Ex-Students Celebrate Tomorrow Both Men Rank Among Texas' Best Speakers

Fiddlers, Dancers Hold Folk Festival

Over hundred and twenty students will receive recognition on Monday May 23 when they will be presented the baccalaureate degree by President Sam H. Whiteley. This is exactly the number who graduated last year with the baccalaureate degree, a record. It is in evidence that year as seventy-six apply for Bachelor of Science degree.

The graduates come from scattered towns over this section of the state, with only one out of state member from Natchitoches, Louisiana, Commerce, Greenville, and Sulphur Springs lead in the number of graduates, favorite sons being 22, 12 and 12 respectively.

Speakers

Two of the most influential speakers ever to address a graduation class of East Texas State will be heard Sunday and Monday morning when Bishop Clinton S. Quinn will make the baccalaureate address and Governor James V. Albright, the main commencement address. Another, have addressed the service before.

Albright, Quinn, Episcopal vicarman of the Houston Diocese, is one of the truly outstanding religious leaders in the state. He is expected to deliver thoughtful, fine address. The baccalaureate service will be held at eleven o'clock Sunday morning.

Governor Albright, elected by the people of the United States as one of the outstanding young men of the nation, will undoubtedly bring an informative address. The final exercises, commencement address, and awarding of degrees will begin Monday morning at 9:45.

Officials expect large crowds to take advantage of the opportunity to hear both of these outstanding speakers. Church services will be furnished for the Sunday service and no classes will meet Monday the third and fourth periods.

The final act of the graduation exercises will be the college Monday morning when President Sam H. Whiteley, with the assistance of Ivan A. Ferguson and Reggie J. White, will conduct the ceremony. Each graduate will be given a certificate and he will receive the degree.

The graduating exercise program follows:
