Number Four.

East Texas State's newly elected cheerleaders show their support of the Lions and ETSTC. Barbara Seaman, just out of the hospital, must be fresh out of energy as she leans against the T. Rita Jennings, starting her third year as yell leader, just sits back and looks pretty as an old timer. Beginning her second year as Lion cheerleader is pert Mary Freman who is watching James Blackshear. Joe Russell just smiles his thanks to the E. T. students for electing him as one of their cheerleaders. And then there's James Blackshear, climbing as usual. This is his second year to serve in the cheering post and he has been elected head cheerleader. Always up in the air and yelling for the Lions is Richard "Muscles" Pruitt. And there you have it—the 1951 edition of East Texas cheerleaders. They will probably find nature in the rah is seldom mild.

Funeral Services Are Read in Rule For Elton Payne

Final rites for Everett Elton Payne, East Texas junior student, were read in Rule Sunday.

Payne was killed instantly early Friday morning when the car he was driving hit the end blocks of a dead-end street in Greenville.

Four other students were in the wreck but were not seriously injured. They were Luther Rocky Bell, Tommy Jordan, Ray James and Norman Dotson.

Payne, a business major, had transferred from North Texas State this semester. A 1948 graduate of Rule high school, where he had participated in football and basketball, he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Payne.

Several students and faculty members from East Texas attended the funeral services.

What's wrong with this statement: "We are working to build a university the football team can be proud of."

E.T. Will Send Four Delegates To Abilene Meet

Four representatives from East Texas State will attend the annual convention of the Texas Recreational Federation of College Women at Abilene Christian college, Abilene, Tex., Oct. 26th through 27th.

Purpose of the meeting is to let the girls from the colleges discuss problems and with the help of everyone there try to solve them. It is also for the purpose of giving the girls new ideas.

The group to attend the TRF-CW convention includes Lorena Brannon, assistant professor of physical education and sponsor of the group, Helen McLaughlin, Wanda Burks, Beth Rosson, Joyce Carlton. They will make the trip to Abilene in Miss Brannon's car. The girls will stay in

Radio Show Features Song by Solo Quartet

The broadcast from East Texas State Teachers college last Saturday morning featured a one-man quartet.

J. T. Adams, director of the radio program, sang each of the four vocal parts in the quartet. It was done by recording the song several times with Adams taking a different part each time. The presentation Saturday marked the first public hearing of the record.

Adams, who recorded his solo quartet last spring, sang "St. Louis Woman." His idea for the one-man quartet came when he lost one of the members of the college quartet last year. The one-man, four part harmony record was the answer.

The TRFCW is made up of Women Recreational associations from the different schools attending the convention.

College, Airforce To Present Talent Show October 22

A Cavalcade of Entertainment will be held in Ferguson auditorium 7:30 p.m., Monday, Oct. 22. The college and Air Force together are furnishing talent for the show.

Various numbers such as dancing, dramatics, acrobatics, all kinds of singing, comedy, short skits and guitar solos will be presented. Bob Peacher is director of the production and Charles Shiffer is the assistant director.

"J. T. Adams, director of student activities, lends valuable assistance," said Peacher.

The Science club will hold its second meeting 6:30 Wednesday night in the Science building. Dr. L.D. Parsons, head of the chemistry department, will speak on atomic energy.

Free--Blue Ribbons

Step right up and get your blue ribbon. Yes, the East Texan is offering a special prize to the most reckless driver on the campus.

Just give the fellow 3,400 pounds of steel and 100 pounds of rubber. Put together that makes one of the deadliest weapons known--the automobile.

So, go ahead. Speed on the drives through the campus. Don't pay any attention to the speed limit signs. Take the corners on two wheels. Race up and down the streets of Commerce. Play games with your cars. Show them what a big person you are.

Then come by and pick up your prize--a one-way ticket to the cemetery.

Forward Texas

Texas state commissions and agencies are making tremendous progress in aiding colleges and public schools toward an effective advancement in caring for and developing the states natural resources.

During this year Dr. W. B. Coke of Purdue university's 1952 class is already doing valuable leadership in Texas Forest Service.

The Department of Geography of East Texas State for the past several years has been drawing aid from the above specialist through a plan of Texas Education Agency. The Texas Water Engineers and the State Health department have likewise sent representatives. This semester, geography 417, fourth and fifth periods Tuesday and Thursday, is a resource-use conservation survey led in field study and lecture by each of the above named specialist. Research, class notes, and a term paper are the student activities.

Your SUBology Shows

This year's new crop of students is finding that the SUB will be one of their favorite places on the campus. It affords many recreational facilities. Among these, the most popular seem to be ping-pong, dancing, and chatting while drinking cokes. Not to be overlooked is the television set in the east club room.

The standard farewell phrase of a departing roommate is, "Meet me at the SUB after class." And with the additional presentation of floor shows, the SUB will continue to be the favorite spot on the campus. The social committee under the direction of Mrs. Martha Lou Anders and J. T. Adams, has great plans for the coming year.

The upperclassmen or "oldtimers" realize the importance of the job being done by the SUB. However, they are not alone in their appreciation.

The freshmen and transfers have expressed their opinions, and it is quite evident that the SUB has gone over with them in a big way.

College Women Are Just Little Girls

By Lorene Hopkins

We went down the hall of East dormitory and knocked on the door of room 211.

"Come in and heard a squeaky voice say; so in we went and were introduced to Mrs. Carrot. Mrs. Carrot, as her name implies, is a fuzzy white rabbit with long floppy ears and stiff legs, and she will be 11 years old next December. She lives with Fatsy Griffin, Junior elementary education major from Hooks.

While Mrs. Carrot is enrolled in East Texas State, her husband, Mr. Carrot, attends Texas A&M. Mrs. Carrot's one eye glowed with pride as she told us that her husband is a member of the Air ROTC there.

Mrs. Carrot has led a precarious existence since the first came to E.T. last June. She was twice stolen away by a pair of frolicsome freshmen, and stayed hidden for several days in a dormitory. She shuddered as she showed us the smudge of dirt on one of the fuzzy ears which helps her remember that awful experience.

Like any other coed, Mrs. Carrot came to school with a brand new wardrobe. She wringed her necks-dotted ear linings she expects to have a new fall suit as she showed us her red and polka-dotted pianola which Fatsy made to match her bed spread. The rest of her ensemble consists of black ribbon sandals and a soon, for Fatsy brought along a portable sewing machine and make all of Mrs. Carrot's clothes as well as her own. In return, the fuzzy rabbit acts as confidante for Fatsy and helps her with her homework--Mrs. Carrot holds pencils in her socks.

We mentioned that we were looking for other interesting bed dolls, so Mrs. Carrot offered to take us over to visit her friend Yvonne, who turned out to be a black-haired beauty originally from New York. We found her sitting in the middle of a white chenille bed spread getting her hair set in pin curls for the night. Yvonne, who doesn't look her age, came to live with Wilda Milliron, a sophomore music major from Albuquerque, N.M., fifteen years ago. She was a birthday present from Wilda's uncle, Capt. Arthur Kusnelman, who had formerly a member of E.T.'s ROTC staff. Yvonne traveled with Wilda and the Kusnelmans from Pennsylvania through Washington, D.C., Florida, West coast, Iowa, Kansas, Ohio and Texas, until Capt. Kusnelman was assigned to a base in Albuquerque as their home, although neither has visited that city.

That the college band is progressing slowly but surely is the general opinion of the students of the campus of East Texas State Teachers college. Several years ago the band wore street clothes in a parade. Since then, through a lot of high pressure the band attained uniforms. The organization has progressed since then.

Several interviews were taken on student opinions of the band.

R. C. Moore, a football player, said, "The band is better than it was last year but there are still not enough peeces. He wondered why many high school bands are larger than ours. Moore used to play the saxophone but explained that he was a little busy with sports now to play in the band. He said about the "E. T. Xmas" so much pressure in the way the guy plays it seems like it builds him up."

R. C. Moore

Johnny Vaughn from Denton, said that the band is good but can improve. He has not seen them much but says the few members they have are good. He said, "More performances are needed. If interest is to be aroused on the campus" He does not play an instrument and does not have time to learn.

Tris Speckman, a band member and a transfer from Kilgore Jr. college, said given time there will be more people in the band. "She thinks more trips, scholarships and a better band hall are needed to increase the interest in the band. She plays the baritone horn and said, "I think Mr. Luke is a fine director."

THE EAST TEXAN, official student publication of the East Texas State Teachers College, East Texas State, is published weekly (Friday) during both the long and short terms, with the exceptions of holidays and examination periods.

Entered as second-class matter December 16, 1922, at the post office, Commerce, Texas, under the act of Congress, March 3, 1879.

Represented by National Advertising Service, Inc., New York, N. Y. Subscription and advertising rates will be given upon request.

Johnie Shelley saw the college band for the first time this semester at the pep rally and ball game. She said it sounded good but it was not large enough. More trips and new uniforms, she suggested would create more interest in the band. She plays the bassoon but does not have time to play in the band.

Norvel Redfern, a sophomore from Mt. Pleasant, said that he thought that the band did not play enough. He wondered why the high school band members did not play in the band after the came to college. Taking more trips would bring more interest, he thought. Redfern said, "The band needs flashier uniforms and an original precision drill."

Joyce Turner said, "I think the band is terrific, but there is not enough interest in it." She thinks more trips would do the trick. Although she plays three instruments she does not play on one that can be used in the band.

E. T. Band Comes Long Way From 5 Members

The first formal band at East Texas State was organized in 1925 by Capt. A. Deonier, now assistant professor of education. Before Deonier came to East Texas, there was a five-piece band that traveled across Texas to perform at the football games.

portation. The first trip that was made was paid for by the members and Yancy Goff, now owner of the Goff funeral home in Commerce, furnished the truck.

In 1928 there were 28 members in the band, but within several years the group had grown to 70. At that time paid for the capes, and students bought their shoes and trousers. The band had twirlers and flag bearers, like the bands today. Day Deonier paid for the music used by the members and also played for the first formal dance held on the campus.

Victor Grable who organized the Chicago Symphony orchestra in 1916 was a visiting teacher on the campus in 1915. Grable was later director of the Marine Corps band.

Jay Tomlinson, now director of the White Oak band, was one time director of the East Texas dance band. The White Oak musicians have performed at Madison Square Garden, the Cotton Bowl and at East Texas' opening game with Abilene Christian college.

This year there are 30 members in the band under the direction of Ray Luke, instructor in music. Performances have already included one football game and two pep rallies.

The band will be the center of attraction Saturday night at half time when the East Texas Lions meet Lamar Tech. The

Western Week Tickets Take to the Market

Money obtained from the sale of Western Week tickets has two important functions: to help defray student government expenses and help give orphans' Christmas party. Orphans from Boles Home and Corsicana State Home participate in a Christmas party given for them by E. T. every year.

The tickets, which sell for $1, are on sale now. They are sold by the Student council.

Chances on a combination record player and radio and a girl's and boy's wrist watch are also being sold by the Student council.

Roll Call Includes Military Personnel In Various Classes

Military personnel at East Texas State Teachers college cannot get away from roll call. Ten of the 13 members of the teaching and administrative staff of the department of air science and tactics are enrolled in courses on the campus.

They are attending courses ranging from work toward masters' degrees to special courses in basic photography and industrial education.

Working toward advanced degrees are four of the officers. They are Lt. Col. Gordon Paulson, professor and head of the department; Major William V. Sirlat, assistant professor; Lt. Harold M. Anderson, assistant professor, and Lt. Robert E. Bennett, assistant professor.

Major Berlin D. Millsaps, assistant professor, holds a master of education degree from East Texas State, but he is answering "present" to the roll call in a basic photography course.

Enlisted men who are attending various classes of instruction include T-Sgt. John MacDecoy, M-Sgt. Sam Wilson, T-Sgt. Carl E. Gilman, T-Sgt. Lonnie Dickson, all instructors, and M-Sgt. Glennard L. Smith, administrative.

Delegates Selected For Home Ec Meet

Three delegates have been elected to the Texas Home Economics College club workshop in Kingsville, Oct. 25-27. These delegates are Mary Vel Davis, Enloe; Kathryn Love, Waxahatchie; and Martha Kate Perkins, Sulphur Springs. This week a freshman is to be elected to attend the workshop.

Special entertainment planned to include a visit to the ranch, and a trip to Mexico for shopping and dinner.

A lady is a woman who makes it easy for a man to be a gentleman.

Fresh out of Bivalve, N. J., he arrived on the campus all bug-eyed and his big mouth hanging open. He was immediately sucked into a "shell game" and found himself making all the quick-trick cigarette tests. But his native instinct told him that such an important item as cigarette mildness couldn't be tossed off lightly. Millions of smokers everywhere have discovered, too, that there's but one true test of mildness.

It's the sensible test... the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke... on a pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

Key to Action --- The Football Ticket

I AM YOUR football ticket. A lot went into the making of me. Here I am with some friends of mine, tickets to the other games the Lions will play at East Texas State.

HERE I AM ABOUT to make my last press run. It takes five trips to the press for me to get to you.

THE PRINTER CHECKS carefully to see that I get the correct seat number and section printed on me in bright crimson ink.

AFTER THE PRINTING is over, I'm bundled up and sent to the Business Office and on to the ticket office where you buy me.

AT THE GATE the ticket taker tears part of me off and you keep the rest. I show you where to sit.

NOW MY FATE is in your hands. Probably you will throw me down with the peanut hulls and old cups where I'm swept away.

BUT, YOU MIGHT be nice to me and place me in your scrapbook and let me bring back memories in later years.

Take that football ticket you just throw down or perhaps pasted in your scrap book. Do you regard it as another of the 8,000 similar pieces of card-board printed for each home game, or does it mean something to you? Did you ever stop to think of the preparation that went into that ticket?

Look at the ticket. Do you see three colors of ink? Do you know that there is a separate press run for every color? In other words each different color means a trip to the printing press.

There is gold for the Lion's head and the background, blue for the name of the stadium and some of the other writing, and red for the names of the teams and seat numbers.

The gold background is printed on the ticket first. It is put on eight tickets at a time before the tickets are cut to finished size. This publishing is done on an offset press and requires making a printing plate with the design of each ticket on it.

After the ink from this printing is dry, blue lettering is applied on the same press. This is the lettering that tells the location of the game, the price of the ticket and the state laws.

Another trip pressward prints the name of the teams that are playing the game and the section number of seats. The date and hour of the game are also inked in red in the same run.

Now! How do you and another person keep from arguing over the same seat at the ball game? The answer is numbering machines put different numbers on each ticket. The machines change each time they print and are too large to fit on the press at the same time the section numbers are printed on the ticket.

On the back side of the ticket there is a map of the stadium so that visitors can find their seats without difficulty. That diagram requires another press run and brings to five the total number of trips the ticket makes through the press.

It is plainly marked on each ticket that 20 per cent of the total cost of the ticket goes to the government in the form of amusement tax. In other words, clerks at E.T.S.U. prepare lengthy reports with several carbon copies for filing with Uncle Sam's representatives. Later the uncle's opened palm is filled with tax money from the tickets.

The tickets, bundled in sections, are delivered to the college business office where they are sold to the fans. Publicity of these tickets is handled by the athletic publicity director.

After the usher has shown you to your seat he will give your ticket back to you. It is up to you whether the ticket will be thrown on the floor, trampled on and eventually find its way into the trash can or whether it will be pasted into a scrap book and perform the role of bringing back fond memories ten years from now.

Lions Will Open L.S.C. Play With Lamar Tech

East Texas Lions will open their conference schedule by playing Lamar Tech Cardinals tomorrow in Memorial stadium. The Lions will be on the rebound after losing to North Texas last Friday.

Southwest Texas, who battles Sul Ross at Alpine in another conference affair tomorrow, rolls in as the only undefeated, united team in the Lone Star Conference with no prospects soon of losing that status.

The Bobcats last week slammed Trinity of the Gulf Coast conference, 27 to 14, to run their season scoring total to 168 points in four games.

Sam Houston State and Lamar Tech won opening conference games. Sam Houston beat Sul Ross, the 1950 champion, 28 to 21.

Lamar downed Stephen F. Austin 24 to 14. Stephen F. Austin will play an inter-sectional tilt with Southwestern Louisiana at Hammond, La. Saturday.

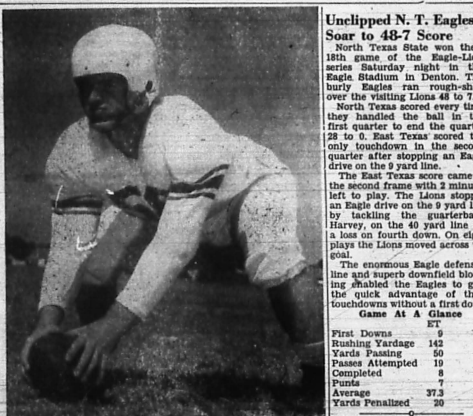

Punt sized Sammy Carpenter, Lamar Tech freshman, is all by himself as the scoring leader of the conference after the fourth weekend of play.

The 144-pound former Orange high school star scored twice on long runs against Stephen F. Austin to run his total to 38 points.

His teammate, Toby Ilerman, and Southwest Texas' E. J. Swindler, who, along with SWTS' Tommy Holan, were all tied with Carpenter. Each notched another touchdown to stay in a tie for runnerup scoring honors with 30 points.

SHARPSHOOTERS with guns as well as administrative decisions are Lt. Col. Gordon L. Paulson, head of the department of air science and tactics, and President James G. Gee. They display the game they bagged near Alpine recently. President Gee killed his antelope at 600 yards.

VETERAN LAMAR CENTER—Gene (Gabby) Bates of Edinburg, above, will be handling the snapper-back chores for the Lamar Tech Cardinals Saturday night when the Redbirds challenge the East Texas State Lions in a Lone Star Conference tilt at Memorial Stadium, Commerce. Bates, the team's chatterbox, weighs in at 210 and is a three-year letterman.

Unclipped N. T. Eagles Soar to 48-7 Score

North Texas State won their 18th game of the Eagle-Lion series Saturday night in the Eagle Stadium in Denton. The burly Eagles ran rough-shod over the visiting Lions 48 to 7.

North Texas scored every time they handled the ball in the first quarter to end the quarter 28 to 0. East Texas scored the only touchdown in the second quarter after stopping an Eagle drive on the 9 yard line.

The East Texas score came in the second frame with 2 minutes left to play. The Lions stopped an Eagle drive on the 9 yard line by tackling the quarterback, Harvey, on the 40 yard line for a loss on fourth down. On eight plays the Lions moved across the goal.

The enormous Eagle defensive line and superb downfield blocking shamed the Eagles to gain the quick advantage of three touchdowns without a first down.

Four East Texans Get Highest Degree Of Homemaking

Four of the seven women in the state of Texas who hold the American Homemaking degree are now enrolled in East Texas State Teachers college.

Holders of the degree, highest offered to a girl in home economics, are all from Wolfe City. They are Charis Jordan, Helen Farish, Nancy Murphy and Gladie Essner. All but Miss Essner are home economics majors at East Texas. She is working toward an elementary education degree.

The degree is the fourth and highest awarded to a homemaking student. The first two are awarded by a local committee, the second is presented by a state group, and the American Homemaking degree is judged by national representatives.

All degrees are based upon achievement of the individual girl and are awarded on the following basis:

1) Girls who have worked effectively toward the purposes of the organization.

2) Those who have contributed to the improvement of their chapters, homes, schools and communities.

3) Those who have made a plan for their own growth as individuals, chapter members,

Baseball Games, Like the Show, Must Go On

Students of East Texas have long known that Dr. J. O. Smith, professor of history, was a fishing enthusiast, and lately it's been suspected that he was also a football fan. But his history class didn't have the slightest idea of what was happening Wednesday afternoon of last week when Dr. Smith kept rushing back to his office to get something he'd forgotten or to get a book which explained perfectly the idea which he was trying to put across. When he continued to come back without this book, the class began to forget about the Articles of Confederation.

Cause the end of the period and enlightenment for the history class. Dr. Smith jubilantly reported that his constant attendance on the small radio blaring from his desk was responsible for the last-minute home run made by Bobby Thompson, third baseman for the Giants.

Student Count Far Less Than Once Predicted

College enrollment this year will be down about 275,000, the United States Office of Education indicates. It's estimated there will be about 2.3 million college students in 1951-1952.

The decrease, far less than educators feared last spring, is caused by the diminishing number of veterans and the increasing number of college-age draftees.

But the New York Times points out that many reservists and draftees returning to civilian life may be expected to enroll in colleges sometime this year, and if a new G. I. educational bill is passed, college enrollments will show a marked increase. The Times feels the enrollment drop will not seriously affect the overall college picture.

"But," says the Times, "it will add greatly to the financial strain that so many of the colleges—particularly the small, independent liberal arts institutions—are now undergoing. Large numbers of these colleges will be forced to operate on a deficit, and they may also be forced to lower their academic standards."

Last February it was reported in the Collegiate Press Review that 750 small colleges are on the financial "sick list."

Western Week Rules Listed for Tenderfoot

Some of the campus tenderfeet, both in student and instructor ranks, are probably uncertain about some of the rules concerning Western Week. The most important question is how does one keep from being dunked.

So for the benefit of those who have never experienced Western Week, here is an explanation. At least three articles of western clothing must be worn if one hopes to avoid getting soaked.

But with so many western pieces from which to choose, this shouldn't be too hard. There are hats, scarves, shirts, belts, skirts, jeans, riding pants, chaps, boots, spurs...

And in case the old western spirit isn't hard, a sack of Bull Durham can be kept in a shirt pocket. Then everyone rolls his own!

There was one advantage to the old-style wall telephones. The gals had to quit talking when their legs gave out.
