Number Five.

Fifth Western Week Starts Wednesday

Enrollment Hits 2,175 This Time

The 1299 college boys and 876 co-eds on the East Texas campus bring the total enrollment for the fall term to 2175. Not included in this figure are the 300 members of the air force who are enrolled in the clerk-typist school here.

These figures are broken down by John B. Windell, registrar. Broken into classes, enrollment figures include 497 graduates, 104 seniors, 413 juniors, 328 sophomores and 531 freshmen.

Of the 497 graduate students, 204 are men and 291 are women. Senior men outnumber the women in the class by almost two to one. There are 290 men and 146 co-eds.

An even larger majority is held by the 290 junior men. Co-eds in this class total 123.

Of the 328 sophomore students, 208 are men and 120 are women. A 335 to 190 ratio of men out-numbering the women is held by freshmen on the campus.

Although the figure falls short of the 2399 enrollment this same time last year, it is not so great a decline as had been predicted by national college associations.

Predictions made by those groups early last summer indicated that colleges should expect at least a 15 per cent decline in enrollment this fall.

"The school has about ten per cent decline," states Windell, "and that is far short of the prediction made earlier."

There has been a slight increase in the number of boys and girls in the freshman class this semester, Windell comments. He commented that there was no way of knowing how selective service and draft deferment tests are influencing enrollment figures at this time.

Barbara Seaman, sophomore business major, has been elected Honorary Cadet Colonel of East Texas State's Air-FOTC wing, according to an announcement made this week by Lt. Colonel Gordon L. The purpose of the page, according to Hains, is to show, in pictures, a complete story of some phase of campus life, much the same as a writer tells a story in words.

In photography classes students are taught to think in terms of picture stories rather than thinking of pictures as isolated units of illustration.

The news story in this issue of the EAST TEXAS was planned and written by Joe Grove, Commerce student. Pictures were made by Otha Spencer, photography instructor.

Sgt. Sullivan Re-enlists
James T. Sullivan, assistant sergeant major from Toledo Ohio, reported today to Hensley Air Force base in Dallas for re-enlistment.

Sullivan reported for duty here in January. He transferred from Biggs Air Force base at El Paso. After enlisting for an indefinite period, Sullivan will return to East Texas for duty.

That is the purpose of the new picture page which is to be a regular weekly feature of the EAST TEXAS, according to Peggy Masters, editor.

The EAST TEXAS is the only college newspaper in the state to feature a full page of pictures each week on local campus events, Miss Masters stated.

The picture page will be directed by Bill Hains, junior student from Paris. James Narramore, freshman from Greenville, will be staff photographer.

All New--'The Mad Hatters'

By James Lloyd

The "Mad Hatters," a new club for boys, was chartered here on Monday, October 15, 1951. Purpose of this group is the "promotion of spirit among students at E.T.S.T.C."

Charter members consist of one member of each boy's social club and one independent student and the organizers who are: Hal Wandry, Dean Wooten, Alex Kibler, Jim Hinch, Jack Winn. Other charter members and their clubs are: Gayle Tinsley, Ferguson; John Hatcher, Texas; Bill Hunt, Ogima; Clinton Watson, Priars; Jimmy Clouston, Armons; Leland Cockrell, Cavalier and A. D. "Pepper" Johnson, independent.

Membership is open to all male students and is unlimited as to number. A pledgebook of this group is required, but the constitution rules that pledges shall not be based.

Members of this organization are to escort the team onto the field at the beginning of each game. They will also sit in one group at all sports events as a cheering section. Dates of membership and pledges will be permitted to sit in this group.

Official costumes for the group is a hat, white coveralls, and a hotkemaker. Colors are blue and gold.

Formation of this group met with the hearty approval of the administration. Dr. James O'Gee, president of E.T., said that there was a need for an organization such as this and students should work to get it going.

Sponsors for this group are J. W. "Dough" Rollins, dean of men, and Robert H. Mattson, instructor in speech.

Dean Rollins said that he hopes the club will be able to make a good showing at the game this Saturday night and especially at the home-coming game.

Officers elected at the first meeting, on Monday night, are: Dean Wooten, president; Hal Wandry, vice president; Gayle Tinsley, secretary-treasurer; Jimmy Clouston, sergeant-at-arms; Bill Hunt, historian; "Pepper" Johnson, publicity agent and John Hatcher, assistant publicity agent.

Motto for this club is "WE NEVER JERK, WE ONLY CHEER."

Joe College Studies

Ah! for the good old days, when a student could sit down and study without being bothered by visitors. Can you remember days like that?

Joe College, average student, brings an arm load of books home; even though he has waited until the last minute, he is really going to study. After eating a hearty meal he sits down to read. At this time the door bell rings and in walks Mrs. I. Q. Lowe with little Willie Spare. She only has a few minutes to visit. Her conversation consists of subjects such as rain, rhubarb, and the price of beef in India.

Little Willie can account for himself. He cries for everything in the house and gets it, including Joe's books thanks to Mrs. Lowe's helping hand. She says that he will be very careful with them. The last sentence ends with a crash, caused by a prize vase passing through the top of the glass coffee table. At this point they simply must go since Willie is dead tired.

After Joe spends the rest of the night recovering from a nervous breakdown, he arrives in class just in time to make an F.

How to Prevent This From Happening to You

If you plan to study and visitors arrive, hang an alarm clock around their necks set for thirty minutes. When the alarm goes off, tell them to leave. Emily Post and the visitors would not approve, but the teacher will when you begin to make good grades.

The above example was taken from Bill's book on "How To Lose Friends And Cause Bloodshed," Volume 13, Section 13, Paragraph 13. Have you ever had an experience like that of Joe College? If so, you probably will never be a Mrs. Q. Lowe.

It all adds up to this. Stay at home once in a while so that other students have a chance to study.

"Oh-by-the-way, I got your papers graded last week-If I could just think to bring them..."

Back the Grenadiers

East Texas State Teachers college is extremely lucky to have an Air ROTC unit located here. It is unusual for such an organization to be affiliated with a teachers college.

East Texas is even more fortunate that this ROTC unit has a drill team such as the Mitchell Grenadiers. A team of this sort is usually found only at military institutions.

The Grenadiers already have become prominent in the college's extra-curricular activities. The team has brought publicity for the school in northeast Texas with four performances last year and two this year.

Composed of almost all veterans with one year's experience with the team, it will bring an untold amount of publicity for East Texas State and its Air ROTC unit in the future. Plans have already been laid for extensive performances this year.

The team is under the direction of Cadet Lt. Colonel Chris Adams. He succeeded Cadet Colonel James R. Milligan who has been in charge of the team since early last spring.

The name, "Mitchell Grenadiers," is a tribute to General Billy Mitchell who advocated the strategic use of air power long before anyone else.

The EAST TEXAN believes the students should back this team for three reasons. These are: (1) the publicity it brings to the college, (2) it is an outlet for energies and therefore allows more boys to participate in extra-curricular activities, and (3) it is a boost to the E.T. spirit. The last reason is probably the most important—so, let's go, Lions. Back the Grenadiers!

Dr. Sowers Speaks To Future Farmers

"A Better Locust in '53" could have been the theme of the East Texas State Teachers College College Collegiate Chapter of the Future Farmers of America at the weekly meeting in the auditorium of the Agriculture Building on the evening of Oct. 16. Fifty-one members voted u-namously to buy as much space as possible in the 1951-1952 Locust to help make the Locust as successful as those of the past.

Dr. Sowers, dean of the faculty, was guest speaker. The theme of Dr. Sowers address was "The Advantages and Importance of Collegiate F.F.A. Work to the Vocational Agriculture Student." A long-time member of the Future Farmers of America, Dr. Sowers paid the semester dues in order to remain a F.F.A. member of good standing.

"Why not get in the act?" queried L. B. Brackeen four years ago. Whereupon the owner and manager of the College Grill hid himself to the registrar's office and enrolled as a freshman.

Since that time, a lot of water has run under the bridge. For one thing, Brackeen's family has increased—he and his wife, the former Lillie Belle Anderson, are parents of a baby girl, 2, born while her papa was lapping up education at E. T.

And another child, the Brackeen's son William Anderson, has grown up to the point where he can help out at the Grill and receive L. B. for extra study. William, by the way, is 16.

Brackeen is presently enrolled for 12 semester hours at the college; besides this, he puts in full day's work at the Grill and manages to do some baby-sitting for little Carolyn on the side.

Mrs. Brackeen is not idle much, either. Besides keeping house and tending the baby, she manages to wait tables and play clobber at the College Grill along with husband L. B. and son William.

When Brackeen gets his Bachelor of Business Administration degree in 1953, he will be living proof of the old saying, "Where there's a will there's a way."

As Brackeen quipped, "How could I let all that education go to waste when it was right at my front door?"

Be sure your idea is sound before you sound off.

Man's World Invaded by Coed

By Alene Martin

In the fall of 1949, a very determined girl who wished to major in, of all things, agriculture came to the campus of East Texas State. After her enrollment in classes, students and faculty alike were cynical. No one thought that she would continue in her study for very long. Girls just never succeeded in something strictly in the "man's field."

Now, two years and ninety semester hours later, the same girl, brown-haired, brown-eyed JoLynne Smith of Jefferson, is still at E.T. and still majoring in ag.

When asked why she chose agriculture, Jo, as her friends call her, replies simply that she likes farming. She should know since she has lived on a farm all of her life.

Along with her statement about liking farming, Jo may as well say that she likes to study too, because she chose science and English for her first and second minors.

Dean's List, Too
During her two years here at E.T. Jo has been on the dean's list of honor students every semester. She is a member of the Women's Recreation association, the Wagon Wheel club, and the Future Farmers of America organization, for which she has been homecoming queen nominee twice.

Jo's main purpose in life now, of course, is to receive her degree from E.T.—next May. After that? Well, she wants to go home and put into practice some of the things she has learned about raising beef cattle.

When asked if she regrets her choice of a major field, Jo smiles and says, "Definitely not. The hand hasn't been smooth exactly, but I will say that I've learned an awful lot in my ag classes, majored in anything else."

Sorry? No, I'm not sorry. I don't think I would have been happy at all in my college career if I had majored in anything else."

JoLynne Smith, senior ag major from Jefferson, shown here with one of the cows on the college farm. Miss Smith is the first co-ed at E.T. to major in agriculture. With a smile, she said that she has never been sorry for her choice.

Beautiful Antiques Highlight Home Of President

In a soft voice that has a distinct Southern accent, Mrs. James Gee talks of her life on the East Texas State campus and how she met Dr. Gee at her home in Huntsville.

Dr. Gee came to Commerce as president of the college in 1947. He and Mrs. Gee brought most of their own furniture to use in the house here. All is antique or reproduction. Mrs. Gee's hobby is collecting antiques, especially silver.

A small but vivacious person, Mrs. Gee explains as she walks about her dining room that the sideboard there came from England and is over 100 years old. When the other furniture of Dr. Gee's family was burned at Columbia, S.C. during the Civil War, the sideboard was at their other home in Charleston and escaped destruction. In Mrs. Gee's living room she has an antique English rocker, and on the front porch is a lantern which she got in an antique senior reception in her home twice during the year.

All reports visiting on the campus as well as commencement speakers and their wives are entertained in the President's home as personal guests. Mrs. Gee states that she enjoys doing this as the guests have always been such wonderful people. Consistent with her interest in antiques, Mrs. Gee maintains a family custom to burn a red candle in a lamp all Christmas day in memory of members of the family who have died during the year. This silver hurricane lamp from England is on a low table just inside the living room door.

But the easiest way to make Mrs. Gee smile is not to mention a tradition or antique. Mention her year-old granddaughter!

shop in Houston. She also has an antique Seth Thomas clock. When she furnishes her son Tommy's room, she uses furniture that had belonged to his great grandmothers on both sides of the family. The pieces matched perfectly.

Among her collection is a chest of threaded antique flat silver which belonged to her mother. She also has an Elkington silver service from London. Some of her most prized pieces of silver are those which were actually buried by the slaves in South Carolina during the Civil War. "This," Mrs. Gee says, pointing to a silver cake stand on her dining room table, "is a wedding gift from the family of Robert Lovet, who is now Secretary of Defense."

A silver goblet which belonged to Mrs. Gee's grandfather and father was given to Tommy when he was born. This goblet had passed to the oldest boy in each generation of Mrs. Gee's family, but because she had no brothers, it was given to her son.

Another valued article to Mrs. Gee is a bracelet which was willed to her by an aunt, who received it in Candi, India, as a Christmas gift from her husband some years ago when the couple was on a trip around the world.

Mrs. Gee met Dr. Gee soon after she was graduated from Ward Belmont girl's school in Nashville, Tenn. He was then instructor at Sam Houston State College in Huntsville. Mrs. Gee was having a houseparty, and he and several other young men came to call. They met in October and two years later were married.

Asked if she belongs to any clubs, Mrs. Gee replies, "I'm not a joiner." Her husband comes first with her, and she likes to be free to go anywhere with him on short notice. She is not, however, completely out of the social life both here and over the state. She acts as hostess to a

Cotton's Pickins'

A record was broken in Memorial Stadium Saturday night when the '51 Lions ran up a higher score than any East Texas team had been able to do. The 47-7 beating of the 4-7 handed Lamar, the East Texas team of 1946 held the record. They defeated Stephen F. Austin 35-0.

Tough Job

The Cardinals were not as strong as some of the teams E.T. has met this year but our offense would have gone against any team Saturday night. All the backs took turns at being outstanding. That makes it rather difficult for your old Uncle Cotton to accurately pick the most outstanding back.

First, there were Corky Bowling and Theron Fyres shining in the defensive secondary. Next, Marvin Brown and Lucky Parks took turns starring at the halfback position. One just can't leave out the quarterbacking job done by Jim Gray. So after drawing straws, taking a campus survey, and consulting my better half, who uses a process of elimination according to who counts the loudest in callstence; I give my Back-of-the-Week to Lucky Parks.

Parks is a junior from Ennis. He transferred to East Texas from Allen Academy, where he was all conference back. Last year while at East Texas Lucky made second team All-Lone Star conference. Previous to this game most of Lucky's playing has been confined to defensive safety. He does an admirable job of holding down the defensive position.

Lineman of the Week
It was equally difficult to pick a lineman of the week. On offense Tommy McCormack and Billy Self did a great job of pulling in the short 'uns and the long 'uns for touchdowns. On defense Lem Jones didn't play the last half due to an injury, his first half performance earns him Lineman-of-the-Week in my books.

This Is The Week
This is the week to watch the Lions. This game with Midwestern University of Wichita Falls will put the Blue and Gold to the supreme test. Although the Indians have never been able to pull up a winner in their four encounters with the Lions, they consider all their losses up-sets around that part of the country.

In 1949 Midwestern could have boasted an undefeated season had it not been for the Lions. An inspired East Texas eleven up-set the apple cart and the Indians haven't lived it down. This year is supposed to be a good one for the Indians even though they have suffered one defeat this season at the hands of a Hardin-Simmons eleven. Late watch this one! Here it is, EAST TEXAS 21, MIDWESTERN 7.

Now For Boxing

The East Texas boxing team will journey to Tyler tonight to battle the Tyler Athletic Club. This is the first appearance of E.T.'s mitt slingers, but with the close of the football season the field house will sing with flying leather.

East Texas did quite well in boxing last year, boasting three State A.A.U. champions and one East Texas beat the Indians last year in Wichita Falls 35 to 27. The year before the Lions beat the Indians 27 to 13. In 1948 the Lions edged by the Midwestern team 13 to 12. In the first game of the series, East Texas won 20 to 7.

Golden Gloves State Semi-finalist. They were Johnny White, middleweight; Arthur Tidwell, flyweight; and yourn-truly, heavyweight. Bryant Clark went to the semi-finals in the State Golden Gloves in Ft. Worth. He only entered one tournament because of conflicting track.

Several new pugilists have joined the Lion team this year. They are Roy Johns, light-heavyweight; "Peanut" Payne, featherweight; Junior Burns, welterweight; and Bud Phillips, lightweight.

The Lions will miss the services of one of the regular guards tomorrow night. Ernest Shinson broke his hand in last week's game and may not be able to play for several weeks. Theron Fyres has an injured hand and probably won't play this game. James Coble is still out with a knee injury.

The Indians will be in good shape for the game except for Murphy Webster. He was injured from John Tartelet Agriculture College and has played with several of the Lions while at ATAC.

Dwight Moore, 180 pound half-back for MU continues to lead the Tribe backs in individual rushing with 370 yards in 58 carries. He added another first-place to his list last week by becoming MU's total offense leader. He has compiled 385 yards in 60 plays. Co-Captains for the Indians are Bally Thomason and Bobby Flippen. Thomason is a 206 pound end from Altus, Oklahoma. Flippen is a three year letterman and plays offensive quarterback. He is one of the main cogs in the Indians' offense. On defense he shifts to safety position.

The Lions co-captains have not been announced yet because Coach "Catfish" Smith is in the hospital with a cold. He has been missing work-outs but will probably be ready for the game.

Pan Chism Named Band Sweetheart

During the half-time activities of the East Texas-Lamar Tech football game, Miss Pan Chism of Paris was named sweetheart of the band for the entire year. She was selected from a group of girls that were nominated by band members.

She was escorted on the field by band drum major Tommy Allen who presented her flowers and a kiss on behalf of the band. The Varisty Cadets and band then paid tribute by singing and playing "A Pretty Girl is Like a Melody."

Curtis L. Pope, instructor of speech at E.T., announced the half-time activities. Mrs. Pope drove Pan Chism on the field as the ceremony started.

Other activities during the half included a dance by majorettes

Activities planned for the year include a Christmas party, all college dance, wiener roast, and trip to Dallas.

After the business session, refreshments were served.

Sponsor of the club is Miss Mary Nelson, professor and head of the department of Spanish.

As the band made their entrance on the field they spelled out the letters E. T. S. T. C. for East Texas and L. T. for Lamar Tech.

Wanda Burks, a majorette, was absent from the affair due to illness.

Lions Trample Cardinals 47-7

By Bill Bedgood

Moving with machine like precision the East Texas Lions trampled Lamar Tech's Cardinals 47 to 7 in Memorial Stadium Saturday night. It was the first bid for a conference championship and it was a serious one. The Lions piled up four second-quarter touchdowns in racing to the victory.

A crowd of about 5,000 fans saw James Gray, Lion quarterback, pass for four of the seven touchdowns. Tommy McCormack caught two for scoring honors of the night. D. L. Ashley kicked five of the seven extra points he attempted.

Gray passed to Billy Self and Lucky Parks for one touchdown each. Additional touchdowns were run over by Marvin Brown, Red Williams and Glenn Johnston.

Brown ran 20 yards on a quick opener to score. Williams ran over center and 65 yards for a touchdown; and Johnston snared a fumble by Tech and ran 80 yards for a score. Tech's pint-sized Sammy Carpenter ran fourteen yards for the only Cardinal score of the game. He is the conference's leading scorer with 42 points. Bill Lierman kicked the extra point.

Duncan Thompson and E. C. Moore were outstanding defensive players of the game. Thompson, defensive right end, had eight tackles to his credit and Moore, defensive line-backer, had six tackles and six assists.

Here is a run down of the scoring by quarters:

First Quarter. East Texas recovered a Tech fumble on the Cardinal 44 yard line and scored on four plays. A Gray to McCormack pass covered 28 yards and three plays later Brown ran 80 yards to score. Ashley converted.

Second Quarter. On the first play of the second period, Williams ran through the Tech middle for 85 yards to score and Ashley converted. Gray passed to McCormack for a 25 yard scoring play to climax a 65 yard drive. Ashley kicked another point.

Glenn Johnston snared a fumble on E.T.'s 30 yard line and raced 70 yards for the fourth Lion touchdown. Ashley made the kick good. Gray passed to McCormack for the fifth East Texas touchdown and the fourth score of the second quarter. This sensational pass and run play covered 54 yards. Ashley kicked the point for a 35 to 0 East Texas half-time margin.

Third Quarter. Lamar's stout hearted line threw back two East Texas thrusts deep in their goal-line territory in the third quarter to prevent the Lions from improving their margin. One of these drives stopped on the five and the other on the 8 yard line.

Fourth Quarter. Carpenter, on the first play of the final period broke through the middle of the Lion line and ran 14 yards for Lamar's only touchdown. Bill Lierman kicked the extra point. To get East Texas back in the scoring column, Gray pitched a 20 yard pass to Billy Self in the end zone. The play occurred midway in the last period for the sixth East Texas score. For the seventh score, Gray ended a 35 yard drive by throwing 5 yards to Lucky Parks for the final touchdown of the game. Ashley missed the try for conversion after the last two Lion scores. The final score, 47 to 7, was the highest score East Texas has run up in three years.

Edward Mangum, E. T. Ex, Directs Arena Stage

By Pat Southard

Favorable notices in drama sections of the New York Times and Washington, D. C. newspapers have been given to an East Texas graduate, Edward Mangum, for his productions at the Arena Stage in Washington, D. C. of which he is the co-founder and successful co-director for the past year.

Mangum and a former student in one of his drama courses at George Washington University, Zaida Fichandler, decided that Washington needed a community theater. Selling shares to local investors for from $50 to $1000 each they raised $15,000 to start the theater. They leased the Hippodrome, a former movie house and reworked the interior into a theater in the round with seating facilities for 247. The new play house was appropriately named Arena Stage.

When the new venture finished its first year of operation on August 12 the New York Times gave space on the front page of the Theater Section for the write-up of the Arena Stage under the heading "Theater Success Story for Washington." The Washington papers gave big spreads to celebrate the birthday. In a special column to celebrate Ernie Schler, drama editor of the Washington Times Herald said in part, "The Arena Stage is undoubtedly the best thing that has happened in our entire theatrical history."

The theater has been operating in the black since a few months after its opening and has frequent setbacks for weeks ahead. The company produces many classics but also includes new plays in their repertoire.

Mangum a 1926 graduate of East Texas took his first dramatics under Mary Bowman, professor of English at E.T. After graduation he went to Washington D. C. on a government job and during that time he attended night courses in speech and dramatics at Catholic University where he received his masters degree. At the same time he was directing the Mount Vernon players, a recreational group of the Mount Vernon Methodist Church.

After Mangum received his masters degree, he became assistant professor of drama at George Washington University. A student in one of his classes there, Zaida Fichandler, shared his conviction that Washington needed a repertoire and became his partner and co-director in the undertaking.

Mangum is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mangum of Greenville.

Halloween Party Set

The French club has announced plans for the annual Halloween party which will be held Tuesday night in the east club room of the SUB. Initiation of new members will precede the festivities. Among the many things for entertainment will be a "horror chamber", a fortune telling booth, and prizes for the best costume.

Don't insist on your rites—drive carefully.

Perhaps the movies would be better if they shot less film and more actors.

Greenhouse Gives Plants to Library

Potted plants noted around various library departments this week are gifts of the college greenhouse, Miss Sue Albrigt, loan librarian, said.

Specializing in potted plants, the greenhouse is located west of the Agriculture building. Contributions from the greenhouse are displayed in other buildings, notably the Administration building, where the registrar's office boasts an ivy collection.

Library Issues Staff Manual

Goal of more than a year's intensive work was reached this week when members of the library staff brought out the first Library Staff Manual, Miss Opal Williams, librarian, announced.

The manual sets forth duties of each department and lists rules and regulations governing library units. Main objective of the manual, Miss Williams asserted, was setting forth of these regulations so that policies and routines will be uniform in all departments. Serving on the editing committee were Miss Mary R. Thompson, periodicals' librarian, and Miss Sue Taylor, former documents and reserve librarian. Miss Taylor resigned this year to become librarian at Nacogdoches high school. Clerical work was done by Mrs. Delores Griffith, secretary to the librarian. Proof reading was done by the entire staff, Miss Williams said.

Locust Contract Let; Will Use Lithography

Otha C. Spencer, faculty sponsor of the Locust student yearbook, has announced that the contract for publishing the 1952 edition has been awarded to the Henington Publishing Co., Wolfe City.

Lithography will be used in producing the book. This is a photo-mechanical printing process which by-passes the engraver and does not use conventional half-tone engravings.

Spencer said, "In the past lithographed yearbooks have been poor in quality, but recent advances in the technique have made the process of sufficient quality to be used in college yearbook production."

Among schools now using this procedure are Texas A&I, Baylor university, Texas State College for Women, Southwest Texas State Teachers college, and Texas Western college. Texas Western won second place for yearbooks in the Texas Inter-collegiate Press association competition last year and third place the year before.

Spencer also said that use of this method will reduce the cost of publication considerably.

Bids for the project were submitted by several firms.
