Multi-Culture To Sponsor Shoe Drive for Children

A "Shoe Drive" to help provide Christmas shoes for needy children of the Commerce community is being sponsored by the Multi-Culture Center, according to Dorothy Wilson, MCC student director.

The main source of funds will be contributions from the campus staff supplemented by a Thanksgiving dance held Nov. 21, sponsored by the MCC, Miss Wilson added.

The drive, focusing on middle-school age and younger children will appeal to Day-Care Centers and school principals to help locate needy children.

Although the drive cannot provide shoes for every needy child the MCC hopes to surpass last year's contribution of 15 pairs of shoes, Miss Wilson said.

Anyone wishing to contribute can contact the Minority Affairs Office at 468-2979, or the MCC at 886-8490, according to Miss Wilson.

Sorority Pledge Injured

Billie Ausmus, Paris freshman, was released from the ET Infirmary Wednesday morning following overnight observation. She was knocked unconscious during the annual Sigma Chi Derby Day chase, Tuesday, Nov. 19, according to the ET Infirmary.

Miss Ausmus, a Kappa Delta, social sorority, pledge, was taken to the Commerce Medical and Surgical Hospital by ambulance after efforts by ET Security to revive her failed.

At the Commerce hospital, Miss Ausmus was also x-rayed for injuries to her neck. Results of the x-rays were unknown Wednesday afternoon.

She was then taken to the ET Infirmary.

Senate General Assembly Announced

By Allen Hallmark

United Students Association President Steve Henderson at Wednesday night's Student Senate meeting announced a general assembly meeting of the Student Senate for 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 4, in the Board Room of the Student Center.

At the general assembly, which is a mandatory meeting called for by the USA Constitution, any ET student will have the right to "present and debate legislation (on) the floor of the senate," according to Henderson. "I strongly encourage all students who have suggestions or complaints for student government to come to this meeting and exercise their chance for involvement," Henderson added.

The senate passed no bills or resolutions. All five standing committees reported 'no report' except graduate Senator Robert Mansker's External Affairs Committee. Mansker said his committee had discussed the high price of Mexican food in Commerce.

Four pieces of legislation (three bills and one resolution) authored by graduate Senator Richard McKinney were introduced to the senate and were sent to committee after minimal discussion.

McKinney said that two of his bills were written as a result of his study of the constitution while serving on the Constitutional Revision and President Pro Tempore Act Committee. His Senate absences Act would cancel existing permanent legislation that is conflicting or overlapping, he said.

McKinney's third bill, called the Senatorial Compensation Act, calls for the senators to receive a salary of $5 per senate meeting, not to exceed $25 month. If passed in its present form, the salaries would begin following the Fall General Election of 1975.

McKinney's resolution would raise the salary of USA officers and terminate the funding of the Student Activities Board and the Inter-Residence Hall Council from USA funds.

The resolution calls for the USA president to be on the same pay level with assistant instructors. The USA vice president, comptroller, and chief justice would be paid on the same level as graduate assistants.

President of the Senate Byran Jackson called the chairmen of the standing committees together after the senate meeting and urged them to take stronger measures to get their members to attend committee meetings. Jackson said that there would be some "housecleaning" if absences at committee meetings continued.

Mansker said that a small group of senators had warned Jackson when the committee assignments were made that there would be problems. "We knew that they (the committees) wouldn't operate the way they were,"

Mansker said. "Now we find that the presiding officer sees a need for a change."

Jackson said that of more than half of the senators who have responded to a questionnaire distributed to the senators, only one has indicated dissatisfaction with his committee assignment.

Senator Wallace Williams said, "There are a lot of hangups in this group. People should cooperate with each other. If there's no cooperation, there's no organization."

Veterans To Pre-Certify

All veterans and dependents who plan to attend ET for the spring semester are encouraged to pre-certify by the Office of Veterans Affairs, second floor, Student Services Building, Monday, Nov. 25, through Friday, Dec. 13.

If a veteran has certified his attendance through the spring or summer, he still needs to stop by the Office of Veterans Affairs and verify his status.

Construction Continues On New Ag Building

Although rainy weather has delayed the construction of the new Industry - Technology - Agriculture Building, according to Bill Morton, field superintendent for Hardin Construction Co., construction has resumed.

The $1.5 million building was started Oct. 1 and has to be completed by Sept. 1, 1975. It will include two stories, plus a structure on the roof for the heating and cooling systems.

Industry-Technology will have use of half of the approximately 64,000 square feet. Twenty-five thousand square feet will be devoted to the Agriculture Department. The dean of Sciences and Technology will also be housed in the building.

The I-T part of the building, eight labs, a graduate assistant office, and a conference room will be constructed.

There will be a construction lab, a power mechanics lab, electricity lab, an electronics lab, a crafts lab, an engineering drawing lab, an architects lab, and an industrial illustration lab.

In the Ag part of the building, on the first floor will be two classrooms, eight offices, one conference room and an Ag engineering center. On the second floor, six class rooms and nine offices will be used by the Ag Department also.

Three thousand cubic yards of sand that will not swell or shrink when the moisture changes was used under the foundation.

There are two one-inch expansions in the building. The new building will be connected to the present I-T Building.

Simpson Electric of Dallas has started laying the electrical wiring. Burdon Bros. of Dallas have started installing the plumbing systems for the building.

Charles Mueller of Commerce is the architect inspector.

Advisement To Be Held

On Campus Dec. 2-7

Students can receive advisement slips or degree plans for entrance into spring registration during Academic Advisement Week beginning Monday, Dec. 2, and continuing through Saturday, Dec. 7.

Dr. Keith McFarland, assistant dean of the College of Liberal and Fine Arts, said a student without an adviser should go to the office of the dean of the College of Liberal and Fine Arts for advisement. Students with decided majors should see the department head or an adviser that has been assigned previously.

Students will not be permitted to register in spring registration without an advisement slip or a copy of a degree plan.

City Amends Tax Contract

By Sharon Massingill

The Commerce City Commission Tuesday night authorized the installation of stop signs at two local railroad crossings and changes in the city and school tax contract.

Upon recommendation of representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and railroad, the commission adopted a resolution to install stop signs at the railroad crossings on Sycamore and Washington streets.

Morris Howard, city manager, said that placement of stop signs would be the simplest, most economical, and most expedient way of installing warning devices.

The commission directed city Attorney James Faures to prepare an amendment to the city and school tax contract that would require taxes collected by the Commerce Independent School District for the city to be deposited in the city account weekly instead of daily.

Recently approved by the Board of Trustees of CISD, the amendment will also require that the school print the tax roll and tax statements and furnish a copy of the official tax roll to the city. Previously, the city and school each printed its own tax roll.

Norris Tanton, superintendent of CISD, told the commission that the revised procedure would save time and money in processing the tax receipts and would work more effectively and efficiently.

In other business, the commission appointed Dr. Anthony Buckley to the Airport Advisory Board and the Airport Zoning Board. Dr. Buckley, the only licensed flying instructor in Commerce, replaces Tom Mayor who recently resigned the two positions.

The appointment to the Airport Zoning Board is subject to the determination of whether the commission or the Hunt County Commissioners Court is authorized to make such appointments.

The city commission also re-appointed Dr. Louis W. Seyler to continue in his post as City Health Officer. His present term will end Dec. 20.

Tax adjustments totaling $2,631.57, including a $439.07 water district tax credit, were also approved by the commission. The adjustments on the 1974 tax roll are due to inadvertently taxed items, failure to allow certain homestead exemptions, tax overcharges and minor clerical errors.

PLAY REVIEW

'Look Homeward Angel:' Real and Vital

By Richard McKinney

"Look Homeward, Angel," the University Playhouse production which opened Wednesday night and runs through Tuesday, Nov. 26, with performances nightly at 8, is vital and real. Don't be fooled into thinking that the Dixieland Boardinghouse in the North Carolina town of Altamont, in 1916, is nothing more than a set on a stage peopled by actors playing roles.

This play by Ketti Frings is a solid and outstanding drama that portrays the reality of family crisis and shows the poignancy of an individual longing to break free.

Loosely based on Thomas Wolfe's autobiographical novel, "Look Homeward, Angel" is played with passion and tenderness by a strong cast under the firm direction of Curtis L. Pope.

Obviously, a vast quantity of the turbulent story of Wolfe had to be omitted, but it is not missed. This story of a family of violent feelings and of a moonstruck youth dreaming of the world is complete in what it chronicles and in what it foreshadows for the years after the play ends.

The Andrew Gibbs setting is as expressive as the play, creating the mood and feeling of an unlovely, shapeless building, with feeble pretensions to comfort.

The actors who portray the boarders are distinctive in giving life to these insipid characters, particularly Debbie Gatlin as "Fatty" Pert, Melody Woodruff as Miss Brown, and Shirley Grote as Florry. But the boardinghouse keepers, the Gants, are explosive people held together by the tenacity of the mother. Eve Hoppock admirably fills the role with tyrannies and with love for her children that are both forbidding and pathetic.

There is the father, a stonecutter played by Doug Hoppock who is epic in all that he does—in drunkenness, in dreams of glory, in suffering and rebelliousness.

The other actors are superb in many styles and tempos—Jo Mack Asberry as the restless and frail older brother Ben; Jo Ann Massey as the irritable, complaining sister who keeps the boardinghouse running; Jan Whittaker as the dainty, tremulous and enchanting romantic ideal.

And then there is Rob Kerr, who plays Eugene—the prototype of Thomas Wolfe. He gives a poignant performance—soft, a little sullen, but shining with eagerness about the world. There is faith in this character; faith in the unseen and hope for glory.

Kerr's grave, quiet, yet buoyant acting gives continuity and a future to this character, who daydreams about all the things he has read and regards the world outside Altamont as a rich treasury of fabulous sight, sounds, and poetic sensations.

This production is the ET entry in the American College Theatre Festival, and by all standards, should open at the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C., in April, as a national ACTF winner.

CPD Investigates Accident

Two ET students were involved in a minor accident investigated by the Commerce Police Department Saturday, Nov. 16.

A 1971 Ford, driven by Amy Lea Mahan of Missouri City, was in collision with a 1967 Dodge, driven by Deborah Marie Mammis of Gainesville, in the 1600 block of Live Oak St.

No injuries and only minor damage was reported.

Roddy McDowell, star of "Planet of the Apes," TV series, was on campus Monday, Nov. 18, to view the University Playhouse production of "Look Homeward Angel."

After the rehearsal was over, he presented the cast with a five-page critique of the performance, according to Dr. Curtis Pope, head, Speech-Drama department and director of the play.

Student's Play To Be UIL Entry

An original one-act play by Stephen Yanoff, New York City doctoral student, will be produced at two Texas high schools as a University Interscholastic League contest entry.

The play, entitled "One Day In Digestion," will be performed at R. E. Lee High School, San Antonio, and Clarksville High School early next semester, according to Yanoff.

He explained the play as being a civil rights trial set in a stomach. The crisis involves efforts by white milk to prevent chocolate milk from entering the digestive tract.

He characterizes the play as a "social satire."

Another Yanoff play, "Everything You Always Wanted To Know About

Neurotics, But Were Afraid To Ask," is being presented in Tyler Monday, Nov. 25, by the Drama Department of Tyler State College. Two performances scheduled are a buffet-theatre at noon on the TSC campus and a dinner-theatre at 6:30 p.m. at the Tyler First Presbyterian Church.

Yanoff has previously written three plays which were accepted for publication by Performance Publishing Co. of New York. The three plays, "It's All in Your Head," "The Dreams of Henry Kissenger" and "A Hell of a Time," will be released early next year.

"It's All in Your Head" was produced at Texas Tech University in April, 1974, as the winning play of the Tech Playwriting Contest. The other two plays are currently entered in contests at the universities of Houston and Missouri.

Yanoff completed the first draft of a religious trilogy entitled "What in God's Name." Each of the three one-act plays deal with one of the three major religions: Judaism, Christianity and Buddhism.

Yanoff said that his New York agent is trying to arrange an Off-Broadway production of one of his plays. Yanoff is represented by the Toby Fruchter Agency in New York.

Group Finds Burial Grounds

An Indian burial site with an Indian skeleton was discovered by the ET Archaeological Society Sunday, Oct. 20.

The skeleton found by Chris Taylor, society president, was in good condition and was buried in a sitting position with some artifacts and tools beside it.

"We plan to go back and do more scientific investigation of the whole mound," Dr. Evan P. Roberts, society sponsor said. He did not reveal the location of the site because "in the past we had returned to the sites for further investigation and found the sites completely ruined."

However, he did say that the site is near Commerce.

Dr. Roberts said that all the artifacts, including pottery and some Dark Point arrowheads, recovered in the surface of the mound indicate that the site probably dates from around 1000 B.C. to 60 A.D.

He said that by undertaking a scientific study of the mound the society hopes to learn about the ecological conditions under which the Indians lived as well as their tools and artifacts.

Dr. Roberts explained that a true scientific excavation requires many sophisticated instruments which the society can not afford, and that members bring their own tools to use.

Dr. Roberts said that the members can keep all the artifacts they find, but if they discover something of importance that supports the possibility that the mound is very rich in Indian artifacts and other material, they must inform the Texas State Archaeology Office in Austin.

Dr. Roberts said that he has proposed a summer course in field archeology to be taught by Dr. Robert Chadwick, sociology and anthropology faculty and himself. The course would be part of the new interdisciplinary studies minor that was created this year.

7 Charged in Fraternity Death

LONG BRANCH, N.J. (AP) — Seven Monmouth College students have been charged with manslaughter in a fraternity initiation death. They are free on $2,500 bail each.

William Edward Flowers, 19, of Neptune, N.J., died while performing a stunt as a pledge to the Zeta Beta Tau social fraternity. He was the fraternity's first black pledge.

Authorities said Flowers suffocated when a mock grave he dug in wet sand collapsed on him early Tuesday, Nov. 12.

They said that when the sand caved in on him, other ZBT pledges and brothers were unable to free him and called authorities. Flowers was removed from the hole by the local first aid squad and fire department.

Police said Flowers was the first of five pledges to dig a sand hole and lie in it and went unnoticed briefly as the others carried out their part of the rite.

The fraternity members charged were: Robert Caemmerer, Jr., 19, of Allenwood, N.J.; Brian M. Seiler, 19, of Paramus, N.J.; Corey S. Wilson, 19, of Oceanside, N.Y.; Frank E. Yavalone, 19, of Neptune; Richard A. Pierce, 21, Howard T. Rapp, 21 and Glen A. Hart, 19, who gave the fraternity house as their address.

Dec. 2, through Friday, Dec. 6, in the Founder's Lounge, according to Barry Mangels, Student Center program director.

The free 30-minute show is a videotape of a concert by Dave Loggins and Jim Messina, a rock music duo, before a college audience.

The previous videotape planned, "TV Madness," was not shown because the SAB did not receive the necessary videotape equipment in time for the showing. Mangels said that the equipment is expected to arrive in time for the "Loggins and Messina" videotape.

Chemistry Seminar Slated

The last chemistry seminar of the fall semester will be held at 4 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 3, in Room 138, Hall of Sciences. Dr. L. D. Neff, Chemistry faculty, will speak on "Infrared Spectra of Chemisorbed Molecules."

Debate Tournament Set

The Speech-Drama Department will host a novice debate tournament from 11 a.m.-6 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 23, in the Student Center, according to Dr. C. L. Farr, speech-drama faculty.

Dr. Farr said the tournament was part of the Texas Novice Series, a program involving universities across the state of Texas in debating tournaments.

Participating in the tournament Saturday will be ET (two debating teams), North Texas State University, Southwest Texas State University, McLennan Jr. College in Waco, East Central State University in Ada, Okla., the University of Arkansas at Monticello, and the University of Texas at Arlington.

Cotton Maid Forms Available

Applications for women interested in entering the Maid of Cotton pageant are available in the Student Development office, according to Mrs. Vicki Miller, secretary.

Applications will be handled on an individual basis and must be post-marked prior to Sunday, Dec. 1. In early December the pageant committee will pick 20 finalists from the applications.

To qualify, a woman must have never been married, must be from 19 to 23 years old, must be at least 5 feet, 5 inches, and must have been born in one of the 19 cotton-producing states or moved there before her seventh birthday.

Recital, Concert Planned

A senior piano recital and a brass choir concert are scheduled for 7 p.m. and 8:15 p.m. respectively, Monday, Nov. 25, in the Music Building Concert Hall.

Inez Haggard, Bonham senior, will be featured in the piano recital. She will be accompanied by her piano instructor, Ken Frerichs, on the organ in "Concerto in F Minor" for harpsichord and organ by Bach. Other music will include "Rhapsody, Op. 79, No. 2" by Brahms; "Etude, Op. 10, No. 3" by Chopin; "Oiseaux Tristes (Sorrowful Birds)" by Ravel; "Barcarolle" by Ned Rovem; and "Etude de Concert, Op. 36" by McDowell.

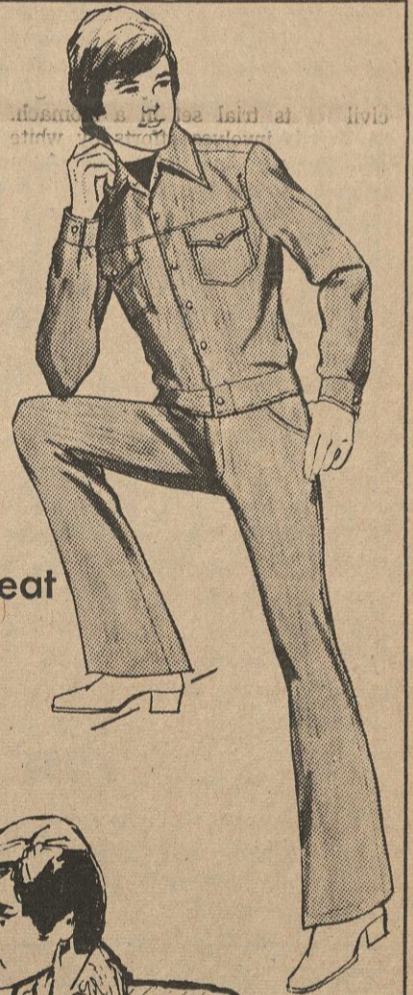

The Brass Choir concert will feature Joe Reynolds as soloist in "Concerto for Tyapani" by Michael Codgrass. Other music by the Brass Choir will be "Fanfare" by Paul Dukas; "Symphony for Brass & Percussion" by Charles Knox; "Elegy in Memory of Maurice Ravel" by David Diamond; "Suite De Chan Sons De Noel" by Thom Ritter George; "Music for Brass" by Rule Beasley; "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen" by Arrby Ralph Carmichael; and "Canzoni Nowi Toni" by Giovanni Gabrieli.

Lions To Open B'ball Campaign...

By Jake Sandlin

Two groups of Tigers and a rambling herd of Bronchos are heading for campus next week, as ET's Lion basketball team opens its '74-'75 campaign with three home games.

The Lions, ranked No. 10 in the NAIA's pre-season poll, are coming off a 16-13 tri-championship season leaving the Lions with the "favorite" label in the Lone Star Conference race this year. ET shared the LSC title with Howard Payne and Southwest Texas, each with a 11-7 conference slate, last season.

East Central (Okla.) State of the Oklahoma Collegiate Conference is the first opponent for the Lions, tipping off the season at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, in the Lion Field House. The Tigers went 10-11 on the season last year and lost high scorer Winfred Newson, an All-OCC guard, to graduation.

Returning for the Tigers is the team's second leading scorer, 6-2 sophomore guard Gregg Thomas. Thomas popped in 15 points a game last season, just five points off team leader Newson's pace, and led East Central in assists with 110 during the season.

Rickey LaCour, a 6-1 senior guard, is also back. LaCour sank 8.4 points a contest in a reserve role last year.

The Tigers began their season Tuesday, against Henderson (Ark.) State, and will take on Cameron (Okla.) University Saturday.

East Central will host the Lions in a return match, Tuesday, Dec. 3, in Ada, Okla.

The Bronchos of Central (Okla.) State will be the Lions' second opponent of the season with game time slated for 7:30 p.m. Friday, also in the Field House.

Central State finished its season at 18-8, tying for first place in the OCC with a 12-3 conference mark. Only one starter returns, 6-5 junior forward Troy Denwalt.

Denwalt averaged 9.1 points and 4.3 rebounds for the Bronchos last year. Reserves Michael Johnson, Joe Sheets and Stanley Burdine have moved into starting slots for this season.

Johnson, 6-3 senior guard scored 10 points and grabbed five rebounds per contest, last season, while 6-5 senior forward Sheets sank 9.1 points and pulled down 5.1 rebounds, each in a reserve role. Senior center Burdine, 6-7 scored 5.5 points and had 3.5 rebounds per game.

The final opponent for the Lions' next week will be Ouachita (Ark.) Baptist University of the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference. The Tigers will take on ET at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, in the Field House.

OBU is coming off a 20-10 season mark, and a second-place finish in the AIC, finishing with a 12-6 conference record. Two-time All-AIC forward Maurice Scarbrough, 6-6 senior, returns for the Tigers.

The Lions will fly to Asheville, N.C. for a doubleheader contest, Friday and Saturday, Dec. 6-7, against the University of North Carolina-Asheville, and the winner of the Western Carolina-East Tennessee game, to be held that Friday.

ET will return to Commerce to open its LSC schedule against Sul Ross, Tuesday, Dec. 10, in the Field House.

...As ET Grid Season Closes

By Barbara Eickenhorst

Ernest Hawkins' Lions, coming off a solid 49-7 victory over Angelo State, will take to the road to close out its 12-game turnover troubled '74 season.

ET will battle Tarleton State at 2 p.m. Saturday, at Memorial Field in Stephenville and at 8 p.m. the following Saturday, Nov. 30, the Lions will meet Bethune-Cookman College in the Tangerine Bowl in Orlando, Fla.

Tarleton stands in last place in the Lone Star Conference with an 0-8 mark, and ranks last in every LSC statistic.

"Tarleton is playing with a bunch of freshmen," Hawkins said Wednesday. "In fact, about 90 per cent of their team are freshmen and there is just no way freshmen can compete in our league."

ET's head mentor added that the Texans are playing with a lot of enthusiasm and that, "you never know," what can happen in a game.

Boley Crawford, Lion offensive coach, said that Tarleton has had a lot of injuries and that they did not have enough depth to make it through a long LSC season.

With the win over Angelo, ET stands 6-4 in season play and 4-4 in LSC competition. Thirty-nine turnovers have played a major factor in the Lion's losses.

Hawkins said that ET had improved from the beginning of the season. "There are a lot of games that we really would like to be able to play over now."

Aundra Thompson, 6-2, 185-pound Richardson junior, leads ET in total offense, pushing for 964 yards in 157 carries, second best in the conference.

Heading up the Lions' scoring efforts is Dallas sophomore Leonard Allen. Allen, 5-8, 175, has booted 27 extra points and 11 field goals to compile a total of 60 points this season.

Defensively, Autry Beamon stands No. 1 in stolen goods for ET with seven interceptions. The 6-2, 195-pound Kaufman senior lacks five steals to break the current LSC record of 35 total interceptions.

Hawkins' team will wrap up the '74 season in Florida against Bethune-Cookman, located in Daytona Beach, Fla.

The Lion head coach said that the Wildcats had, "about the same record," as ET, but he knew nothing else about the school's '74 season as of yet.

In 1973, Charles Moore's team was 9-2 in season play and won first in the Southern Intercollegiate Conference.

LSC PREVIEW

A&I To Close Title Season

Lone Star Conference grid champion Texas A&I will close its regular season schedule against conference rival Southwest Texas at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, in San Marcos.

The NAIA's No. 1 ranked Javelinas clinched the LSC's 40th title with a 42-19 victory over Howard Payne Saturday, Nov 16.

A&I took conference "Player of the Week" honors after the HP win, as well as the LSC crown, as quarterback Richard Ritchie and cornerback Leonard Avery grabbed the offensive defensive honors, respectively.

Ritchie hit 14 of 23 passes for 220 yards and two touchdowns and rushed 12 times for 61 additional yards. The 5-11, 175-pounder also booted six of six extra points.

Avery, the Javelina leader in interceptions this season with five, had eight tackles, an interception and a fumble recovery against the Yellow Jackets.

Javelina runningbacks Don Hardeman and Larry Collins have made A&I the first team to have two runners break the 1,000-yard rushing mark in a season.

Hardeman leads the conference in rushing with 1,257 yards for the season, averaging 125.7 yards per game. Collins is third in LSC rushing statistics with 1,134 yards and a 113.5 game average.

ET's Aundra Thompson is second

Sig Eps Grab First Place In Cross Country Race

Sigma Phi Epsilon runners Jerry Strickland and Rick Frazier took first place honors in the fraternity division of the Delta Tau Delta sponsored Cross Country run Monday.

Strickland broke the tape with a time of 8:37.14 seconds ahead of second place Frazier, clocked at 8:51. Russell Elstorm of Sigma Shi took third with a time of 9:05. Mark McDaniel of the Deltas came in fourth.

Out of 45 runners, the Sig Eps also took places in the eighth, tenth and eleventh spots to capture the team trophy.

For the independents, Felix Hernandez took honors with a time of 8:44. Dave Magg, Tony Martinez and Jeter Cherry took the next three places.

in the conference rushing category, averaging 120.5 yards per game on 964 yards gained. The 6-2, 185-pound junior is ranked 15th in the NAIA's latest rushing statistics. Hardeman is ranked 12th.

In other games played Saturday, SWT defeated Sul Ross, 24-14; Stephen F. Austin knocked off Tar-

Basketball Lionesses Win Opener, 97-11

ET's women's varsity basketball team opened the 1974-75 season Monday, Nov. 18, by rolling over Mountain View Junior College, 97-11.

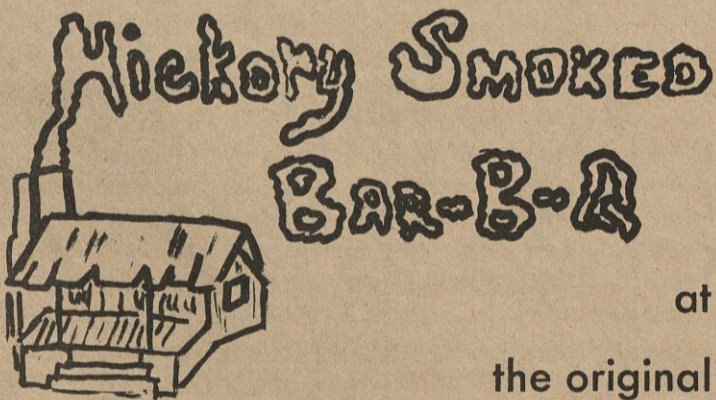

Concerning the opener, Miss Susie Knause, women's varsity basketball coach, said, "We didn't play exceptionally well in the first half but did better in the second half. Mountain View is a new team starting out. It's bad for them to get beaten like that but you can't ask your team not to score."

The women will play the next three games at home against Henderson County Junior College Monday, Nov. 25, Mountain View Tuesday, Dec. 10, and Panola Junior College Friday, Jan. 17.

ET will travel to Dallas Tuesday, Jan. 21, to play Richland Junior College followed by three home games against Eastfield Junior College Tuesday, Jan. 28; Richland Tuesday, Feb. 4; and North Texas State Tuesday, Feb. 11.

The varsity will face their four remaining games away from home including: Eastfield in Dallas Wednesday, Feb. 19, Henderson County in Athens Monday, Feb. 24; Panola in Carthage Friday, Feb. 28; and North Texas State in Denton Tuesday, March 11.

Six tournaments will be included in this year's varsity schedule. ET will participate in the Tarleton Tournament in Stephenville Friday, Jan. 31; the Baylor Tournament in Waco, Friday, Feb. 7; the Houston Invitational Tournament Friday, Feb. 14; the Texas Women's University tournament in Denton Friday, Feb. 21; the Zone Tournament in Commerce Friday, March 14; and the State Tournament in Canyon Thursday, March 27.

Delts Head Fraternity 'A'

By Neal Shepard

Delta Tau Delta continues to knock teams to the wayside in division "A" of fraternity volleyball league action as Alpha Phi Alpha became the sixth straight victim of the Delts, 14-6, 15-3.

The Delts, with a perfect 6-0 record, are one game up on second place Kappa Alpha after Tuesday night play. The two teams were scheduled to meet Wednesday, Nov. 20.

The KAs kept pace with the Delts by knocking off last place Acacia, 9-6, 9-3 in time shortened games.

Other games in the "A" group had Lambda Chi Alpha raising its record to 3-3 defeating winless Delta Chi, 15-11, 15-3 and Sigma Chi defeated Phi Epsilon, 7-14, 11-9, 6-4.

In "B" division Alpha Gamma Rho continues to roll as Sigma Phi Epsilon fell to AGR, 15-5, 15-3. Kappa Alpha trails AGR in second place, one game back, as they took a victory at Alpha Phi Alpha's expense by way of forfeit.

Other games in "B" saw Delta Chi topple Lambda Chi Alpha, 15-3, 15-6, and Delta Tau Delta defeat Sigma Chi, 13-10, 13-11.

The big news in the independent league was the upset win by previously winless Sociology over "B" division leader Playboys, by way of forfeit. That marked the first loss of the year for the Playboys, who now lead second place Scholars by only a half game. The Scholars were idle Monday.

Other games in "B" had Physics defeating the Gold Bars I, 15-5, 10-15, 10-7, while Alpha Phi Omega was downing the Bible Chair, 7-14, 13-10, 14-3.

In "A" division the big battle is for second place as the Grubbers have all but clinched the title, leading the Hilltoppers and Skyraiders, knotted in second place, by two games in the final week of action. Of the three, the Skyraiders were the only ones scheduled to play as they defeated Cool and the Gang, 15-9, 13-11.

Other games in "A" had the Costa Mesa Comets downing the Delta Sigs, 13-15, 15-10, 15-3 while COA was defeating last place Alpha Phi Omega, 13-11, 15-7.

2 Win Free-Throw

Susie Parker and Debbie Johnson were winners in the women's intramural basketball free-throw championships Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 11-12, at Whitley Gym.

Susie Parker hit 16 of 20 free-throws to win the independent championship Monday night. Judith Rowland came in second with 13 and Katie Calhoun hit seven to take third place.

Delta Psi Kappa's Debbie Johnson hit 15 of 20 free throws to take first place in sorority competition, Tuesday night. Ann Themer of Alpha Phi placed second with 14 followed by Delta Psi Kappa's Marion Lockwood in third place with 13. Kappa Delta's Debbie Buck placed fourth with 12. Jo Bundrick of Delta Psi Kappa and Janet McClure of Kappa Delta each scored 10 to tie for fifth place.

Molly Beth Beene of Chi Omega and Debra Gregory of Alpha Phi each scored nine to tie for sixth place. There was also a two-way tie for seventh place between Phyllis Kemer of Chi Omega and Colleen Reville of Alpha Phi with each scoring eight points. Cheryl Belew and Nancy Blunt of Alpha Phi and Ann Mallory of Chi Omega hit seven of 20 to tie for eighth place. Fran Jasica of Alpha Phi finished in ninth place with six followed by Chi Omega's Paula Richardson in tenth with five, and Valerie Meyer placing eleventh with three.

AGR B'ball Tourney To Begin Dec. 9

A basketball tournament sponsored by the Alpha Gamma Rho, social fraternity, is scheduled with the deadline for entries Tuesday, Dec. 3. Play will begin Monday, Dec. 9.

Three leagues, made up of 10 member teams will compete on a double elimination basis, that is, a team losing two games is eliminated.

Tournament registration and entry fee payment will be handled in the Intramural Office at the Field House, where rules will be available.

The Independent League will be limited to eight teams.

Entry fees for the fraternity and sorority teams are $20 each, and $25 for independent teams. The difference being that independent team members will each receive a trophy whereas the Greek leagues will only receive a team trophy.

7 Win Badminton Singles

Becky Bermudz, Jodie Brimer, Vicki Byrd, Connie Joiner, Kelly Perry, Glenda Peterson and Laura Savage were winners as singles competition in women's independent intramural badminton got underway Monday, Nov. 18, at Whitley Gym.

Jodie Brimer won by forfeit over Dorothy Shultz and was then defeated by Connie Joiner, 11-3 and 11-4. Joiner then went on to defeat Sheila Holland, 11-6 and 11-4.

Kelly Perry won over Faye Morris 11-0 and 11-1. Laura Savage won over Debbie Taylor, 11-10 and 11-5. Savage then beat Jo Nell Piazza, 11-8, in the first game of a best-of-three match but lost the match in the final two games, 11-6 and 11-3.

Glenda Peterson won by forfeit over Cindy Newman and then defeated Becky Bermudz by identical scores of 11-0 and 11-0. Bermudz then won by forfeit over Vicki Dabbs, and Vicki Byrd won by forfeit over Becky Kenngott.

HEW Favors Sex Law Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration will support congressional efforts to amend the volatile law prohibiting sex discrimination in the nation's schools and colleges, the director of the U.S. Office for Civil Rights said Nov. 13.

At a breakfast meeting with newsmen, Peter E. Holmes said the Department of Health, Education and Welfare will support an amendment exempting college fraternities and sororities and youth organizations such as Girl Scouts from proposed enforcement regulations.

Holmes said HEW has no position, however, on similar requests to exempt physical education classes and major revenue-producing sports such as college football and basketball from the requirement.

He cautioned newsmen that this does not mean "the flood gates are opening" on the controversial law known as Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972.

Since HEW proposed sweeping antisex discrimination rules last June, more than 9,000 comments have poured into Washington from private citizens, congressmen, college presidents, coaches, grade school principals, women's organizations and fraternities.

Because of the sheer volume of reactions and the complexity of legal issues raised, Holmes said it was unlikely that final regulations would be ready until early next year to take effect in the fall of 1975.

Discount Flights Offered for Holidays

ET students may fly to five Northern cities for the Christmas break for approximately one-third of the regular air fare by taking advantage of a Student Center-sponsored air flight program, according to Student Center Program Director Barry Mangels.

Nine round trips are offered to the following cities: New York City, Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, and Newark, N.J. All flights depart from the Dallas/Fort Worth Airport. The program is being offered in conjunction with Texas Christian University, which began the program.

The dates and corresponding flights are Wednesday, Dec. 18, Chicago; Thursday, Dec. 19, New York City and Chicago; Friday, Dec. 20, Newark, Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, and two flights to New York City. Flights to New York City arrive at LaGuardia Airport. All flights are scheduled to depart between 5-6 p.m., except for one to New York City and one to Newark on Dec. 20, which will depart in the early afternoon.

Students must apply for seats on the flights before Monday, Dec. 2, in the Activities Office on the second floor of the Student Center or at 468-2925. Tickets can be picked up at the Activities Office on Dec. 3 or 4. Information and flight schedules for return trips are also available in the Activities Office.

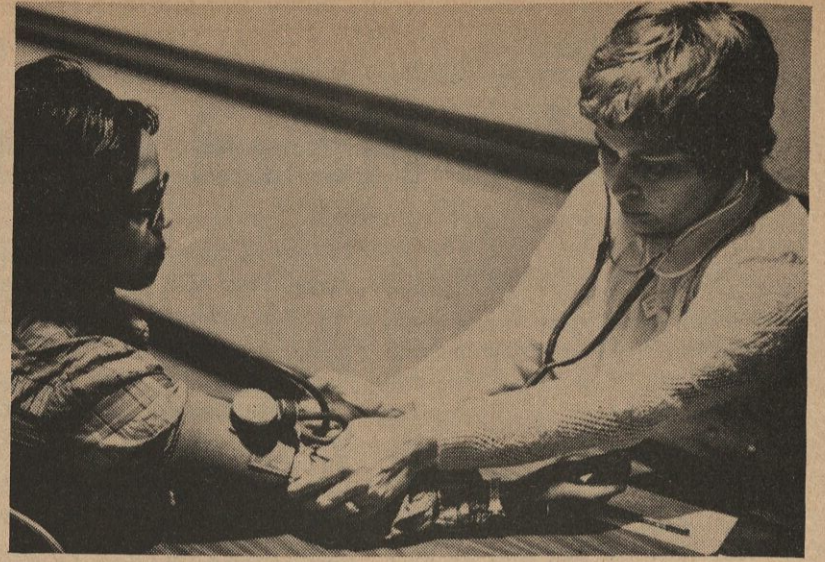

Mangels said that the reduction in fares is available for groups of nine or more people. He said that there should be enough people from ET and TCU to make up large enough groups for reduced air fare. Airlines no longer offer youth fare discounts, and may discontinue their reduced group rates. However, if this program is successful, airlines may be convinced to continue to offer group rates, Mangels said.

The fare covers a round trip, but the student is responsible for scheduling his own return flight on the same airline. If he should decide to cancel his flight, he must deal directly with the airline to get his money back.

Round trip rates for the flights are New York City, $158.73; Chicago, $123.73; St. Louis, $93.73; Kansas City, $77.73; and Newark, $158.73. Without reduced group rates, the trips would cost: New York City, $236.73; Chicago, $152.73; St. Louis, $116.73; Kansas City, $94.74; and Newark, $236.73.

If this program is successful, the Student Center may offer group rates again in the spring and summer, Mangels said.

Library Offers Services To Residents in Vicinity

Residents of Hunt County and adjoining counties are eligible for courtesy cards which permit them to use the Gee Library, according to Dr. Laurence Miller, Gee Library director.

Courtesy cards to the library, offered as a free service, are available upon request to area residents who are at least 18 years old.

Dr. Miller explained that a card may be obtained by coming by the Circulation Desk in the library and filling out forms.

A card will then be sent through the mail to the person who has completed the form.

"We hope that this expanded policy will prove valuable in supplementing the holdings and services of public libraries in the area," Dr. Miller said.

He noted that card holders who are unable to visit the library can be served through the interlibrary loan services available in local public libraries.

This service makes available a collection of more than 600,000 volumes of books, periodicals, government documents and microform items.

Eligible area residents may check out books for a three-week period with one renewal. A fine of 25 cents per day with a 50 cent minimum will be assessed for overdue books.

Borrowers who lose books will be charged the price of the books plus a 30 per cent processing fee.

Materials not available for circulation and which must be used in the library include reserve books, periodicals, government documents, microform items, curriculum materials and reference books.

Miller said that since the primary function of the library is to support the academic program of ET, the library must reserve the right to recall books needed by ET students.

Artists Win Exhibit Awards

Bruce Tibbetts, art faculty, and David Wallin, graduate assistant in the Art Department, obtained honorable mention awards in the 16th Annual Eight State Exhibition of Painting and Sculpture, Sept. 15-Oct. 20.

Works from artists in Arkansas, Colorado, Kansas, Louisiana, Missouri, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas were included in the show in the Oklahoma Art Center.

Wallin also won the Critic Award for a print titled "If It Had Legs." at the First Annual Graduate Student Print and Drawing Exhibition at Northern Illinois University, on display through Nov. 24.

Besides Tibbetts, whose award winning work was titled "Mr. Nippe," and Wallin, whose work was titled "Ode to Goober," nine other ET students and faculty sent exhibits to the Oklahoma exhibition. They are James Allumbaugh, art faculty, "Grand Canyon Series" in acrylic lacquer; Philip Benson, "Wedding Vows" in mixed media; Jay Mike Hart, "Albino Unit" in acrylic; Rick Heitzman, "A Commereite" in acrylic; and William Lamb, art faculty, "Fragment From 20th Century Mythology," a sculpture in steel.

Others are Gary Panter, "A Mammoth on a Birthday Cake" in acrylic, oil and pastel; Barry Phillips, former graduate assistant, "Luna II and the G Rock" in water color; J. C. Sheppard, former graduate student, "Merry-Go-Round" in oil; and James Templer, graduate assistant, "Thrust Phase III" in acrylic.

Both Tibbetts' and Wallin's award winning works were done in acrylic.

TSTA To Request Hike

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The legislative committee of the Texas State Teachers Association said it plans to ask the 1975 Legislature to increase the Texas teacher's average annual salary by almost $3,300.

The decision was made by the committee after hearing Sunday from a number of teachers throughout the state who stressed the need for a teachers' pay raise. Several asked that the current starting pay of $6,600 be raised to a basic salary of $12,000 annually.

The legislative committee recommendation calls for an increase in teacher salaries to at least $500 more than the U.S. average, beginning with the 1975-76 school year.

TSTA officials said the 1973-74 U.S. average was $10,673, but they expect it to rise to $11,761 for the 1975-76 school year.

Average teacher pay in Texas for 1973-74 was $8,967. The TSTA said this put Texas in 37th place among the 50 states in average teachers pay, or $1,706 below the national average.

Students Practice Social Work

Several ET students, majoring in sociology with emphasis in social work, are working with various programs of the Hunt County Opportunity Center and the Hunt County Council on Alcoholism in Greenville getting practical experience in social work.

Ladine Bussey, Dallas senior, works with the Adult Day Care program. The people who use this program are mostly alcoholics, some with family problems, and some with mental problems who can not support or take care of themselves. Among them, some have college educations but are unable to adjust to their environment because of the stress and anxieties that they face through their families.

The program is designed to rehabilitate and teach responsibility. Persons are counseled and taught various handicrafts which they sell to organizations. They also prepare their own food at the center to learn cooperation.

Michelle Skelton, Linden senior, works with the Adult Services program which deals with aged, blind, and handicapped people.

Miss Skelton supervises the services done by state employees, who take care of the food, health, and housing conditions of the group, and provides counseling services.

Kelly Hoy, Mount Pleasant senior, works with the Child Day Care Center for mentally retarded and physically handicapped children.

She assists the crippled children with their physical therapy and exercises, and helps with the education of the handicapped children.

Miss Hoy said that the program has been successful and some of the children who have been treated have returned to public schools.

Nancy Loyd, Hughes Springs graduate, works with the Child Welfare Office that deals with child abuse and neglected children.

"Usually we receive telephone calls from people who know a child is being abused by his parents," Miss Loyd said. She and another social worker try to investigate the problem and gather some background information about the abused child from neighbors, schools, and friends.

They also talk with the parents and try to find their reasons for abusing the child and make them realize the consequences and effects of their behavior on the child, she said.

Miss Loyd said that the abused children are usually emotionally disturbed and there is a definite lack of communication in the families. She added that if a child is seriously beaten or the situation is out of control, the police are notified by the office.

Phillip E. Corbitt, Greenville senior, was appointed executive director of the Hunt County Council on Alcoholism last September. The council provides consultation and referral services for alcoholics, their family, friends, and employees.

The council may refer the alcoholics, according to their financial abilities, to various hospitals throughout Texas. If a person can not afford the hospital costs, he will be referred to Terrell State Hospital, Corbitt said.

"Most alcoholics have psychological, physiological, and social problems. And it is very difficult to convince an alcoholic that he is an alcoholic and he needs serious treatment," Corbitt said. He said that 70 per cent of the council's budget is financed by state government and the remainder through donations from clubs, churches, and other institutions in Hunt County.

Gary Smith, sociology faculty and the coordinator of the social work program, said that the program at ET, with new focuses and developments, is working toward gaining national accreditation. He said that any sociology student interested in social work can contact him at Room 204, Social Sciences Building.

The Sociology - Anthropology Department recently received a $29,640 grant from the federal government, through the Texas State Department of Welfare for social work programs, that will enable it to expand its social work program. Upon graduation, students will be given a certificate by the Council of Social Work on Education which accredits university programs.
