This Week

This Week would suggest that the Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company start a Cigarette Field College for the benefit of those students of other Colleges who desire to attend the dances being sponsored throughout the country by that company as a means of advertising its products.

And Bo Woolsey has gone to work. This Week believes that he holds the record of being employed at more places at the same time than any other student. His latest place of employment is the College Drug Store which has been bought by Mr. Kendrick from Doc Byr.

"I gotta make a drivin'," says Bo. "Come to see me at the College Store if you come at the right time but after the time I'll be waiting for Vic Overy's Tailor Shop. Then later on in the day, you might be able to find me at the Hess and Brown establishment. I wish I could get a job."

What a kind heart Noble Arthur has. Last Saturday, he devoted the whole day to rearranging the display cases in his Drug Store in order to make more room in the front of the establishment. This Week has never heard of any business man making a greater interest in his neighbor for lofers.

Another establishment is to be opened near the College soon. Work is now being done on the building between Hall's Grocery and York's Tailor Shop in order to prepare it for what this Week has heard will be a new cafe. Maybe this will eliminate some of those hungry looks that the students who have seven-fifty-five classes.

This Week does not know the names of the students who attended the 17,000 a year for each of the 17 municipal Junior Colleges was moved under $9 to 26.

Salary Cut For Teachers

Austin, May 4.—The economy bill in the House scored a victory over the Appropriations committee today when it succeeded in adopting an amendment to the Educational Appropriation bill to reduce salaries of department heads and instructors by five and ten per cent. Rep. De Wolfe of Goldsworthy, author of the amendment, estimated it would reduce the total of the bill between $50,000 and $1,000,000.

The amendment was adopted over the vigorous protest of the Appropriation Committee. Salaries between $1,500 and $1,750 would be reduced five per cent and above $1,750 by ten per cent.

An amendment was adopted to cut out all appropriations for the play-up at state institutions except at the University of Texas and A. M. The amendment would prohibit use of local funds of the Teachers' College for the extension work.

Bledsoe Is Commended By Friends

Following is one of many letters from friends and educators throughout the State relative to the recent Cigarette Law enacted by the Legislature at its recent session.

"Ten years since the Council of Presidents of Teachers Colleges developed into the American Association of Teachers Colleges. There are at present one hundred and eighty colleges affiliated, representing all states and several foreign lands. During the last presidential year, the committee on the publication of a journal which will deal with the problems of the Teachers College. According to President Whitley the standards now are to be made more definite requirements as to degrees will not be lowered, but with academic attainments must go along with some of us, as least, are glad to pay.

Community Players Are Rehearsing

Those who think that putting on a play is a smooth matter of learning's lines, walking about the stage practicing them, and then dressing up and strutting out before the audience might get a very few minor points of the Constant Wife, now in rehearsal for presentation by the Community Theatre Friday evening.

Tuesday morning, with only three days to go, the rehearsal of the important characters—back the chief complication of the play—got up with the particularity type of badly wretched mumps. A new vamp for the show had been secured by the show. Before Director Maude Webster got out all her condolees for the show, she snatched Miss Carrwell out of her care for the show and placed her in the three full practice periods.

By the time Miss Carrwell had spent six hours making felicitous speeches to her roommates, the rehearsal was over and she was ready to work with the rest of the company. Stage Carrwell has the most perfect hammer to such good effect that the room in which the action of the play is being rehearsed for the wall-paper. But he had left the grand piano on in the room and she was ready to work with the rest of the company.

Little Theatre To Close Season Friday

Commerce Community Theatre on Friday evening will close the season with Somerset's "Constant Wife." This play, which has been regarded as one of the most successful theatrical successes in recent years, the larger Little Theatres of the country have taken on the play, realizing its interest and effectiveness.

"The Constant Wife" takes up the problem of a husband's unfaithfulness from a new angle. That it has the wife's attitude hinge on moral independence if she can swing the other way. It is the man's right to do as she pleases—she accepts her husband's money, she really gets an ornament, so why complain? But, "Constant" enters the money-making field, she decides things for herself, and she is a clever woman, she strikes John in his most vulnerable spot, his vanity. A man hates to be made fool of and "Constant" makes use of John until the process hours.

The mother of Constant stands by her side and she uses all the old ideas of the world of the men if they are a little bit more than our opinion naughtily, in fact, it gives their personality sort of an added attraction. Mrs. O. C. May as "Mrs. Culver" is a well-dressed character, she gives just the right flavor to this clever part.

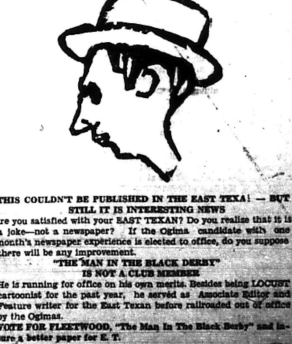

Printed below is a clipping of a dodger distributed by John Fleetwood supporters Friday morning on the Campus. Please note the statement that this could not be printed in the East Texas. No one was contacted concerning the possibilities of getting said information printed in this publication, therefore, to prove that such material is unobtainable, it is printed herewith. Criticism from the East Texas and its staff does not prevent appearance of such material in this paper. THE EDITOR.

A FAIR FIGHT

The hour has struck! It is now time for those who are veritable representatives of the truth to lift their voices in the interest of clean politics and a fair fight, free from untruths and the conventional mud-slinging.

Facts promulgated herewith were to be withheld because they are adversely influential in the downfall of the chances of John Fleetwood for editor-in-chief of the East Texan. Mr. Fleetwood, through his Campaign Manager, Forrest Blankenship, and through others who have spoken in his interest in that connection, have willingly misrepresented facts in such a way that a reflection has been cast upon his integrity. Therefore, I find it necessary to expound the facts in their true nature.

First, it has been stated that John Fleetwood has served in the capacity of Associate Editor of the East Texan until he was discharged in order to make room for Kenlock Brady, which event transpired less than one month ago, immediately after I, as editor-in-chief of this publication, had accompanied members of the Ogima Club on a week-end party to Lake Worth. (For veracity of this statement, consult those present at special champagne and Monday and also heretofore reported in this paper Thursday in the interest of the downfall of the Ogima Club.)

It is apparent no apologies in calling the above statement a lie is apparently making his platform on dirty deals he received from my hand instead of qualification that he has for filling the position; therefore, I find it necessary to divulge the particulars concerning his connection with the East Texan and his discharge therefrom, such revelation being without political reasons but to exculpate myself from accusations that have been made against me. John Fleetwood began his newspaper career under my regime as editor of this paper early in the month of 1920, when in order to develop his journalistic possibilities, I appointed him Assistant Editor and has been stated by Blankenship and him in this connection. However, after that point, their story deviated from the truth.

For some time Fleetwood worked well in the field of writing freak features, but took no interest in the learning of the editing of the paper or other duties of Associate Editor. In the Fall session, it was retained in that position but started failing to fulfill his assignments. Accordingly, I stopped giving him assignments, but kept his name on the masthead until the end of the term. However, on East Texan carrying a 1921 date has his name on the staff sheet as Associate Editor, and the East Texan was operated from that time until the first of the Spring term of 1921 when, as an Associate Editor, at which time Kenlock Brady was appointed to that position by me in an effort to have a man trained for the position of editor-in-chief when my term expires and I realized that Fleetwood, for whom I had first had hopes, was apparently not interested in learning.

Therefore, with my intention to exculpate myself from erroneous statements and to right such declarations, I promulgate the fact that John Fleetwood was discharged from the position of Associate Editor of the East Texan for incompetence and the lack of interest.

Brady was made Associate Editor of this paper at the beginning of the Spring term, and his name was placed on the masthead as holding that position shortly thereafter. (Anyone doubting the veracity of this statement is asked to come to the office of the East Texan where he will be shown a copy of the paper with Brady's name thereon, with the date on the sheet showing time of appointment.)

I see no possible connection that could be made between the appointment of Brady and the week-end party to which I was invited by the Ogima. Brady was appointed at the time stated above and the week-end party at Lake Worth was not held until April 18, which was six weeks after the beginning of the term.

Glass Prophecy

Starting round with open eyes,
 Looking for some one so question
 Of this marvelous surprise,
 Behold here a lady,
 Coming on with footsteps slow,
 And I thought I would accost her
 And learn what I wished to know.

As she came to be still nearer,
 I thought I had seen that face,
 Somewhere else, yet could not put it
 In exactly its right place;
 But at last she stood before me,
 And all my wonder vanished quite.

Twas our old friend, Willie McGlasson
 And I met her with delight.
 It was strange that I should know her,
 For the change in her was great;
 She was very tall and slender,
 While she moved with graceful stride.
 Said I had been long away,
 And gave me an invitation
 To remain with her that day.
 Her kind offer I accepted.

When I saw the shrimp hair with the well-known name of "Competition,"
 While the same gleamed from each sight;
 And my eyes were opened wider than they'd ever been before,
 When I saw a slip of paper which I gazed over the pro-

And she halted a flying car,
 Which he boarded, skimming swiftly
 Through the ether, fast and clear;
 I watched the conductor fly—
 'Twas a lady, short and stout,
 Puffly able to assist the Passengers step in or out.

As she took my fare she knew me,
 And stood pointing out strange sights—
 Jessie Gardner thus had proven
 Her belief in Woman's Rights.
 On the car a diote was sitting,
 Tying with a pocket-sail,
 Why, 'twas Sam Ford I scarcely
 Would have known that man at all.

Soon we filled past a corner
 That looked like old times to me,
 For it was the well-known corner
 Where the Pharmacy used to be.
 Now the pac elwas changed to show
 A Factory twenty stories high;
 And I noticed a small fish-stand
 There, as we were passing by.

And behind the greasy counter,
 Blood a man I knew at sight;
 Yes, for it was "Blacker" Bond
 Shouting "Fish" with his might.
 I looked out at him in wonder,
 For whoever would have thought
 That our old-time brilliant president
 Could to such a task be brought.

But the whole day brought surprises;
 Pamle dancing on the stage,
 Margaret Green an opera singer,
 Parker a preacher, quite the rage;
 Strutter a soldier; Ruth an actress;
 Pauline, an old maid prim, and
 Helen had grown so very heavy,
 Anti-Pat was all she'd eat.

Next we met old Lulu Milam
 Brooding over financial loss.
 Half the class invested in oil wells.
 He diast their fortunes with Foy

 Kibler, Armstrong, Chapman,
 Galyon,
 Harrison, Nobles, Hall, and West,
 Struck their all on wild cat

 And found a dry hole in the test.

as well as the grade year associates. Specially do the seniors thank the wonderful mothers of the class who have been so cooperative and so interested in the senior class and have worked faithfully in showing them a good time. Every Senior when thinking of his last year in high school, will remember those mothers.

IN FAREWELL
We've had a jolly time. There's an end to this bad; Whatever you have strived, To the good and to the bad; Our college life is ended, But we cannot say we're glad. Now that we graduate, Good-bye Ole' East Texas. A happy farewell to thee. We would rather linger. But you know that cannot be. For we must graduate.

Dates Announced For College Hi Graduating

Announcements made from the office of Director H. H. Watson of the College High School, the dates for more than forty of the high school diplomas, about half of these being in the Training School program, will be sent in the sub-college section.

The commencement sermon for this group will be delivered in the new auditorium at eight o'clock Sunday evening, May 24. The Reverend Thomas Gallaher, newly installed pastor of the Commerce Presbyterian Church, will be the minister.

The graduating exercises proper will occur at eight o'clock Wednesday evening, May 27, in the new auditorium. Dr. S. H. Whitley, president of the college, will address the class and deliver the diplomas.

The general public is invited to these programs.

TRAINING SCHOOL SENIOR CLASS WEEK

Last week beginning with May 4th, the Training School Seniors celebrated their class week. A program for the week had been arranged some time before and it was carried out in the following order:

At 3 o'clock Monday afternoon the Seniors started things going with a picnic, with plenty to eat and after having a few games with plenty of appetite to eat, every one enjoyed the picnic. At 5:30 o'clock each one returned home to assemble again at 8:00 o'clock for a party at the home of Adelle Belle Douglas on Hillcrest. True to the class spirit always shown in this class, everyone was congenial and no one failed to have a good time. Games of bridge, forty-two and pool were played and at 10 o'clock refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. After the party, the girls went to the home of Katherine Howe for a slumber party. After a few hours of romping and playing the girls were ready to eat again and at two a. m., sandwiches and fruit punch were served.

When classes were dismissed Tuesday the entire class went to the home of Nita Myers, where an elaborate lunch was served by the mothers of the class. The menu was as follows: pressed chicken, cubed potato salad, deviled eggs, celery, baked apples, black eyed peas, hot rolls, iced tea and strawberry ice cream with angel food cake. The house and tables were decorated with beautiful roses and orchid and white verveas as favors.

Tuesday evening at seven p. m. the Seniors went to Cooper for a Theatre Party where they were cordially received and made welcome by Mr. Sparks. Almost everybody enjoyed the picture, "Fidd" featuring Joan Crawford. After returning from the show, the girls spent the night with Bernice Marie Gist.

All day Wednesday, preparations were being made for class day at Fernside Lake. Although weather conditions did not look so favorable, hopes were held high and on rising early Thursday morning every one was happy to see a clear sky and prospects of a beautiful day. At 8:30 Thursday morning the Seniors left for Fernside. Almost all of the class went, with the following chaperones: Mrs. W. P. Gist, Mrs. Clifton, Miss Worman, Mr. E. W. Duck, Mr. Chas. B. Abner, Mrs. E. A. Wilson, and Mrs. Tom tables and coronas of orchid and white sweet peas with ferns as favors. The last course of strawberry ice cream and cake was served at the home of Helen Owen where the class remained until eleven o'clock dancing and playing games. The favors for this course were small diplomas tied in orchid and white ribbon.

After the party, the girls of the class spent the remainder of the night with Margaret Wright. On Saturday evening the last event of the week was given at the home of Francis Harris. Every Senior enjoyed the affair and at ten thirty each one went to his home happy to have taken part in the events of this week. The Seniors feel that they owe a great deal to the teachers, especially Mr. E. H. Watson, who has helped make this class week.

Through the efforts of the mothers of the class a progressive dinner party was enjoyed Friday night. The class met at the home of Miriam Smith at 7:45 p. m. where a delicious fruit cocktail was served, on entering the dining room bouquets of sweet peas and fern were placed on each of the members of the class. After this the party progressed to the home of Glan Clifton for the salad course. The table was beautifully arranged with the class colors of orchid and white and a congenial vegetable salad and fruit punch were served. The main dinner course was served at the home of Charles Heberly. The menu consisted of fried chicken, creamed gravy, potatoe chix, baked apples, deviled eggs with lettuce, olives, hot rolls, and iced tea. Again the class colors were used and with orchid and white petunias for center pieces on the

Along with the close of the track season comes the end for tennis racketeers. This season has been a rather successful one for the local boys for they have been able to take 9 out of 12 meets with first ranking Dennis teams from nearby localities. Two meets have been held with TFAA teams, the Lions winning one and losing one.

Little Theatre

The actors are the people you want to see in the parts. The Hammett is "Constantine", Mr. Baker is "Bernard" the lover of yesterday who comes in very handy to make John look foolish. Mr. Bradshaw is "John" the trifling husband. Mrs. Adair plays the sister "Mazha" who does not miss the truth about the whole affair. Mrs. "Quiver" the mother who believes in being still about unpleasant things is Mrs. O. C. Mulberry. Mrs. Bowman is the business friend who helps "Constantine" to financial independence. Mrs. "Adelaide" a charming singer has the title to be "Constantine's" best friend. Mrs. McCaskey plays the part. Mrs. "Mabel" the "Lovers' Inevitable" brings things

IN congratulating the winners in the great Camel contest we want at the same time to thank most cordially the approximately million men and women who displayed their friendly interest by sending in an entry.

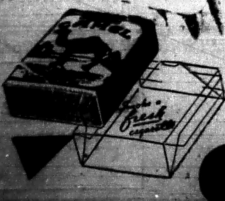

We wish also to thank the millions of smokers throughout the country for the appreciation they are showing for our new Hamdard Pack as is evidenced by the notable increase in the sale of Camel cigarettes.

By means of this dust-proof, germ-proof, moisture-proof Cellulose wrapping the rich aroma and full flavor of choice Turkish and mellow Domestic tobaccos have been steered in Camels for your enjoyment.

If you have not tried Camels in the Hamdard Pack all we ask is that you switch over to this brand for one day.

After you have learned how much enjoyable, how much cooler, how much more enjoyable, it is to smoke a perfectly conditioned fresh cigarette, go back to the harsh hotness of stale cigarettes if you can.
