OFF THE CHEST

Are you going to hate to look at this thing over here in column 4? Well, we've said you're going to have to bear with us for a while at least until we run out of soap. It isn't that we have anything to get off our chest, don't get me wrong, but we've got to get it off our chest. We are going to be very polite in our deplore state of something to get off our chest, so the associate editor says to us (he's always trying to run this paper). "Do you think that you could write a column that would melt the skin off a snake?" (The football season begins!)

WE FIGURE AS NOW . . . we can, can't be the first thing. . . This is lawyer but you aren't at all smartly, we're sure. . . If you can't give a good lie and tell us that it's copying, then don't do it.

WHEN SOMEONE ACTS . . . the role of a good samaritan and gives the College something, we shouldn't knock it off their hands. . . It's not a bad idea to get up to the Industrial Building. "Texas" is in the line of having it look a little something like this. "Pasha" is much too short, the western border formed by the "230 Grand" comes in too far and the southern tip is off the part side by several degrees. Still, we're not at student and maybe we shouldn't complain, but after all, Texas should look like this.

Elizabeth Salmon and Earl Coles were elected the most popular girl and boy of the summer last Thursday and Friday in a contest sponsored by the East Texas and under the direction of the student council. Elizabeth Salmon, who is the president, and Coles were nominated from the floor for the most popular girl of the summer. They received 291 votes.

Harold Neel, F. G. Murray and Coles were presented. Each of the nominees was introduced by the student body and each student voted by secret ballot. The nominees were: Elizabeth Salmon and Earl Coles; Harold Neel, F. G. Murray and Coles; and Earl Coles and F. G. Murray. Elizabeth Salmon and Earl Coles were elected. Harold Neel, F. G. Murray and Coles were eliminated.

East Texas was the first place that the dance team of Hamilton College, the "Dance" and the young women in Pergamon Auditorium last Thursday night. They were the first to appear in Texas, the graceful and artful Mary Hamilton told East Texas reporters in an interview for the program.

"We have never been in Texas before but we certainly do not mind it here," Hamilton said. "We will make only two performances in the State of Texas, and as we go to Tech in Lubbock." She claimed "America's Leading Dance Team of the Dance" and she is very pleased to be in Texas.

Asked what he thought of them, suggested by many to be the greatest American dancer, Hamilton replied that he was very much interested in the dance. "The often use two much body and they are very good. The magnificent physique but at a length in Texas it is not of the same order as in Hamilton College."

Harold (Smoky) Day, East Texas member of the group, appearing at the Hall of State and the Greater Texas and State of Texas, said that he was pleased to be in Texas and to be the first to appear in Texas.

"We are very pleased to be in Texas and to be the first to appear in Texas," Hamilton said. "We are very pleased to be in Texas and to be the first to appear in Texas."

Re-Viewing The Flicker S
By Joe Allen

"The Prince and the Pauper" and "Mountain Miss" following "Flicker" this week, two pictures that are entirely different. "The Prince and the Pauper" is one of Mary Twinn's historical romances that strictly tells the story of England's ruling family of the 16th century. "Mountain Miss" on the other hand is a rip-roaring hill-billy comedy which has every thing from frogs to shot-gun weddings. These two pictures have a combination of great acting plus a swell story, so whether you like a hill-billy comedy or a romance, you can have your choice.

outside of and everything came up normal.
Every individual everything came up normal.
Some more men were set aside as lawyers. They are like people that can't sleep—they let first on one side and then on the other.
"Wait," there was a man in the room. One good example is Bill Shaker. Here's the guy that said, "Wait, you may be as far from them as they are far between." That was the big time. There were "Gues's Eley's."
Then there are the actors. They were the actors who later turned into movie stars.
I remember one old fellow who was in it. I might be a bit off. He is called "The Bachelor."
It was in the heart of the matter. "Also, by the time I got to Walter Winchell said they about 200 pictures and not enough actors."
An last we have the teachers. That is what you make after they get out of college and can't get a job anywhere else. I'm like the little boy that said the reason he couldn't learn anything was that the teachers were different.
"Lesser every day, and then didn't even know it herself, because she always asked the kids for the answers."
But let us finish our history lesson. About a hundred year ago they had the Spanish American war and the United States was born and called Texas General Sam Lee was shot in the battle of Santa Ana. There is a little later shot in the battle of Santa Ana. And David Benaud against the Alamo and it was, and everybody was killed except that Laidberg became a hero. One-half of the people reported he found the north pole, the other half didn't even know that it was lost.
Soon afterwards Caesar played "The Bee" while Rome burned, and then the people began flocking to America. This was called "Flight's Progress."
Peodation, a little Indian girl, met a boat called the "Mayflower" which landed at the foot of Colabrator. Here she ran into Ben Franklin, who was so shy that she said, "Speak for yourself, John!" and thus a new continent was born. The first real tragedy of our country was the Civil War, that lasted for months and months, and was ended by that famous naval leader, Napoleon Bonaparte.
But a long time before this the Maker divided the world into men up into different professions, some of which are as good as dead. First, He saw that the world was over populated, so He put the men of the professions. This is probably the hardest of all because they are still producing. They are pretty smart, but in the old days they had some funny ideas. If you smashed your finger they'd cut your arm off so you wouldn't feel the pain in your finger. If you had a headache they'd stick your head in a tub of water three times a day and pull it out twice. Then somebody invented...

THE NEWS

Texas State Teachers College... Official state newspaper, published every Wednesday during both long and short terms by members of the East Texas State Teachers College...

LOREN CATO Editor in Chief... ODELL BOWEN Business Manager

Out of more than 2500 Summer Seniors only twenty have had their pictures taken for the Localist. This is an extremely low number and will make very poor showing in the 1938 Localist.

Most of the graduates feel that this registration is unnecessary and of little importance to the student and also to the school.

If you are a Senior you should be proud of this distinction and let everyone know it. The Localist will be in many homes after the state and if there is a very small number of students it will hurt the school as well as the members of the class.

Worthy Use Of Leisure...

It is infinitely a students hard to get out of having leisure time, and having nothing to do to pass it away. We better could a student ask to occupy his leisure time with the reading of good books. Text books make us conclude that all books are boring. Many of us have not read a good book in a long time that they keep nothing of the pleasure derived therefrom. Whether you read it or not there are many books in the library which would appeal to you. We can find in the card index file books relating to almost any subject that we think of.

Because long many students will leave their books and after it is too late they will find that they have neglected an excellent opportunity of reading good books. Make good use of the time that is left.

"Can't Happen Here" is a novel by Sinclair Lewis, showing a political revolution going place in this country like those that have taken place in other countries. "The French and His America" is a book by Marcel Proust, a French writer, which tells of his boyhood in Combray. "The Captain Goodheart" is a book written by the viewpoint of a European writer who tells of his more interesting life.

There are only a few of the hundreds of good books in our library. There are a number of brand new books which would be profitable. Let's spend some of our leisure time reading good books. Let's have the joy that you enjoy in your own life. "I was diverted so much by his Ball Baker" is a story so interesting. Five couples got up and began dancing. The crowd around the
