 2nd

By Jake Sandlin

Two games, 115 personal fouls, eight technical fouls, 372 points and nearly five hours of playing time describes what may have been ET's most hair-raising weekend of basketball in the school's history.

The Lions took Lone Star Conference victories over Sul Ross, 100-89 in overtime Monday, and a 97-86 win over Angelo State Saturday, both in the ET Field House. The wins moved ET into a second-place tie with Howard Payne, each with 5-2 LSC records. The Lions are 8-7 overall.

ET was whistled for 25 fouls during the SR contest, Monday, while 31 calls were made on the Lobos. SR was also called for three technical fouls, one on an SR player and two when Lobo coach Chester Story slammed his chair to the floor.

Lion guard O'Neal Tarrant led all scorers with 33 points, a personal high and the most scored by an ET player this season. It was Tarrant's 13 points in overtime that surged the Lions on to victory. Hugo Cabrera scored 23 points for ET; Nate Granger had 18; and Pat Laue had 14.

Lion center Dean Thomas was the top rebounder, with 12. Willie Elmore and Ken Lawrence led the Lobos with 26 and 21 points, respectively.

ET never trailed during the game, taking a 47-40 halftime lead. The Lions' biggest margin of the night came with 11 minutes to go, when Thomas hit a field goal for a 14-point, 68-54, advantage. The score read 78-68 in ET's favor, with 4:15 left, before the Lobos got rolling.

SR reeled off 10 straight points, with Elmore hitting the tying basket with four seconds to go from five feet away to knot the score at 78-78 at the end of regulation play.

Tarrant scored six points to SR's one in the first minute of the five-minute overtime, and the Lions went on to lead by 13 at three different points during the overtime. Each of SR's technicals came during the overtime period, and Tarrant converted three charity shots as a result.

Fifty-nine personal fouls, five technical fouls and two brief skirmishes highlighted the Lions' 97-86 win over ASU Saturday in the Field House.

ET garnered 32 fouls during the contest, with 20 coming in the first half. The Rams had only been whistled for seven personal fouls during the first half, but were called for 20 more during the final half.

Three ASU players were each given technical fouls, Lion head coach Jim Gudger was called for one, and an ET cheerleader earned the other technical call.

The contest was halted for approximately five minutes with 2:32 to go in the first half when ET's Thomas and ASU's Grady Elder exchanged blows. The Rams' Ken Elkins was ejected with 25 seconds left in the game for striking ET's Warren Korecky.

The Lions took final control of the contest as Thomas won the tipoff following stoppage of the game. Glen Machan scored off the tip, putting ET in front, 38-37, with 2:26 left in the first half. The Lions held a 41-40 advantage at halftime.

ET improved its lead to 17 points as the Lions found their scoring punch. Thomas Simon's layup, with 4:21 remaining, gave ET its fourth and final 17-point advantage of the night, with the score standing at 85-68.

Tarrant, Granger and Cabrera led the Lions' scoring with 22, 20 and 19 points, respectively. Tarrant scored 20 of his points in the second half after sitting out 10 minutes of the first with three fouls. Tarrant also had 10 assists, seven in the final half.

Cabrera and Granger topped the rebounding, each with 11. ASU's J. D. Koehn's 25 points led all scorers. Robert Black had 13 for the Rams and Simon had 12 for ET.

Top Offense To Host ET

Second among Lone Star Conference teams in scoring, ET challenges the conference's top scoring machine in Abilene Christian College, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, in Abilene.

The Lions, giving up an average of 71.2 points per game, hope to contain the high-scoring Wildcats, led by 6-7, 210-pound Andrew Prince, the LSC's second-leading scorer and top rebounder.

ACC scores at a rate of 89.5 points per contest but gives up 90.6, the worst scoring defense in the league. ET does not fare much better, though ranking last in scoring offense, with a 69.1 game average.

Prince, a junior forward, averages 24.4 points and 16.5 rebounds per game. Prince got 17 points in the Wildcats' 74-73 loss to Sam Houston

Saturday night in Huntsville. ACC led SH at one time in that game, 45-27, and controlled the ball for the final 38 seconds of the contest.

The Wildcats were ranked 21st in scoring in last week's National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics statistics, with Prince ranking 28th in individual scoring and ninth in individual rebounding.

Leading the Lions will be 5-10 sophomore guard O'Neal Tarrant, who heads ET's scoring with a 22 points-per-game output, and 6-5 freshman forward Nate Granger, who tops ET in rebounding, with an 11 per-game average.

ET will be idle Saturday, then will travel to Brownwood for a LSC affair with Howard Payne Monday. ACC entertains Air Force Saturday and Tarleton Monday.

Iles New IM Director

A former student returned to the ET campus this spring as the new intramural director.

Barney Iles graduated from ET in 1959 with a B.S. degree and during that school year served as the intramural director and as a student assistant football coach. Iles, from New London, received his master's degree in education from ET in 1963, and is currently working on his doctorate.

After graduating in 1959, Iles went to Big Sandy High School for a year, where he served as head coach, and then went to Pine Tree High School (a AAA school) for seven years as head baseball coach and first assistant football coach.

In 1967, Iles moved up to the college ranks when he accepted the position of intramural director at Henderson County Junior College in Athens. During his four years in this position, Iles also served as assistant coach in football and basketball. He then spent two and one-half years as student activities director at Henderson, before coming to ET this spring.

Iles, who has 15 years experience in the sports field, said that he looked forward to his second involvement with ET and planned to follow the schedule set up by former director, Jim Baldwin, making changes only when needed. "I have a tremendous interest in mixed competition for men and women in intramural sports," Iles said.

Iles also said that the new "one-on-one" competition in men's intramural basketball may be expanded to include the independent league next season. Currently, only fraternities are allowed to enter this event.

Interfraternity Council Meeting Slated Today

The Interfraternity Council will meet at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 23, in the Student Center Board Room to discuss the petition of Kappa Alpha Psi to become a recognized member of the council and Greek Week Activities, according to Steve Favors, Assistant Director of Student Development.

Ideas for the joint Panhellenic-IFC Greek Week to be held April 22-25 include a road rally, Greek dance, and an administrative officers seminar, Favors said.

Kent Holbert, graduate assistant to the director of student development and coordinator of the Barons, will be introduced to the council, Favors said.

Favors and Holbert said that those men interested in fall rush need to come by the Office of Student Development in the Student Center and talk to either of them for more information.

SDX Photo Contest Set

The campus chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic society, will hold its third annual SDX Photography Contest this spring.

SDX will accept prints until 5 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 30. Judging will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 2, in the Journalism Auditorium and will be open to the public.

According to Bob Ward, SDX faculty adviser and Journalism-Graphic Arts faculty, all winning photographs will be exhibited at ET from Saturday, Feb. 2 through Saturday, Feb. 16.

Black and white and color prints will be the two divisions included in the contest. There will be seven categories under each division, and a contestant may enter as many prints in each category as he wishes.

According to Ward, any person enrolled in a university or college in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arkansas, or Louisiana is eligible to enter the contest.

The entry fee is $1 for the first print in each category and 50 cents for each additional print in that category. The photographs judged "Best in Show" of each division will be awarded a $25 cash prize.

Judges for the contest will be Tom Drummond, commercial and portrait photographer, Shreveport, La.; Doris Jacoby, master commercial photographer, Dallas; Jerry McNeil, picture editor and head of the photography department, Dallas Times Herald; James Narramore, portrait photographer, Greenville; James Deaver, portrait photographer and vice president of Gitting's Studios, Dallas; and Clint Grant, news photographer for the Dallas Morning News.

Non-credit Courses Offered

Registration for courses offered in the Credit-Free Program this semester at ET is underway, with informal classes covering such diversified topics as karate and natural childbirth.

According to Mrs. Patsy Holder, assistant to the dean in the Division of Continuing Education, all classes which do not award semester-hour credit are included in the program, which consists of formal seminars, special training sessions and conferences, as well as informal short courses.

More than 450 persons attended non-credit courses at ET during the fall semester, including 81 who attended the informal classes, Mrs. Holder said. She explained that since the energy crisis might possibly curtail attendance at formal seminars and conferences, the informal courses are being emphasized more this semester to attract people who might want to stay busy, but with a tankful of gas.

Mrs. Katy Morgan, director of the Continuing Education-sponsored program, said that the karate course should have a big enrollment this semester, and a course in memory called "Index to the Mind," should also be popular. This course was last offered two years ago and received great popularity, she added.

Mrs. Holder explained that if a student completes the course on defensive driving, which begins later this month, application may be made to apply for a 10 per cent rate decrease in automobile insurance.

Classes in the Credit-Free Program are open to all area residents, except for some of the special training sessions. A nominal fee is charged for the classes, depending upon the scope of the course.

Courses beginning in the near future are Cake Decorating, Jan. 24; Real Estate, Jan. 28; Karate, Jan. 29; Natural Childbirth, Jan. 29; Defensive Driving, Jan. 29; Memory, Feb. 5; and Sewing, Feb. 14.

Information concerning registration can be received by contacting Mrs. Morgan at 468-2290.

Educational Costs Rise

According to Lytle, educational costs are up almost $450 in the last five years. It costs a family earning $10,200 a year almost $2,200 per child per year to put that person through college.

Lytle said he is helpless because any applicant at his office must show a need before aid can be granted. According to him, the upper-middle income family does not qualify.

He added that there is no program set up for the middle-income group. Application approval for the Federally Insured Student Loan is difficult if not impossible to get. The program, originally set up for the middle-income group, is suffering from government cuts from the past two years.

Prognostication for ET is bright, according to McDowell and Ken Wallace, director of Admissions. Both see a steady growth in enrollment over the next few years.

The energy crisis, however, is having a marked effect on the student body. According to Dr. White, there has been a one-third increase in car pool applications and a large increase in commuters using the bus service from Dallas.

Dr. White said bus service may expand to Saturday because of the vast interest.

Leisure Learning Registration Slated

Registration for the Leisure Learning program will begin Thursday, Jan. 24, at the activities desk on the second floor of the Student Center.

The program, sponsored by the Student Activities Board, will include instruction in the art of tarot card reading and how to fill out standard income tax forms.

"These activities are free, and are aimed primarily at the college student. However, if room permits, we will allow non-students to attend," SAB Program Director George Maguire said last week.

A similar program was offered last year at ET under the name "Free University."

Resource personnel for the tarot reading class, which will start Wednesday, Jan. 30, will be Tom Wirtel, music faculty, Gary Bellomy, and Marigold Lamb.

This class will be six to eight weeks long and will meet for approximately an hour and a half on Wednesday evening. Registration will continue for at least one week, with regular hours of 8 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday-Friday. Other classes and times will be announced this week.

"We want to get away from the old structured, teacher-student relationship so associated with classrooms today and create a very informal, yet a highly educational series," Maguire said.
