BSU Group Gives Jail Service Sun.

Approximately 30 Baptist Student union members attended jail service in Greenville Sunday. Under the direction of Mrs. Lena Faye Alford, student secretary, the group conducted services in the jail for 12 inmates.

Jail service is a worship hour held once a month by the First Baptist church. The group that holds these services is made up of young people of the church, called the Baptist Student union.

John Neese, sophomore of Atlanta, gave the devotion and June Tucker, freshman of Mt. Pleasant, Sue Edwards, sophomore of Klondike, a Fred Wyant, an airman, sang a duet. Pat Patterson, sophomore of Mt. Pleasant, Sue Edwards, sophomore of Klondike, led the BSU congregation song service and Harry McKain, junior of Gladewater, was master of ceremonies.

Plans for holding Future Farmer's of America elimination leadership semi-finals at East Texas State Saturday, March 1, are completed, says Kyle Leftwich, itinerant teacher-trainer in agricultural education.

Over 200 F.F.A. high school boys, with their high school advisors from Area 6 will attend.

Area 6 embraces the supervisor area from Lamar and Hopkins county, on the West, to the Arkansas line on the East, and counties.

Contests have been held by educational agriculture faculty, plus agriculture education students at various places in the area. Eliminations were completed Monday night for districts at Longview. Others were completed Feb. 13, at Dalinger, Feb. 11 at Paris, and Feb. 4 at Mineola.

Three top teams from each district will compete in Commerce on March 1 for a chance at the state leadership finals at Huntsville March 15.

F.F.A. leadership contests determine winners in the following fields, chapter conducting, having to do with parliamentary procedure, in two divisions known as the Greenhands and Chapter Farmers. Greenhands are freshman agriculture students, while upperclassmen are classed as the Chapter Farmers. Farmers skill demonstration and F.F.A. quiz examination are also types of contest having the same division.

Winners from area 6 will go to Huntsville for final leadership elimination March 15.

JUST AS SURE A SIGN OF SPRING as the arrival of robins is an old jaleosy and a collection of young men with brushes and cans of red, yellow and blue paint. Although the calendar shows that spring's long way off, three East Texas State students, Everett Gowen, James Murray and Frank Hilliard, take advantage of the June-like weather to spruce up their automobile.

Student Body Okays New Constitution

Scho-Pro Installed 158 On Deans' List

Unless 158 student sophomore their way and study habits, the college will be short that many students next semester. These students, 41 women and 117 men, are not going to graduate but are on the probation list of the dean of men and dean of women.

To achieve this position, the students passed less than nine semester hours and had fewer than nine grade points for fall semester of college when the new ruling began.

They will stay on probation throughout the spring semester and unless they make at least nine semester hours and nine grade points, the students will be dropped from the rolls of the college.

After staying out of school for semester, the student may re-enter and try again to be removed from the probation list.

On the other hand, the student passes this semester with the "nine-nine" average, he will be able to make the probation list again the following semester.

Alford, Mitchell Made

Valentine Royalty

Dr. C. O. Mitchell, assistant head of the business department, and Lena Faye Alford, student secretary of the Baptist Student union, were crowned king and queen at a Valentine party last Thursday night. Approximately 85 persons attended the affair held in the education building of the First Baptist church.

After games and refreshments, Dr. Mitchell gave a devotional on "Hearts."

East Texas State now has a new constitution. By a vote of 80 to 21, the student body of E. T. approved the revision during assembly at 9:30 a.m. last Thursday.

The constitution was drawn up this year by present members of Student council. They started work on it during the early part of October and finished in December. Representatives from all campus organizations met with the council and discussed the revision before changing it.

In the early part of December, the final draft was drawn up and presented in detail to the students at this time.

After discussion in detail the revision, a date was set for voting, which was Thursday Feb. 14.

Members who are directly responsible for the revision of the document are Alvis Burris, graduate of Linden, who is chairman of the revision committee; Paul Durrett, senior of Waco, and Melba Nowell, junior of Paris, who are assistants.

The document which is officially called "The Constitution of the Student Body" will be printed in a handbook in the future.

Graduates Must Apply

Squabble Affects Us Women's Sleeping Attire Must Match Character

What does the fight for the submerged tidelands off the Texas coast have to do with us here at East Texas? What interest do we have in it and how will the final decision of the case affect us?

Texas is faced with losing its claim to the submerged oil lands under its continental shelf off the coast of the Gulf of Mexico, if the previous Supreme Court decision is put into effect. These rich deposits will be turned over to the Federal Government for ownership and management.

This situation would hit East Texas, and every other school state revenue that goes into the Permanent School Fund. Each year large amounts of tax money from oil companies now operating in the Gulf go toward the improvement and expansion of education in Texas. If this is stopped, the schools will suffer by the loss of this financial help.

Our population is growing. With enrollment in our schools steadily increasing, all of the possibly available money will be needed to take care of the students. If we lose the oil, we will lose the source of much of this money.

The oil supply of Texas has not been inexhaustible. It stands to reason that Texas should get the benefit of it while it lasts.

The month of February has been proclaimed Tidelands Defense Month by Governor Shivers, and many organizations in the state are taking part in the campaign. A meeting has been held to get the national campaign underway.

Each of us individually has an opportunity to help the Texas schools, their students, and ourselves. Discuss this situation with your family and friends, stress the importance and consequences of the outcome, and, if you are old enough to vote, make your decision and take advantage of the power you have with your ballot.

You can tell what a lady wears by bed at night by the way she dresses and acts the next morning. This is a new idea advanced by New York lingerie stylist Dora Gottleib recently.

In an article written by Jay Green for the United Press, Miss Gottleib points out that the general types range from the gal who types in wearing pajamas as tallored as a diplomat's morning suit, to the sultry siren who retires in shifting curtains of misty lace. And she admits the bone to pick with all examples.

"Women are as changeable as mercury in the daytime," she said, "but the majority of them don't seem to have an ounce of imagination or adventure concerning their night clothes. They settle for a particular style and that's that."

Gear Identified

During the course of the interview, Miss Gottleib listed typical women who sleep in gear that can be identified by taking a look at them in broad daylight. And believing Dora Gottleib is not an authority, The East Texan—with an admitted ulterior motive of settling its own curiosity—sent a pajama-clad reporter to search our own and out of bedrooms in East dorm and Bunnion hall to find East Texas' versions of these types.

The list is begun with the young lady who sleeps in her dad's or big brother's pajama tops.

She wears sports clothes and would rather have a fast round of tennis than a walk in the moonlight. If she is in business, she wears a suit or a dress, and the company till your head apts. When she gets married, the only time she won't be wearing the suit is when she sleeps "in bed," is the way Dora sums up this ones character.

Career Girl

The East Texan found the counterpart in this career gal in the coed who smirked, "What do I sleep in? Oh, my father is still wondering what happened to his favorite flannel shirt."

Moreover, the East Texan's unofficial survey disclosed that this girl is generally a history major, a mathematics major or minor, and rolls her hair on socks every night.

Next comes the woman who wears nothing but sexy nightgowns.

Miss Gottleib says you can spot this one every time by her overuse of perfume, and her tendency to flirt with any male who meets. This one, she said, usually winds up with a husband "who has a roving eye and can't be blamed twice, are scheduled for May 10 and Nov. 3.

Not many college girls, The East Texan discovered, assume sleeping attire with such feminine personality, but are rather more fond of red flannel nightgowns that are generally knee-length and styled with lots of lace and ruffles. In a junior version, as it were, of the nightgown Miss Gottleib describes. Like as not, the coed who wears such a sherry gown is the one who slips a ruffled-night-night cap over her pin curls.

The severely-talloned sleeper, in her waking life, is next to the point of driving her friends. Miss Gottleib says, she knows where every letter in the office file, and can tick off the exact dates on which the boss showed up with a hangover. She even substitutes gleaming adding machines for Clark Gable in her dreams.

If this analysis is correct, The East Texan has concluded that there is nothing but coeds of the efficient type, since the majority of pajamas are severely

Believe in Dreams? Otha Spencer Does

Otha C. Spencer, assistant professor of Journalism, has been confused with some of his dreams. After he lost his Masonic ring while working in the photography laboratory Spencer started searching everywhere. He even looked down the drain of the sink.

Later Spencer dreamed of finding the ring in the sink. A day or two afterwards the sink stopped up and when he investigated he found baby nappies and other articles along with the ring.

In another dream, he envisioned that a late student came by to sign up for one of his photography classes.

The next day a transfer student came by and signed for the class.

F.B.I. Will Employ Typists, Others

The Dallas division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation is in need of typists, stenographers and young men to serve as agents.

Salary for the typists is $2050 per year, and for stenographers, $3,150 per year. Other advantages are: three weeks vacation a year, holidays, and time and a half for overtime, work five days a week.

The F.B.I. is also in need of young men with a bachelors degree to be agents. These men are sent to Washington for further training and then to one of the F.B.I. divisions in the United States with a salary of $5,500 per year.

Pre-Adms Offered

All candidates planning to enter medical schools in 1953 are advised to take the Medical college admission tests in May. These tests are required by some of the leading medical schools.

These tests, which will be offered twice, are scheduled for May 10 and Nov. 3.

The test consists of questions of general scholastic ability, understanding of modern science, and achievement in science.

tallored—in wild, nightmarish patterns, we'll grant you, or styled in different lengths. The East Texan is reluctant, however, to accept the theory of dream-substitution.

Finally, Dora brings up the matter of the lady who sleeps in the rat.

For Variety's Sake

Almost always a frightful mess, this one can be relied on to drip her hair pins over her desk and sift powder in her lunch companion's soup. Miss Gottleib believes that she'll make a very nervously good natured, but not very appetizing wife.

Concerning this type, The East Texan concludes—no comment.

In conclusion, Miss Gottleib says that now and again you'll meet that singular woman who's neat without being old-maidish, feminine without being cloying. She said you can just bet that's the girl who switches from pajamas to nightgowns and occasionally sleeps in the Mother Eye just for variety.

And as The East Texan said, Dora Gottleib—who not only runs a national business, but also caters by appointment to some of Manhattan's most distinguished feminine smoozers—ought to know.

Dr. Wiley Honored With Presidency

Dr. Margaret Wiley, professor of English, has been chosen chairman of the state-wide Committee of Integration on the use of teaching English in high schools and colleges. This committee is made up of a group of representatives of high schools and colleges from the Texas State Teachers Association district. Members from district eight include Dr. Paul Barrus, Dr. Mary E. Wiley, and Miss Mary Bowman.

The September edition of the Texas Outlook published an article written by Dr. Wiley. Dr. Wiley is also secretary-treasurer of this organization. Texas Outlook is a monthly publication.

Miss Mary L. Whitley, professor of English, has recently been appointed chairman of the subcommittee on the usage of good English, recognized by the faculty.

Weldon Taylor, mathematics instructor, can play as many as eleven games of checkers at one time. His greatest feat is playing while blinded.

Isn't it wonderful when your kids get grown up enough to play at the neighbor's house once in awhile?

The Dividing Line

There are four cornerposts of freedom that stand as a dividing line between us and slavery. So emphasized John Ben Shepperd, Texas Secretary of State, in his Career Day address here last week.

We at East Texas State, and everyone else, can directly concern ourselves with all four of these points: the home, the church, the school, and self-government. The responsibility of thinking and acting individually that we have and exercise, in regard to these subjects, will determine our future freedom and way of life.

In seeking the goal of the preservation of peace and freedom, we must have a full understanding of our responsibility and we must teach and train the minds of the young people in our country to realize this great duty.

Mr. Shepperd stated, "Liberty begins in your home, where you are taught moral character; it is nourished in your church, where you are taught your individual responsibility to God and your fellow men; it is perpetuated in your school, where you are taught the truth; and it is practiced in Democratic government, where you have a voice."

"The Communists have to destroy these things, because when the home, the church and the school are destroyed, all hope of free self-government evaporates like a mirage. Nobody can be a responsible, self-governing individual if he has no home, no church, and no knowledge of the truth."

Eligibles

Bachelors Face Leap Year

(Editor's Note: One member of the faculty refused to say I do even so long him in the story.)

Open season on males happens once in four years, but 1952 is Leap Year; therefore, East Texas State campus should make a happy hunting ground for the unmarried females to stalk their prey.

Before the year has gone many a big brute will wonder what he said that made a sweet young thing say yes.

A bachelor, definition from Webster, is one who has taken the lowest degree in a college or university. Or the word can also mean an unmarried male, and with that idea in mind, the East Texan has undertaken to narrow the field of eligible males to the faculty and administration.

Harold D. Murphy, instructor in guidance and student personnel, said his "I do" Dec. 22 and narrowly missed the East Texan's list of persuasibles.

Dr. C. O. Mitchell, assistant professor of business administration, and a very popular person with his students, has played the game of hide-and-go-seek several years. He says why he has never married is the 504 question. Also it takes two to make a bargain; so until he says yes, he will continue living alone in his garage apartment that he built at 1711 Mayo street. Dr. Mitchell is a member of the First Baptist church, and besides being in the choir, is very active in all church affairs. Tennis is his hobby.

C. Richard King, instructor in journalism, classes himself in the "live alone and like it group". He claims to be neither too old nor too eligible, which could mean many things. A writing career, instead of wedded bliss, is his dream of the future.

He lives in an apartment, which he furnished himself, at 2301 Bois d'Arc street, and says that working in the yard and fidgety beds is a hobby with him.

His hobby throws him higher on the list, however, for that is one of the earmarks of domesticity. He says the only disadvantage of bachelorhood is the reluctance of many apartment owners to rent to men without wives. King doesn't miss home cooking. He has a good can opener, and he makes good puddings from prepared mixes, from which he is naively admits he throws away the "little capsules". Any housewife could tell him that was the flavoring, but he says the mix still tastes pretty good.

Edwin C. Stroecker, instructor in library science, who came to E.T. from Allentown, Penn., in September 1950, is another cook who likes his own cooking. He admits, however, that he also likes other peoples' and believes marriage would be wonderful. His answer to the marriage question was that for "personal" reasons, he had never married. He is another with his own apartment, living at 1708 Elbert street. The theater and music are his hobbies and "of course reading" he added.

The military has its candidates for bachelors. Sgt. Sullivan, 37, who hails from Toledo, Ohio, says the supposes "just plain attractiveness" has kept him in the "old bachelor" ranks. However he adds, "there is always hope". He believes in marriage, and thinks there should always be more than one child.

Sgt. Smith, very evidently not on the bachelor list, but in the office, added, "But not more than two; or the government won't pay for them."

Sgt. Sullivan's father passed away last April and friends say he is a very attentive son to his mother, who is confined to a wheel chair, and with whom he shares an apartment on Chestnut street.

Reading is his hobby, as is collecting records-popular, but no be-beop.

Sgt. Lonnie Dickson, 23, of Couchata, La. came to the campus in July and lives in Mayo hall.

East Texan Reporter

Photography is his hobby, but in regards to marriage he claims that the nearest he ever came to it was just thinking about it a time.

He claims to be bashful, but doesn't look it, and says he has no steady, just "plays the field". So far the field hasn't gone past the campus.

East Texas Station postoffice contributes a candidate in Kenneth Fox, who was 22 on Jan. 15. He lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Fox at 2214 Washington street. A sleek yellow convertible for Fox, and a good salary plus a rumored cattle ranch he has started with his father, add up to being a good catch. The "grapevine" has it that Fox and a good friend, James Connelly, V. P. of the First National Bank, are looking for eligible females.

Dr. Paul W. Barrus, associate professor of English, lives in an apartment at 1912 Washington street and enjoys his own cooking. He admits that he is not an expert in the art, but his friends say he makes a wonderful meat loaf. Dr. Barrus is another bachelor who admits being too busy for marriage, but adds that it takes two to make a bargain. Love for his work is his hobby.

Farrell Welch, instructor in strings in the music department, was a guest instructor at E. T. for two summers before becoming a regular member of the faculty at the beginning of the fall semester '51.

Welch shares an apartment with his mother over their home there. Reading is a hobby of his, and writes review for a Greenville paper.

Because of a great drive within himself for a concert career Welch has postponed another career. Additions with celebrated musicians, who gave encouragement to go ahead—coupled with desire for advancement in his field, just hasn't left time for marriage, says this marriage dodger.

Welch included himself when he laughed and said, "Things will come to those who wait, however, time is passing so we better get busy."

Ray Luke, director of band, is another young "old bachelor". He lives in the home of another member of the faculty at 1705 Live Oak street.

Luke says his hobbies are concerned with music, such as trumpet playing and arranging. He is another new member, having joined the faculty at the beginning of the fall semester. As to the marriage deal Luke says, "I just give me time."

There you have them—E. T.'s eligible bachelors. Besides these the campus is alive with literally hundreds. Before the year has gone their ranks will be thinned,—oh well Leap Year only happens once in four years. Remember?

White Is Father

It's a girl for the Ralph White's 1306 Greenville street. Elizabeth Kay was born Feb. 9 at Leberman hospital, she and her mother have gotten along fine.

Her father, who is a sophomore English major, says he doesn't know exactly what she weighed, but the scales tipped 7 lb. 3 oz. when she was dressed.

Hawthorne Named Lions Golf Coach

Athletic Director Lloyd Russell, in naming Jess Hawthorne as Golf Coach at ETSTC, stated that the Lions will be represented on the links in Lone Star conference competition this spring.

Hawthorne requests that all candidates for the golf team report to his office in the field house Monday at 2:30 p.m.

Since East Texas State does not have a golf course at the present time, Hawthorne says he realizes that a difficulty will be placed on members of the team. However, facilities in the vicinity of Commerce will be available.

About five spots are open at present, says Hawthorne. Only one member is pretty definitely decided, he continued.

Arrangements are being made to use either the Sulphur Springs or Greenville courses for competition practice. Intra-mural field south of Memorial stadium will be used for driving approach practice.

All candidates are expected to supply their own clubs and shoes, states Hawthorne. Practice balls and other equipment Hawthorne and Lloyd Russell director of athletics, are work-

Tennis Team Positions Are Wide Open As Varsity Practice Begins

Dr. Perry M. Broom, E. T. tennis coach, has issued a call for all varsity tennis candidates to come to the courts between 2:30 and 4:30 p.m. any day. Dr. Broom was recently named coach by Athletic Director Lloyd Russell.

Any student who wishes to try for the team is urged to do so promptly. The new position states that varsity mentors are wide open, and he says he hopes that a number of candidates will attend the meeting for instructions as to practice sessions, equipment needs and filling out of questionnaires.

Approximately a dozen aspirants for positions on the varsity tennis team have turned out and are engaging in practice sessions.

Among those working out are Bill Outhrie, Jerry Davis, Marcus Norwood, Jimmy White, George Barrett, Carl Whitley, Gene Brewer, Jerry Mead, Jerry Chadwick, Jimmy Gibson, James Schoofield and Lucian King.

Intra-squad matches, as part of the practice program, are scheduled for 2 p.m. Tuesday. The squad will be split into 2 groups, and 4 singles matches and 2 doubles will be run off. Play in these matches will help determine varsity members, states Dr. Broom. Other intra-squad contests are on the docket for the near future.

Inter-school competition is expected to begin next month. Coach Broom informs that he is now working out a schedule of games with other colleges.

Dr. Broom lettered in tennis at Sam Houston State college and played for the Austin Athletic club. He has competed in several tournaments throughout the country. He has taken over E. T.'s court team from Coach Taylor. Taylor was member last year, but this season he is a squad.

"Several freshmen and members of the B-team look promising," says Coach Broom. "We are rebuilding from scratch and trying to lay a good basis for the next several years," he concludes.

Members of last year's varsity are graduated. Coach Broom is especially interested in candidates from the freshman and sophomore classes. He says that though most of them will be unable to make the team this year, they can start their development into East Texas State tennis stars of the future.

Lions tennis team will compete in Lone Star conference play this spring.

Dr. Barrus Will Attend English Meeting in Ohio

Dr. Paul W. Barrus, associate professor of English, will attend the annual meeting of the Conference on College Composition and Communications in Cleveland, Ohio, March 28-29.

Dr. Barrus is a member of the executive committee representing the Teacher's colleges. This organization is a division of the National Council of Teachers of English.

"The aim of this nation-wide group is improvement in instruction of freshman English.

Harold B. Allen of the University of Minnesota is chairman of the conference.

Amor Carter Conference Attended by Dr. Parsons

Dr. L. D. Parsons, head of the department of chemistry, attended the fourth annual Amor Carter conference held in Ft. Worth Feb. 9 and 10. The faculty conference, concerning religion, was sponsored by the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. organizations.

Representatives of faculties from Texas and the four adjoining states were present.

The Student Union building at East Texas State was formerly an officers' recreation center at Camp Maxey, Paris.

Lion Boxers Lose In State Gloves

Only one member of E.T.'s boxing team made it to the semifinals of the state Golden Gloves. He was Arthur Tidwell of Pittsburg, in the flyweight class. He lost by a close decision Monday night to Pedro Melindres of El Paso. Melindres in turn lost to Pat McCarthy, repeating champion in his class. In 1949 McCarthy won Texas state title and in 1950 he won California state title. At that time he was in service in California.

Four Locals Lose
The other four E.T. ringmen dropped out in the quarter-finals Johnny "cheeta" White lost a close decision to Billy Haynes of San Antonio. Haynes then lost the final to Roy Harris. White is a middleweight.

Heavyweight "Cotton" Martin was TKO'd by Campbell Goodman of Wichita Falls. Woodman went on to win the state heavy title.

Welterweight "Bud" Phillips lost by decision to Johnny O'Glee of Dallas, who copped the welter crown.

Bryant Clark, light heavy, lost in his first outing. Clark was doing well until he received a cut eye.

Good Showing
Coach Cecil Pitney says all did well against the class of the state. He continues that Tidwell is one of the top flyweights in the state and that he looked mighty good in the semi-final. Tidwell had previously won from Mickey Martinez of Dallas and Jim Jarrett of Tyler.

ROTC Band Plays For Home Games

Under the direction of Ray Luke, instructor in music, the ROTC band performed at East Texas State's two home basketball games this week. The Lion's opponents were Austin College and Sul Ross.

Commanding officer and drum major of the band is Capt. Tommy Allen. First Lt. Garland Smith is adjutant and First Lt. Dwayne Appleton serves as executive officer. Sergeant major is Master Sgt. Tom Deliganis.

Monday night the ROTC band will provide music for E. T.'s clash with Southwest Texas here, Intramural sports for the spring semester got underway Thursday, Feb. 21, when the basketball free throw tournament began with 49 entries. Competition in table tennis will begin Monday in the Student Union building.

Deadline for softball, track and field have not yet been announced.

New policies have been set up in regard to managers of intramural sports and men desiring to compete for managers should get managerial forms at the intramural office.

Habern Teaches Judo to Students

By Jim Lloyd

Have you taken any Judo training lately? If you haven't there is an opportunity for you to do so, right in your own back yard, figuratively speaking.

Frank Habern, graduate student of Paris, is holding Judo classes at the Field house 4 to 5 every afternoon Monday through Friday.

Habern was an instructor in the art of self defense in the Marine Corps for six years. In addition to Judo, he taught night-fighting tactics, pistol tricks and bayonet use.

At Camp Elliott, Calif., in 1942, Habern was a member of the staff of the instructors school. Here were taught the instructors who in turn went out and taught Judo and self defense in the Marine corps company and battalion levels.

Famous wartime groups who received a part of their training at this school include Roosevelt's Raiders and Carlson's Raiders.

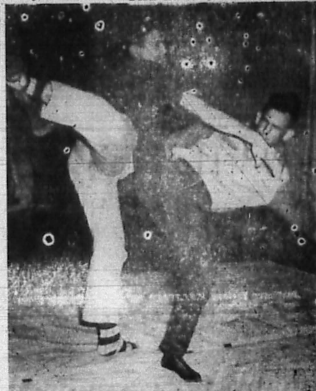

While at Camp Elliott, Habern also worked with the San Diego police, Force and Military police and Shore patrol companies. After leaving there, he was assigned to various Marine divisions in which he was connected with company training programs. A month divisions in which the examinee served were the First, Second, Third, and Sixth.

He enlisted in the Marine Corps in September, 1940 and was discharged Dec. 14, 1946, of six years and three months, three years and eight months were spent overseas in Guadalcanal, Okinawa, Guam, and China. He was in Taigjico 13 months.

Habern was first sergeant of a company of the Sixth Marine division, which was one of the first to hit the beach at Okinawa. After the battle of Sugar Loaf hill, one of the most bloody of WW2, only 9 men were unscathed out of the original complement of 247 men.

Although no credit for physical education is given for this class this time, Habern says that the summer session classes will receive one hour credit. Lloyd Russell, director of athletics, has given his approval to this setup and will recognize the Judo course as a one-hour credit course in physical education for men.

Habern conducts the class not only as a method of self defense but also as a sport. Professionals in the game are rated as to moral and physical character as well as knowledge and skill. As Habern concludes, "It is not only the sport, but using it in the right manner. Character is the key word."

FRANK HABERN, INSTRUCTOR, is in the process of completing a side twist and leg trip on Kenneth C. Davis. Habern is a graduate student. Davis, senior chemistry major of Commerce, is a member of the Judo class.

College Hospital Sets New Record

January was a record breaking month in visits to the college hospital; the hospital's register shows an estimated 700 calls were made, and of this number 93 are listed as bed patients.

Miss Ola Farris, college nurse, said the hospital would have been hard pressed for bed space if the few days vacation between terms hadn't caused a let up in visits. There are possibly many students who do not take advantage of the hospital service offered. Faculty members do not have the privilege, she added.

Mr. Pearl Johnson is the new assistant nurse and replaces Mrs. Clara Littlejohn Osborne.

Library Receives Rare Documents About First Fourteen Congresses

The papers constitute practically the only readily accessible text of documents of the first fourteen Congresses. They were selected and edited under the authority of Congress and published by Gates and Weston in 1833-1841. The complete set is 38 volumes.

The 38 volumes of the "American State Papers" are made up of executive and legislative documents for most part found only in archives or manuscript records of the Senate and House; no complete set of them existed anywhere else.

General William Hickey, able scholar and later secretary of the Senate, was chief compiler of the entire series.

When the capitol was destroyed in 1814, the entire reserve of government publications was practically destroyed. This impressed upon the leaders of that day the importance of having in less limited supply than was provided the valuable records of government activities and also the necessity of having reprinted those documents which were extinct. In 1831 an act was passed providing for the compilation of Congressional documents, made by Gates and Weston known as "American State Papers."

The documents, of which East Texas has most of them, are divided into ten classes. They are: (1) Foreign Affairs; (2) Indian affairs; (3) Finance; (4) commerce and navigation; (5) military affairs; (6) naval affairs; (7) Justice; (8) public lands; (9) claims and (10) miscellaneous.

Miss Williams was able to purchase the papers through a former student, Arthur West, who, through an interest in Indiana, ran across the private collection of Mr. Hawkins.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests No. 33...THE SHEEP

"They can't pull the wool over my eyes!"

They tried to fool him with the "quick-trick" cigarette mildness tests—but he wouldn't go astray! We know as well as he there's only one fair way to test cigarette mildness. And millions of smokers agree!

It's the sensible test...the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke, on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments. Once you've tried Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...
