

Texas A&M University-Commerce

A&M-Commerce Digital Commons

All Issues

The East Texan Newspaper

1924-02-23

The East Texan, 1924-02-23

East Texas State Normal College

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.tamuc.edu/scua-east-texan-browse-all>

Recommended Citation

East Texas State Normal College, "The East Texan, 1924-02-23" (1924-02-23). All Issues. 1845.
<https://digitalcommons.tamuc.edu/scua-east-texan-browse-all/1845>

This Text is brought to you for free and open access by the The East Texan Newspaper at A&M-Commerce Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in All Issues by an authorized administrator of A&M-Commerce Digital Commons. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@tamuc.edu.

Conditional Forgiveness

Harold and Percy, brothers, were in their nursery for recreation after school. Harold struck Percy with a stick. An argument followed, and in the midst of it the nurse happened in to find out what was the matter. She found the boys in a state of great excitement and she told them to go to bed. She told them to go to bed. She told them to go to bed.

After some reflection Percy replied: "Well, I'll forgive him tonight, but if I don't die, he's better look out in the morning."

Called: "Hobby, do you believe in fairies?"

Bobby: "No, madam, I find no evidence in their existence other than the origin of Species. The Descent of Man or Outline of History."

E-verything in Text Books School Supplies Tobacco and Candies

It is your convenience and our pleasure

THE COLLEGE STORE

Service & Transfer

Call for Aquina, Phone 524

Headquarters: Cotton Belt Barber Shop.

TRIPS ANYWHERE ANYTIME

THE ROMANCERS

Is Coming

This comedy drama of Paris has attracted special attention wherever it has played and has invariably met with brilliant success.

The Play Will be Presented by the

THE W. L. MAYO LITERARY CLUB

—IN THE College Auditorium—

—ON TUESDAY,

Feb. 26, 1924

RESERVED SEATS 35c General Admission 25c

Reserved Seats on Sale at Commerce Drug Co.

WASHINGTON AND HIS FAVORITE CHARGER

This fine painting shows our Father of Our Country on his favorite horse. It is the well-known painting from which many equestrian statues have been copied.

WASHINGTON'S EXPENSE

Based on the expenses for three months in 1789, Washington figured his yearly outlay at about $20,000. When Washington became president any money from the public treasury beyond his actual expenses. At the time his household included a secretary, an assistant secretary, three aides and eighteen servants, while a library of sixteen books was figured into the yearly cost.

THE DATE OF WASHINGTON'S BIRTH

OLD records—what stories they can tell!—Sometime full of romance, sometimes startling in their disclosure. It would seem that Washington, birthday observed for many years on February 22, was a celebration founded secure on accurate historical facts. Yet varied in the family Bible of Washington's mother and written in her own handwriting in an entry which makes one pause with surprise. There she has clearly recorded the astounding statement that George Washington was born on February 11. Certainly to one should know more about this important event than Mrs. Washington.

There it is in black and white in her own handwriting:

"George Washington, son to Augustine and Mary, his wife, was born by 11th of February, 1732, about 30 in the morning, and was baptised the 3d of April following 10 Days ahead he dropped and Christopher Rowan, grandfather, and Mrs. Milford Gregory, godmother.

Family illness, especially in those 10 days, should be dropped, and so this statement must be accepted as indisputable.

By the latter part of the sixteenth century the calendar year had become linked with the astronomical year. It seemed important that a rearrangement be made and Pope Gregory XIII, after careful consultation with the learned men of his time, decreed that in 1582 10 days should be dropped and arranged what has since been called the Gregorian calendar. The mandate of the pope was followed that year by Spain, Portugal, Italy and France, but England would have none of it and continued on the basis of the old calendar for another century and a half.

Difference of Eleven Days.

By 1712 in England the discrepancy had amounted up to 11 days, and the disadvantages of two systems of dates was causing great trouble. It was necessary to decide letters going from England or her colonies to France with the days of both systems. For instance, February 12, 20. So at least to avoid all this confusion England officially adopted the Gregorian calendar and decreed that 11 days be omitted in the year 1752 between September 3 and September 14.

So for Washington, his birthday in 1732 and all succeeding years fell on February 22.

But there is another record which throws light on what was probably the first record of his birthday. This time the record is in his own handwriting. While commander in chief of the Continental armies, while all his other responsibilities and duties, Washington found time to keep a record of all his expenses. These expense accounts were in several years ago available by their transfer from the Treasury Department to the library of congress where they were placed with the most valuable of Washington's papers there.

One of Washington's daily expense accounts books there is an entry under date of Feb. 22, 1778, which reads:

Call paid the 22nd inst. in 1780's hand by G. G. ...

OUR LONG SUIT IS SPORTING GOODS

Baseball, Tennis, Golf, and on down the line to Toms and Marbles.

The Largest Assortment of FISHING TACKLE

We have ever displayed.

Wheeler's Drug Store

The Retail Store

"Truthfully a Good Drug Store."

"What is the binomial theorem?"

Stude (wearily)—I pass.

Prof.—You're mistaken. You think Stude (wearily)—I pass.

Prof.—When I read about the wonderful things connected with electricity, it makes me think.

Stude—What a wonderful thing—this electricity!

Guest, to country innkeeper—Lansford did you ever hear of the straw that broke the camel's back?

Lansford—Yeah, you know it in that bed up in number 17.

"So you've been in South America for the past three years? Any jelly beans down there?"

Guest—Well, you'll find it in that bed up in number 17.

Stude (talking about grades)—Well, how did you come out last term?

Stude—Oh, I came out all right, but I'll have a hard time getting back in.

Prof. (during lecture): George, won't you please refrain from making that noise? Your disturbance is preventing the whole class from sleeping.

Lansford: "I have decided to raise your rent next month."

Student: "Thank you so much! Considering the number of football fans I must have, I've been wondering how we earth I would be able to raise it myself!"

"I hear the Mexicans are going to 'cut down their army'."

"That of a general reduction!"

Stude—Try to sing the syllables of a song.

Miss Daugette—Hold me a little longer.

"Did my wife speak at the meeting yesterday?"

"I don't know your wife, but there was a tall, thin woman who rose and the conductor found words to express her feelings."

"That wasn't my wife."

The Ticked Him

The traveling salesman walked up to the magazine counter and said to the girl there—"Have you life."

"Judge for yourself," she replied, stivins him a punch.

Prof.—Give for one year; the number of tons of coal shipped out of the United States.

Prof.—1932; None.

Horse—Football players usually stare out to be railroad men.

Wagon—They are used to training.

Thou Shalt Not Lie.

Jones was having difficulty explaining a slip of paper his wife had found in his pocket. On it was written: "Venus, 1931."

"That's just the name and number of a horse," he was advised to be content, and believing, she kissed him.

That night when he came home she handed on him like a ton of ants, and when he came to, she explained: "The horse called up."

Was Beautiful is Only Skin Deep

Question—Why would you expect blondes to watch less on the average than brunettes?

Answer—Because blondes have a lighter complexion.

Father: "Why I find that my girl has increased her vocabulary since she went to college."

Friend: "That so? What words has she learned?"

Answer: "Gimme 'I want,' 'Let me have,' and 'Have you.'"

WASHINGTON'S 16-BLADED KNIFE

One of the unique relics of American history still extant is the 16-bladed pocket knife which was presented to George Washington by Capt. Samuel De Vries. This knife, which is now in the possession of the Smithsonian Institution, is arranged to fold into four groups of right angles to each other in the handle. The knife is now the property of George De Vries and is on loan to the Smithsonian Institution.

The Brown

Mr. Whittier: "What delightful messes your daughter had!"

Mr. Babbler (ironically): "Yes, you see she has been away from home so much!"—Smart Set.

Class Letters

P.—Pierce Common.

De W.—Labs Home.

U.—Unhappy Common.

N.—Nought on exams.

K.—Kick out.

"I'm going to make a tour of Europe this theme again."

"That will you make a little trip on a bicycle."

"Oh, I'll trip my way!"

The Brown

Mr. Whittier: "What delightful messes your daughter had!"

Mr. Babbler (ironically): "Yes, you see she has been away from home so much!"—Smart Set.

Class Letters

P.—Pierce Common.

De W.—Labs Home.

U.—Unhappy Common.

N.—Nought on exams.

K.—Kick out.

"I've been back in South America for the past three years? Any jelly beans down there?"

Guest—Well, you'll find it in that bed up in number 17.

Stude (talking about grades)—Well, how did you come out last term?

Stude—Oh, I came out all right, but I'll have a hard time getting back in.

Prof. (during lecture): George, won't you please refrain from making that noise? Your disturbance is preventing the whole class from sleeping.

Lansford: "I have decided to raise your rent next month."

Student: "Thank you so much! Considering the number of football fans I must have, I've been wondering how we earth I would be able to raise it myself!"

"I hear the Mexicans are going to 'cut down their army'."

"That of a general reduction!"

Stude—Try to sing the syllables of a song.

Miss Daugette—Hold me a little longer.

"Did my wife speak at the meeting yesterday?"

"I don't know your wife, but there was a tall, thin woman who rose and the conductor found words to express her feelings."

"That wasn't my wife."

Call for Aquina, Phone 524

Headquarters: Cotton Belt Barber Shop.

TRIPS ANYWHERE ANYTIME

THE CASE OF THE PADDED MITTENS

Frank Foster

Slightly past the noon hour, J. Howard Conway appeared at the breakfast table. He was looking somewhat unwell, but he was not at all worried about his situation.

When she opened the door, his private secretary, Joseph, came in with his usual "How do you do, Mr. Conway?" and handed him a letter.

"It's from Mrs. Harris," she said, "and she says she's coming to see you."

"I'll call on her this afternoon," said Mr. Conway, looking at the letter with interest. "But first, I'll see if I can't get some more of those padded mittens."

There was no response. She called again, but Marie did not answer. This frightened her, and she called loudly for Marie.

Mr. Conway pounded on the door for his big girl, but the answer came from the room below. "Come in," called Marie, and she opened the door.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Marie's face was pale as she spoke. She looked up at her father with a pleading expression.

"Please, please, don't go," she said, "I'll do anything you want me to do, but don't go."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Mr. Conway entered the office and handed Mr. Conway a telegram. "I'm sure you'll find it interesting," he said, "it's from Mrs. Harris."

"What?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at the telegram.

"I'm sure you'll find it interesting," he said, "it's from Mrs. Harris."

"What?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at the telegram.

"I'm sure you'll find it interesting," he said, "it's from Mrs. Harris."

Mr. Conway was in a state of great excitement. He had just received a telegram from Mrs. Harris, and it was a very interesting one.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Mr. Conway was in a state of great excitement. He had just received a telegram from Mrs. Harris, and it was a very interesting one.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

There was no response. She called again, but Marie did not answer. This frightened her, and she called loudly for Marie.

Mr. Conway pounded on the door for his big girl, but the answer came from the room below. "Come in," called Marie, and she opened the door.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Marie's face was pale as she spoke. She looked up at her father with a pleading expression.

"Please, please, don't go," she said, "I'll do anything you want me to do, but don't go."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Mr. Conway entered the office and handed Mr. Conway a telegram. "I'm sure you'll find it interesting," he said, "it's from Mrs. Harris."

"What?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at the telegram.

"I'm sure you'll find it interesting," he said, "it's from Mrs. Harris."

"What?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at the telegram.

"I'm sure you'll find it interesting," he said, "it's from Mrs. Harris."

Mr. Conway was in a state of great excitement. He had just received a telegram from Mrs. Harris, and it was a very interesting one.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Mr. Conway was in a state of great excitement. He had just received a telegram from Mrs. Harris, and it was a very interesting one.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Mr. Conway was in a state of great excitement. He had just received a telegram from Mrs. Harris, and it was a very interesting one.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Mr. Conway was in a state of great excitement. He had just received a telegram from Mrs. Harris, and it was a very interesting one.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

more upon the handkerchief and laid it upon her nose. Then she pulled it down over her eyes, and I had no difficulty in doing this and did not stir her hair, because it was dressed in two places. In her right eye, I shook her hair. She did not notice.

I shook it harder. She did not notice. I shook it harder. She did not notice. I shook it harder. She did not notice.

Marie's face was pale as she spoke. She looked up at her father with a pleading expression.

"Please, please, don't go," she said, "I'll do anything you want me to do, but don't go."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Mr. Conway entered the office and handed Mr. Conway a telegram. "I'm sure you'll find it interesting," he said, "it's from Mrs. Harris."

"What?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at the telegram.

"I'm sure you'll find it interesting," he said, "it's from Mrs. Harris."

"What?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at the telegram.

"I'm sure you'll find it interesting," he said, "it's from Mrs. Harris."

Mr. Conway was in a state of great excitement. He had just received a telegram from Mrs. Harris, and it was a very interesting one.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Mr. Conway was in a state of great excitement. He had just received a telegram from Mrs. Harris, and it was a very interesting one.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Mr. Conway was in a state of great excitement. He had just received a telegram from Mrs. Harris, and it was a very interesting one.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Mr. Conway was in a state of great excitement. He had just received a telegram from Mrs. Harris, and it was a very interesting one.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

PROMINENT STUDENT DISGRACED

Never before in the history of the college has there been such a disgraceful event. In such a manner, the student body of the college has been disgraced.

The student in question, a member of the college, was caught in a compromising position. He was caught in a compromising position.

The student in question, a member of the college, was caught in a compromising position. He was caught in a compromising position.

Marie's face was pale as she spoke. She looked up at her father with a pleading expression.

"Please, please, don't go," she said, "I'll do anything you want me to do, but don't go."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Mr. Conway entered the office and handed Mr. Conway a telegram. "I'm sure you'll find it interesting," he said, "it's from Mrs. Harris."

"What?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at the telegram.

"I'm sure you'll find it interesting," he said, "it's from Mrs. Harris."

"What?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at the telegram.

"I'm sure you'll find it interesting," he said, "it's from Mrs. Harris."

Mr. Conway was in a state of great excitement. He had just received a telegram from Mrs. Harris, and it was a very interesting one.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Mr. Conway was in a state of great excitement. He had just received a telegram from Mrs. Harris, and it was a very interesting one.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Mr. Conway was in a state of great excitement. He had just received a telegram from Mrs. Harris, and it was a very interesting one.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Mr. Conway was in a state of great excitement. He had just received a telegram from Mrs. Harris, and it was a very interesting one.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Lerner-Marshall

The beautiful ring ceremony was held by Rev. A. O. Marshall on Monday night, December 12, 1911, at the residence of the bride's parents.

The bride, Miss Helen Marshall, was attended by Miss Mary Lerner, and the groom, Mr. O. P. Marshall, was attended by Mr. J. H. Lerner.

Marie's face was pale as she spoke. She looked up at her father with a pleading expression.

"Please, please, don't go," she said, "I'll do anything you want me to do, but don't go."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Mr. Conway entered the office and handed Mr. Conway a telegram. "I'm sure you'll find it interesting," he said, "it's from Mrs. Harris."

"What?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at the telegram.

"I'm sure you'll find it interesting," he said, "it's from Mrs. Harris."

"What?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at the telegram.

"I'm sure you'll find it interesting," he said, "it's from Mrs. Harris."

Mr. Conway was in a state of great excitement. He had just received a telegram from Mrs. Harris, and it was a very interesting one.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Mr. Conway was in a state of great excitement. He had just received a telegram from Mrs. Harris, and it was a very interesting one.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Mr. Conway was in a state of great excitement. He had just received a telegram from Mrs. Harris, and it was a very interesting one.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Mr. Conway was in a state of great excitement. He had just received a telegram from Mrs. Harris, and it was a very interesting one.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Roper B. Y. P. U.

Program for Dec. 18, 1911 by Roper B. Y. P. U.

Monday meeting - Stewardship meeting in principle and practice. Lesson text, Luke 12:13-21; 16:1-13. By George Caplan IV.

Marie's face was pale as she spoke. She looked up at her father with a pleading expression.

"Please, please, don't go," she said, "I'll do anything you want me to do, but don't go."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Mr. Conway entered the office and handed Mr. Conway a telegram. "I'm sure you'll find it interesting," he said, "it's from Mrs. Harris."

"What?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at the telegram.

"I'm sure you'll find it interesting," he said, "it's from Mrs. Harris."

"What?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at the telegram.

"I'm sure you'll find it interesting," he said, "it's from Mrs. Harris."

Mr. Conway was in a state of great excitement. He had just received a telegram from Mrs. Harris, and it was a very interesting one.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Mr. Conway was in a state of great excitement. He had just received a telegram from Mrs. Harris, and it was a very interesting one.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Mr. Conway was in a state of great excitement. He had just received a telegram from Mrs. Harris, and it was a very interesting one.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

Mr. Conway was in a state of great excitement. He had just received a telegram from Mrs. Harris, and it was a very interesting one.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Conway, looking at Marie's flushed face.

"I've been waiting for you," she said, "and I've been waiting for you."

COOKING

IS A PLEASURE

when you have a variety. There is no finer home-made product than our famous MARR & REED puddle jumpers.

MARR & REED
The College Grocer
Phone 162

HAY-DATE

KING'S CANDIES FOR AMERICAN QUEEN'S PUDDLE JUMPERS

We have a large assortment of candies in the box including Hay-Date, Puddle Jumpers, Goober Bar, Onagettes, Cherry Cruff and many others.

THE NEW PALACE DRUG STORE

As Good as the Best and Better than the Rest

This is a description of the quality of our work and the service we render. See us for Cleaning, Pressing and Alterations.

V. L. OWEN'S TAILOR SHOP
We Call For and Deliver.

THE QUEEN OF SHEBA

Paired Solomon an unexpected visit one day. Her velvet gown, which she had heard had a glow, if you would have your Sheba find you ever more than she expected, let us take care of

YOUR CLOTHES

OUR WORK CAN STAND THE TEST

DICK ANDERSON'S TAILOR SHOP

In Room of City Barber Shop