See Play Tonight

NUMBER 30

Under the direction of Miss Hadden, the first and only Little Theater production of the summer, "You Can't Take It With You" will be presented in Ferguson Auditorium tonight at eight o'clock. The play is presented as a by-law number free to the first 100 seats.

Miss Hadden, Lutz, head of the French Department at East Texas State, is acting for a vacation in Paris, France, as soon as the term is over. Professor Boehle will replace her for the second six weeks.

Students will enjoy immensely the entire of this year's commencement family, including members who writes plays simply because interested in a vocation to their house by mistake. Mr. DeWester, who brought the ironing board, and Mrs. Grand, who collects and stamps and sends cards.

One morning thirty-five years ago, a young man named Phillips went to his office, decided by his own hand, to write a play. He had a very good idea of what he wanted to do, and he had a very good idea of what he wanted to do.

The youngest son in the family of the Phillips family was a very capable man and the play will certainly be a success. It is on your list of "most seen" plays.

Johnston, John D. Johnston, Helen Vanderhook, John Johnston, Henderson, Charles Bourdette, The Man-Hoyt Williams, Donald, Weldon Robinson, et al.

Mr. Kirby-Leslie, who has been booked by the East Texas State Y. M. C. A. for the second six weeks of summer school.

The first of these programs will be given on Friday, July 20, by The Marching Men of Song, a group of young men well known for their vocal rendition.

At the night of August 10, the Bas Theatre, widely acclaimed as the most original art on the platform today, will appear here. She has worked in almost every known dramatic medium, from vaudeville, variety, radio, and picture.

Three programs have already been presented by the Y. M. C. A. committee this year. The first of these, the Dallas Mass Chorus, was very well received.

According to Director E. W. Alston, demonstration school classes will be held the last day of school was usually on Friday, July 20, and the last day of school will be either the first or the last day of school.
