Our Teachers

Our College teachers represent some of our finest efforts. Most of them are sincere, conscientious, and self-sacrificing workers. They are responsible to a great degree for the preservation of our ideals and the maintenance of the basic principles of our government. What a rapid retrogression we should make without them!

The average college student has little sympathy for the teacher and regards them, many times, as unfair and discriminating. Sometimes one thinks they assign long and unjust lessons. But does he ever stop to think that they have nothing but the welfare of the class in mind when making these assignments? They have definite subjects which must be completely covered in a specified time, in order that attendance may be the most benefit from the subject. They are responsible to the school board and state for the successful instruction of students. They are accountable to parents and individual faculty for the instruction of the students. They are responsible to the state for the instruction of the students. They are responsible to the state for the instruction of the students. They are responsible to the state for the instruction of the students.

Separate Subjects

Did you ever have an opportunity to learn a certain thing, but could not see where you would ever have any use for it? Did you hesitate and finally decide against it, when you had the time and the opportunity but lacked the desire to learn the thing, when it was presented?

If so, some day you will regret the lost opportunity. Life is strange that way. You can't see ahead, and perhaps experience is lacking. Probably you have not come to know that all knowledge is correlative. Everything you learn today develops in what you learn tomorrow, and so on through life. That is, if you are able to see the relation and to use it.

Some persons are so dumb or so obtuse that they go on learning what we call "separate subjects" and their knowledge does not make them educated. To stop studying when you can't see where it is going to help you is the life mistake that you will not outgrow. You are the best to continue to study and learn all that is possible. "We never get too old to learn, and we can't learn too much."—W. A. V.

Dame Fashion Crashes Football

"Odds-on's grid team will wear silk shorts this season," says a new report. Evidently the Sooners no longer will sit in velvet, but expect a rain in silk.

Next thing they'll have our manly American gridlers also in extreme feminine trims, including wide, white straps, and georgette-crispe-voile chemises!

With the good old pigskin football giving way to the modern playing.

Cleated shoes no doubt will become vulgarly obsolete. Vulture foot-pads with two straps, Neapolitan toes, and Cuban heels will be the latest fashions for women.

Sweet skirts? How can you so plebeian, Oswald! Surely you meant worsted perspiration frocks. . . . Yes, they'll feature a variety of soft colors, Valenciennes lace work-trims, and French ruffles, including fringed crepe.

Now say you wish co-eds played football. . . . Now, Oswald!

If I must get out to say the coaches, trainers, and owners will be back the bench (how vulgar, I mean the coach). He'll be the boundary lines) with high grade, expensive, fade-resistant printed silk and percale netweaves and columns of the most varied varieties. Yes, Oswald, the types favored by defuncts.

You should never say hip and ankle pads, Oswald! Naughty! Naughty! They're known as pelvic binders, 'know. The referee's whistle! How stupid of you, Oswald!

(Of course, it's the arbiter's instrumental admonition.)

And then there's . . . Say, who started this anyhow?—(Prologue.)

To Think For Today
Purity is Obscurity.

These would-be correspondents who are puncture timid about their identity should mail their letters to the East Texan—provided, of course, that they observe the extravagance expense rule of 2 for a stanza.

Dear Sir:

I had a date with a football player. He was mighty glad to show me to Greenville to see a show. He said he would come with me and we'd get some lunch until two in the morning. Did I wrong?—K. M. K.

Dear L. M. K.:

Don't you remember?

Yours,
Sue.

Dear Sue:

I was an attractive well educated girl, but someone I am not popular. Tell me how I can raise status. —L. P.

Dear J. E.:

Are you trying to force me to tell you my secret by asking me to write you? I can't tell you my secret, but perhaps I can help you with a little advice. —M. J.

First, let's presume that there is something in your secret that is worth your desiring service, which you, not pay the complete price.

12,000 gas concerts turned out Armistice Day in Port Worth to witness the game of all games between the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs and the University of Texas Longhorns. The Horned Frogs 14 to 0 win against a powerful backfield, possibly tonight. This battle was hailed as the one to determine this year's Southwest Conference championship.

This was the largest crowd ever to turn out for a football game in the city. The game was won by the Frogs. This victory means that the Horned Frogs have only to defeat the Rice Institute and the Southern Methodist University Mustangs. Their loss to Baylor last week has literally smothered the Longhorns.

Big Ben Boswell, Porter Howell, Red McMillan, and Fred Hays, the all-around 200 pound frog were instantly in the heavy' backfield breaking up the Longhorns. The Frogs seemed to realize that this was their last chance to play, and were making the most of it.

Head Coach of the Texas Christian Horned Frog backfield passed through the line of the meters in a manner that was nobody's business. He earned passes intended for the stars; slipped opponents down, and ran over opposition for constant gains.

Frog Break Up Plays
Bob Hilliard, the highly sought new big man, brought new life every move brought on morning opposition. Hilliard failed last year on Texas look to the air. They completed several good passes, but failed to get any of the end-patch scored to score. The Longhorns were tired when they were on the field, but all they may make come to naught.

Red Green scored his T. C. U. touchdowns and seems to be certain of being the leading scorer.

Purkers promises to be interesting. This week's schedule: University of Arkansas at Fayetteville, T. C. U. vs. Rice Ovals at Houston. Texas A. & M. vs. Southeastern at Dallas.

Twelve-Man Teams
New Football Idea

PARADISE, Nov. 14.—(Colleges and football fans who were told that the first 12-man grid combination was not to be played this week were undoubtedly in some extent unenthusiastic about the idea of first ball battles with twelve men on each side.

The historic contest here was played in Friday night in the East Texas arena, and resulted in the defeat of Texas A. & M. by Southeastern.
