Peggy Stephens Named Miss ET

Peggy Lynn Stephens, 18, Duncanville freshman, was crowned Miss ETSU Thursday night, April 13, by Karen Hollis, Miss ETSU 1972.

Miss Stephens, a graduate of Duncanville High School, is a pledge of Mu Phi Epsilon, music sorority, and

Annual Grand Prix Activities Planned

Getting underway for the fifth consecutive year, Grand Prix will feature three main events beginning at 3 p.m. Thursday, April 19, according to IRHC President, Karen Mialkowski.

The Miss Grand Prix swimsuit contest will start off the events with nine participants registered. The judges for the event include Dr. John J. Koldus, vice president, Student Affairs; Ivory E. Moore, coordinator, Minority Affairs, and Roberta Whitener, assistant director, Student Development.

A one-lap women's tricycle race will follow, with the go-cart race beginning at 4 p.m. The judges for these two events will be President F. H. McDowell; Dr. Richard C. Meyer, vice president, academic affairs, and W. L. Kelley, vice president, Administration. Ten teams made up of four women per team, will compete in the tricycle race, and seven persons will be in the go-cart race, according to Miss Mialkowski.

Dorothy LeMole, ET student and former coordinator of Women's Housing who has worked with Grand Prix ever since it began, will start off the go-cart race. It will be a 125-lap, 45-mile race beginning with the drivers racing to their cars.

Trophies will be awarded to first, second and third place winners in the swimsuit contest and to the first place team of the women's tricycle race. The team with the best costume in the tricycle race will be awarded $5.

Trophies will also be awarded to the sponsoring organizations of the winning go carts. Winners will receive $25 for first place, $15 for second place, and $10 for third place.

Nouyan Files Appeal in Court Ruling

Bahram Nouyan, former candidate for United Students Association president, has filed an appeal of the Student Court ruling which found him guilty of campaign infractions in the March 21 election and prohibited him from holding that office this term.

Nouyan filed his appeal with the office of the dean of Student Life which acts as the liaison for the University Discipline Committee, the body which rules on appeals of Student Court decisions.

The committee is scheduled to meet Thursday, April 19, to hear the appeal.

Four of the six justices who heard the case are charged with prejudice, and five justices are charged with attempting to pressure another justice into disqualifying himself.

Nouyan charged Chief Justice Billy Hicks, Justice Mary Strickland, and Justice Craig Benedict as prejudiced because they actively campaigned for his opponents in the general election held March 21.

According to Nouyan's charges, Justice Mack Andrews has expressed a hostile attitude toward him.

The charges say that the court acted unfairly in preventing Justice Gary Frauman from sitting in judgment of the case.

Five justices, according to the charges, tried to make Justice Kurt Streng disqualify himself.

Nouyan offered to the committee a recording of the proceedings which "will show continual circumstances in which prejudice was shown by rulings of the Chief Justice."

In closing his appeal, Nouyan cited two court cases from 1969 which he said were decided without prejudice. In one case the court ordered a new runoff because it would have been unfair to rule one candidate out of the race due to his infraction (Collins vs. Angle).

The other case cited (Election Commission vs. McClain) concerned the election code as it dealt with private property.

Grad Student Receives AATF French Scholarship

Linda Duckett, Dallas graduate student, has been awarded the American Association of Teachers of French summer scholarship for nine weeks of travel and study in France this summer.

Only six such awards are made each year in the entire United States.

Miss Duckett, who is teaching French at the North Mesquite High School, is working toward the master of arts in French at ET.

Most of her studies in France this summer will be at the University of Grenoble, according to Avery McClurg, ET literature and languages faculty.

Miss Duckett is the first student enrolled in the ET French program to receive the AATF award.

Warren Gives Papers To ET's Gee Library

Former U.S. Ambassador Fletcher Warren of Greenville has given the Gee Library most of his appointment papers and certificates of honor received during his years of diplomatic service, according to Miss Opal Williams, associate director of the library.

Among the gifts presented to the library are four appointment papers and a letter from the Department of State from 1921 to 1934 and 26 appointments from Presidents Calvin Coolidge, Herbert Hoover, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Also included in the collection are foreign certificates of honor from officials of Colombia, Nicaragua and Cuba.

The papers have been placed in the holdings of the Special Collections Room of the Library.

In 1968 Warren was appointed ambassador-in-residence at ET, where he taught and lectured until 1970. At present, he is on leave of absence from the university.

Thomas Lister Named ETSU Medical Director

The position of university medical director and full-time doctor has been filled by Thomas William Lister, M.D., according to Dr. John Koldus, vice president of Student Affairs.

Dr. Lister fills a vacancy which has existed since Dr. Tom Burton departed ETSU in December 1971. Since then medical services have been provided on a part-time basis by local doctors.

Dr. Lister, 36, said he left his private practice in Houston because he felt it was not satisfying enough. He also said he came here because he likes the small town atmosphere in Commerce.

After graduating from Sam Houston State University in 1964, Dr. Lister went to the University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston where he graduated in 1968. He interned at Hermann Hospital in Houston before going into private practice.

Dr. Lister hopes to move into a new medical facility soon, possibly a wing of Henderson Hall or a new building. Once in the new facility he hopes to expand the medical facilities to include a complete lab and additional X-ray equipment.

He said he hopes to start looking for another medical doctor in June in order to reduce the work load. He explained that the medical services cannot be expanded beyond the capabilities of the doctor so to provide better service he feels another doctor is necessary.

Dr. Koldus, in making the announcement of Dr. Lister's acceptance, said he had been searching about five years for a full time doctor.

More Summer Jobs Available to Youth

Many programs are being planned and outlined which will make more summer jobs available to the youth of our nation. In keeping with these efforts at the national level, local and university officials are helping to develop programs which will not only offer job opportunities but help many of our students be able to continue their education next year.

President Nixon's office recently announced three different programs which will total $424 million in federal funds and support job opportunities for more than 775,000 young people across the nation.

The Emergency Employment Assistant Act has been expanded from a $1 billion program in 1972 to $1.25 billion during 1973. States and local communities will be able to use about $300 million of that money for summer youth jobs.

The Direct Federal Employment program makes $50.4 million available to the federal government itself for hiring young people through ongoing federal programs. The federal and state employment services should be able to provide a total of 120,000 jobs for young Americans through this next summer and $3.5 million is available for summer job opportunities in the Youth Conservation Corps.

The National Alliance of Businessmen plans a massive summer employment program to hire an additional 175,000 young people in 126 major metropolitan areas.

Locally, The Texas Association of Financial Aids Administration will sponsor the Summer Employment in Texas program which will provide jobs through the work study program. The Financial Aids Office at ETSU will administer the program locally, working in cooperation with the many cities in the area served by ETSU.

Jack Dickerson, Commerce city manager, said that the City of Commerce plans to hire several people through the ETSU workstudy program during this summer. He said that the city would work through the university instead of on an individual basis, to find students qualified to participate in the work study program.

Steve Miller, director of the ETSU Work Study program, said that Commerce, Greenville, Sulphur Springs, Cumby, Cooper and several other cities in the area were cooperating in the local job opportunity program. He also said that arrangements could also be made so that a student could work in his own home town during the summer through the SET program.

Last year the unemployment rate for youth dropped, according to the White House, by 1.8 per cent, even though the youth labor force increased by 1.1 million people.

Through the many efforts being made by government at all levels to provide summer employment, that figure should be reduced even more this summer. The jobs will be there but you must start seeking them now. Your first stop should be the Financial Aids Office at ETSU.

Letter To The Editor

To The Editor:

In regard to the article published on VD in the April issue of the "Special," I want to commend Miss Liberato and the "Special" staff for a job well done. My only regret is that this article, which explains what to do and where to go, was not published earlier.

I contracted gonorrhea last fall and it cost me almost $88 in doctor bills, because I didn't know where to turn.

I can only urge others who think they may have been exposed to VD to have tests as there are many times when women have no symptoms at all. I was one of those women.

It may prove embarrassing at first, but the consequences, if the disease is not detected, are far worse than any shame or embarrassment one might feel.

For reasons which are apparent, I wish to remain anonymous.

The 70-year-old Miss Warmack first joined the ETSU faculty in 1930, and she came to stay in 1936. She received the B.S. and M.A. degrees from Peabody College.

In addition to teaching at ETSU, she has taught public school in Nashville, Tenn., and Fort Smith, Ark., and she also served on the faculty of Hardin-Simmons University.

Miss Warmack will be required to retire this year due to the university

Approval of a degree in photography within the Department of Journalism-Graphic Arts was passed at the Friday, April 13, meeting of the Coordinating Board of the Texas College and University Systems in Austin, according to Dr. John P. Carrier, assistant dean of ET's College of Liberal and Fine Arts.

Dr. Carrier said the major for photography was voted on by all members with only one dissenting vote. He said the effective date of the major would not be authorized until a later board meeting.

ETSU will be the second school in Texas offering photography as a major. Sam Houston State is the other. ET has nine photography courses (two which may be repeated once) with two individual study courses in photography available.

The proposal presented to the Coordinating Board estimated the number of students expected to major in photography from approximately 50 students in 1973-74 to possibly 150 majors in 1977-78.

ETSU Ranks Fifth In TOP Loan Total

Of the universities in Texas, ET ranks fifth in the number of Texas Opportunity Plan loans made, according to Ronny Barnes, of financial aids. The four universities ahead of ET, in order of rank, are Prairie View, Texas A&I, Texas Southern, and the University of Texas at Austin.

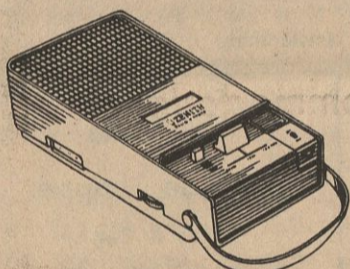

Since the TOP loan program started in 1966, the TOP office at ET has made 14,477 loans totaling $6,084,285, according to Barnes. As of March 31 of this year, 1,301 loans totaling $728,799 have been made.

"I can see the TOP program growing," said Jerry Lytle, director of financial aids.

The average delinquent rate, the delinquency period being six months or over, for Texas is 12.51 per cent. According to Barnes, the delinquency rate for ET is 9.44 per cent. Some colleges have as high as a 35 per cent delinquency rate.

More emphasis is being put on delinquent collections, according to Lytle. 13 ex-students have had suits filed against them by the attorney general of Texas.

'Ear' Listens To Problems

By Joe Snyder

Small problems can sometimes build up inside a person until they reach suicidal proportions. Often having someone to talk to can help.

Operating under this premise, students and faculty from the departments of personnel and guidance, sociology and psychology have initiated the "Listening Ear" in the northeast corner of the University Hospital. The Ear is open from 7 p.m. to 3 a.m. seven days a week, and may be reached by telephone at 468-2986.

The Ear is described as a "drop-in coffee and conversation center" by the 30 student staff members. Travis McCracken, Longview junior and director of information and referrals, said the Ear is "just a place to come talk—people don't have to have gigantic problems or be screwed up."

But problems are the reason for the Ear in the first place, and the counselors are expected to handle anything from loneliness to attempted suicides. Before sitting in on a shift at the Ear, a counselor has received 45 hours of training, consisting of listening skills courses, role playing in various anticipated problem areas, and an exchange of experiences with the counselors.

A similar operation, also called the Listening Ear, was initiated in October 1970 and continued through the 1971 spring semester. Sponsored by the University Christian Center and not officially connected with ET, the original Ear was staffed by volunteers. Some of the student counselors for the new version of the Ear receive class credit in "practicum" courses for their work.

Depression, boy-friend-girl-friend drug, venereal disease, and child runaway problems are among the types expected daily by the Ear staff. Loneliness remains the biggest problem, however, according to Dan Corley, Greenville graduate and director of the Ear. "Loneliness is a major problem everywhere, but it's bad in this town in particular and especially on weekends," he said.

One problem the Ear faces is the "trust factor," Corley said. "Older people think we're selling dope; younger ones think we're narcs." Confidence is stressed throughout the counselor's training, according to Marian Nunnally, Jacksonville graduate. "The only records kept for any telephone call or walk-in visit are the nature of the problem, the sex and approximate age of the client."

Clients of the Ear are not limited to ET students. Records at the Ear show that in its first two months of operation, the Ear has counseled 17 female and 13 male clients, in ages ranging from 11 to 50. This relatively low number is attributed to the fact that "word hasn't gotten around yet," according to Marty Marsh, Commerce graduate.

Referrals to professional persons and organizations for help with specific problems or information about health, drugs, suicide intervention, etc., are a major part of operating the Ear. A book of phone numbers and addresses of those professionals, located in Commerce, Greenville and Dallas, is kept updated at the Ear for instant referral service.

Despite the problems of trust and lack of publicity about the Ear, which seems to limit the number of clients, most of the counselors feel the same way as Corley, who said, "If we only help one person, the whole thing is worth it."

Student Center To Host TCJC Black Drama Group

A black drama group from Tarrant County Junior College in Fort Worth will present a play written by black playwright LeRoi Jones at 7 p.m. Wednesday, April 18, in the American Ballroom. The free presentation will be sponsored by the Student Center's Student Activities Board.

A picture-slide presentation of the members of Alpha Phi Alpha, social fraternity, will be shown in the foyer of the Student Center from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday and Friday, April 19-20.

Of 800 bumper stickers originally purchased by the Society of Physics Students saying, "East Texas State Lions, NAIA Nat'l Champs," only 100 are left, according to Dr. Arlen Zander, physics faculty and adviser of the society.

The original purchase of 200 sold out at the game, Zander said, and a second purchase of 300 sold in the lobby next to the book store in the Student Center in three days. A third purchase of 300 was then made and at this time about 100 remain. They can still be purchased for $1 from the physics' main office, the East Texas Book Store on Lee Street, and the business office of the Journalism Department.

The money earned thus far was used in the purchase of a government surplus seismograph which is planned to be in operation by the fall semester, according to Dr. A. W. Ibrahim.

Coed-Housing Study Made

Students living in a coed housing arrangement are more likely to develop a greater number of platonic relationships than residents of a unisex hall, according to a study conducted by Dick White, Berry Hall head resident and Francis White, associate head.

The survey showed that the coed residents are more prone to choose members of the opposite sex as closest friends. Dick White conducted the survey on the ET campus dealing with essentially nonsexual relationships developed by the residents in coed living. The purpose of the study was to "compare the types of relationships established by men and women living in the coed setting, with the relationships developed by residents, both male and female, of unisex halls," according to White.

White said the subjects of the study were randomly selected from the dorms on campus. Fifty residents, 25 men and 25 women, were selected from the coed hall serving as an experimental group, and 25 residents from each of the four undergraduate, unisex halls (two all male halls and two all female halls) were selected as a control group. "The total random sample of 150 residents represents approximately ten per cent of the overall population," said White. "The subjects we chose were instructed to omit a relative or any person with whom he or she was having a sexual relationship, such as dating, petting, or sexual intercourse," said White.

The result of the study indicated students living in a coed hall developed more closer friendships than those living in a unisex hall. White also said "female residents of the coed hall chose males as close friends with a greater frequency than did females in an all girls dorm, while males in the coed halls did not choose females as close friends with any greater frequency than males of the unisex halls.

White said the survey attempted to show how males and females interacting in the same environment made lasting friendships. He theorized and said that the "closeness of these relationships would emphasize the effectiveness of the coed arrangement in facilitating human interaction on a personal level."

ADPi Holds First Annual Rock-a-Thon

Rocking around the clock for 54 hours was the main objective for eight campus organizations last weekend as Alpha Delta Pi, social sorority, held its annual Rock-a-Thon.

Rocking for the National Fund for Hearing and Speech Project, each team had sponsors pledge money for the total number of hours rocked. The money collected will be used to help purchase more modern equipment for various speech and hearing clinics throughout the nation.

Participants in the rock were social fraternities Alpha Gamma Rho, Delta Chi, Kappa Alpha, Pi Kappa Phi, Sigma Chi and Phi Kappa Theta. Kappa Delta and Gamma Phi Beta social sororities were also represented. Chi Omega, social sorority, made a donation to the Rock-a-Thon.

Also donating to the rock was the Speech Department's National Student Speech and Hearing Association. Because of rain the rock was stopped four different times for five minutes each to allow rockers time to move to shelter. Ending the rock in Henderson Hall were all six fraternities and the KDs.

ADPi also entered its own chair, rocking for pledges from Commerce businesses. Peggy Clarke, San Antonio sophomore, rocked the first 24 hours for ADPi alone, the longest for any team member during the rock.

Commerce businesses donating food and drink for the rockers were Howards, Zschoepes, The Showdown, Red Colemans, Piggly Wiggly, Roy's Do-Nut Shop and Muller's Ice House.

First, second and third place awards will be presented Thursday, April 19, to the team with the most money collected from the sponsors. The deadline for turning in money is 5 p.m. Wednesday, April 18. An award for the most original rocker will also be given.
