WHY SO CRITICAL?

Speaking before the National Congress of Parents and Teachers at Austin on Monday night, Dr. Walter M. W. Spavin, president of the University of Texas, had the following to say, among other things, about the modern newspaper:

"The newspaper comes to us with its roaring headlines, with its screaming announcement of some trivial incident, again and again during the day. It thrusts itself upon our attention. We scan its columns of miscellaneous, unorganized information, lack of information, and efforts at amusement. The make-up, the methods, policies and character of the average newspaper of our day make for needless, for needless, for needless accuracy, and for lack of confidence in the representations of others."

This is rather startling. The modern newspaper has behind it news gathering for all news save the home news—the Associated Press, with a record for accuracy so well established that it has revolutionized the newspaper business. No bias or partisanship on the part of the Associated Press has ever been successfully established.

As for the local news, the average newspaper could not successfully collect, even if it would.

As for the miscellaneous, unorganized information—the newspaper is not responsible for the way the news breaks. Perhaps a fire, murder and a church service will be arranged in parallel columns. All are news; the public demands that it be informed of each, and each article is an informational one. It is the duty of the newspaper to present the news as it breaks—not to organize or systematize it. As well try to systematize the weather.

The assassination of a king; the election of a German emperor; a mine disaster; a discussion of the proposed merger of two churches—all are news. The man who pays for his paper expects to be informed of all them. And the newspaper is his only means of general information as to current happenings.

Dr. Slavin either has a misconception of a newspaper's purpose or he has set a standard that the newspaper readers would not tolerate.—Greenville Herald.

This editorial presents this interesting viewpoint: a man may be a scholar, and a profound one, and may, in the isolated realm of his scholastic life, in which idealism and high critical values predominate, lose something of the practical viewpoint that comes through coming into contact with life as it exists in the world at large. Dr. Slavin's idea is well taken, and it would appear at a first glance, that the newspaper prints "Miscellaneous, unorganized information" but as the editorial above indicates, the newspaper is not responsible for the type of news that happens, and must report the doings of the world which prints faulty news, and while a College professor might, upon the spur of the moment declare a newspaper unorganized, himself he would find a baffling technique that he could not for the life of his master in a certain number of years of academic training. It is interesting to see young men, coming out of College with academic standards, armed with B. A. degrees and with a style as ornate as that of Arnold's who feel themselves doubly fortunate to accept a job as cub reporter on a big city daily at twenty-dollars a week. They have the school training, but it is not always practical for newspaper work.

The point is this: Do not allow academic standards and ideas to blind you to the practical side of life.

Miss Clara Stolp, College student, had her tonsils removed Thursday and is reported getting along all right.

The man who says he runs things at his home may mean the washing machine and vacuum cleaner.—Sumner News.

Most of the Alumni of this institution may be found in the high schools of the State, either teaching or occupying administrative positions. A few are away at school working for higher degrees, a few are taking up business. Of these, there is Leland B. Scherard, President of the Alumni Association this year, who is connected with the Petroleum Producers Association, of Wichita Falls, Texas.

Walter Workman, who received his B. S. degree from this institution in August, 1922, is now superintendent of schools at Conkhongton, Texas. Being a former superintendent, he taught mathematics. While here Workman played football and basketball and received the Letter for 1922-1923.

H. A. Nett, of Haskell, who received his degree at the end of the last summer term of school, is superintendent of the high school there. Mr. Nett has for several summers been a member of the Summer Normal Education Association of the State.

J. Nelson Andrews, who during the year was a captain, is superintendent of the high school at Frisco, Texas.

I. D. Payton, former letter athlete of the school here, debater and representative of the school at the State convention of the Young Men's Christian Association of the school, ranked with some of the best students who have attended here. He is superintendent of the Madison schools, where he has been for three years. Payton received his M. A. degree from the University of Texas, and played on the University football team. He was even a member of the Star Telegram, in which he was spoken of as the oldest member of the team, and in which his record of being the father of three children, taking advanced work, and playing creditable football, is mentioned.

J. W. Mosser, degree graduate, is superintendent of the Fairfax, Oklahoma schools. He recently built himself a residence there.

Walter Nash, for one year president of the Student Association here, has at press hour his results of the new high school recently erected at Houston, Texas.

George Ann Tallentire, degree graduate, is teacher Mathematics in the Mt. Vernon High school.

Mrs. Ruby Moran, who received her degree here last spring, is employed in the Rural Training School at Paris, where she is superintendent.

Miss Vera English, degree graduate.

one of the institution, who received her Master of Arts degree from George Peabody College for teachers, is one of the few graduates of this institution. She is the head of a department here. She is taking the place of Professor Bickelmann, head of the department of Rural Education, who is working on his Doctor's degree in Columbia University. For several years she has been principal of the Rural Training School of the College at the independent district of Columbia.

The Campus Clubs

THE PRESS CLUB

ANNUAL PULITZER PRIZES AWARDED

TWO REPORTERS GET $1,000 FOR SOLVING LEOPOLD-LOEB MYSTERY

From Dulles News: NEW YORK, April 16.—The annual Pulitzer prize in journalism and letters for 1934 were announced Sunday by President Nicholas Murray Butler for the School of Journalism of Columbia University.

Edna Ferber, for her novel, "So Big," was awarded the $1,000 prize for the best American novel published during the year which shall present the wholesome atmosphere of American life and the highest standards of American manners and manhood.

The $100 prize for the "best cartoon published in any American newspaper during the year," was given to Rollin Kirby of the New York World for his cartoon entitled "Cops from the outside world," published Oct. 2. Jimmy Floyd, author of "The Knees," "What They Want," and "The Original American Play," performed in New York, which shall best represent the educational value and port of the stage of raising the standard of good moralistic good sense "good manners." The play was one of thirteen plays recently investigated by Hittler Attorney, Boston, in complaint of citizens that they were "moral productions." A citizen jury later commended Mr. Howard's play.

REPORTERS GET $1,000
For the "best book of the year up to date in the history of the United States," the $2,000 prize was awarded to Frederic L. Paxton for the "history of the American Frontier" and the $1,000 award for the year's best American biography was given to M. A. Thurgott Howe for his "Barrett Wendell and His Letters." Edwin Arlington Robinson was given the $1,000 prize for the year's best volume of verse by an American. The winning volume was "The Man Who Did Twice."

The Charleston, S. C., News and Courier was awarded the $500 prize for the year's best editorial article for an editorial entitled, "The Plight of the South," published Nov. 7. James W. Milby and Charles W. Crockett, reporters on the staff of the Chicago Daily News, won the $1,000 prize in duplicate, "For the best sample of a reporter's work during the year." The award was made in recognition of their service toward the solution of the murder of Robert Frank Jr. by Nathan F. Leopold and Richard Loeb.

Three traveling scholarships, having a value of $1,000 each, awarded to graduates of the Columbia School of Journalism, "who shall have participated in their examinations with the highest honor," were given to Hans

Wray Judge At Inter-Scholastic Meet In West Texas

E. H. Wray was called last week to Iowa Park to judge declamations and extemporaneous speeches at the West Texas Inter-scholastic contest held there at Iowa Park, located six miles to the south of Wichita Falls. There were eight counties represented, and Mr. Wray says he found the participants—especially alive, well trained, and capable. There were several other judges from Texas and Oklahoma College.

SEEN OUTWARD BOUND

Mr. Wray said that on his return journey he saw the much talked of play, "Outward Bound," which he declared unique in that its cast was made up of actors from several different parts of the United States, including members of the Little Theatre of Pasadena, California; Louisville, Kentucky; Mobile, Alabama; and other prominent theaters. Mr. Wray characterized the play as "marvelous but weird and even spooky."

Robert Mande, Montclair, Minn.; William G. Worington, Providence R. I.; and Howard L. M. of Brookline, Mass., were also mentioned. "Outward Bound" is a play by Thaddeus Bernstein, and "The World of Tomorrow" is a play by Robert Mande. The play was one of thirteen plays recently investigated by Hittler Attorney, Boston, in complaint of citizens that they were "moral productions." A citizen jury later commended Mr. Howard's play.

ADVISORY BOARD AWARDS
There was no competition for the $1,000 prize for the best history of the services rendered to the public by the American press and no award was made of the $500 prize for the most distinguished and meritorious public service by an American newspaper during the year.

The awards were made by the advisory board on the reports of juries composed, as to the prizes in journalism, of members of the teaching staff of Columbia University and members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors; and as to the prize in letters of members chosen from the National Institute of Arts and Letters.

STUDENTS COUNCIL VOTES

TO ABOLISH SELF BY MISTAKE

At a called meeting of the Student Council Thursday night the motion was made, seconded, and unanimously carried that the Student Council be abolished at the end of this quarter.

It all seems about like this.
Mr. H. D. Thompson arose and in his dignified way made a motion to the effect that the Student Council be declared inactive from the close of this term hereafter. The motion was immediately seconded, and a unanimous affirmative vote cast. The motion was declared to be passed by the president.

But, Mr. Tompkins, I object," came a voice from a curly-haired member in the back of the room.

"Certainly you don't mean that we have abolished the Student Council?"

"My goodness, look what we've done, I didn't mean the Student Council; I meant the Athletic Council," was the distressed reply of the president.
