Thumbs of 'Amen Corner' Physician Says College Hospital Well Equipped

Do you know where "Amen Corner" is? If you are one of the dozens of boys who commute to Greenville, via Thumb, each day, it is easily recognized as being the spot of the stop-light, corner of Live Oak and Elm d'Arce.

Each day hopeful young students stand with that "Goin' my way" look on their faces at Amen Corner. Sometimes they get a lift, sometimes not, but the experiences they undergo give them a keen insight into many a person's nature.

John Brooks, sophomore of Greenville, says his pet peeve is the driver who always manages to look the other way just as he reaches the "thumbs".

The friendly type, who waves gaily and keeps going will never be mentioned in Ray Terry's prayers. Terry is a freshman of Greenville.

Terry and a fellow commuter have even counted the highway markers from Commerce to Greenville on their many rides. There are 373 of the little black-stripe posts, said the observant freshman.

Jerry Hyde, sophomore of the same town, says he remembers his most disappointing ride. He was picked up by a one-armed driver in a '37 Ford who thought he was burning the "red part of it," he said, "was it cost me four bits to get my trousers cleaned."

Types of different drivers are met on the road. "There are the different types of cars."

"I've ridden with every type from a preacher to a bootlegger," says a Banner, sophomore of Greenville.

His most hair raising ride was with an '84 year old "safe driver" who used to be 10 miles per hour all the while he was telling how he had never had an accident. Just then he ran behind a big truck with a burst of speed, pulled out to go around it, missed another big truck face to face. By some miracle the truck driver managed to dodge him and the octogenarian went into a tirade about speed demons and accidents always being their fault.

A Cadillac driver making 95 once turned to his passengers and without a change of voice said, "If you boys are in a hurry, you can get out and walk."

Every make of car from a model '12 Ford to a '51 Cadillac has picked up the hopeful commuters on "Amen Corner," and so long as they get us there we'll take our chance," say the weary thumbers.

Hospital Well Equipped

By Franklin Ault
Feature Writer

Some 18 years ago, three years before Ford automobiles were using hydraulic brakes and when most of the present students here were finishing their first year of kindergarten, Dr. C. G. Allen became director of the newly established college hospital.

Dr. Allen, father of two children, was a practicing physician in Commerce at the time he was invited to become college doctor for the normal college. In his younger days he was a student here on the campus and upon receiving his BA degree here, he entered the Baylor School of Medicine in Waco. In 1913 he received his medical degree and set up his practice in Campbell.

And during those early days of his practice, Dr. Allen often crawled from a warm bed on cold, winter nights to travel 25 miles by horse back to see a sick baby or a little boy whose sore throat had caused his parents to fear pneumonia or even diphtheria.

"Of course, there was certainly reason to worry about these diseases. After all, those were the days before antibiotics and pneumonia was known as the Captain of the Man Death," the doctor recalled.

"When a man had pneumonia everyone in the neighborhood for miles around was worried. Those people understood that chances of survival were very slim."

The doctor recalled seeing neighbors place a mattress in the bed of a wagon and "carry a patient forty miles to a hospital and then be told by a doctor that there was no hope for the sick man."

So it is with pride that Dr. Allen looks about the present hospital and makes comparison of the equipment there with that in use during his first years of practice. He declares that the set-up here is one of the best of its kind at the state.

The hospital plans are constantly being improved and new and better equipment being added, he stated. Steam heated in winter and air cooled in the summer, the local plant contains 30 beds, laboratory service and x-ray equipment.

At present two nurses are on duty at all times, and Miss Ola Farris, registered nurse, is on call 24 hours a day.

Only expense to the student for medical service, other than major operations, is the cost of penicillin, which is sold to students at actual cost.

"If you ever have an occasion to spend a few days in our hospital, don't be worried about how you will be fed. As long as I've been here, I've never had anyone to complain about the food."

Dr. Allen should know. He's been college physician from the time the hospital was located on second floor of the Collegiate Shop.

Need An Airplane? Apply At Binnion

By James Blackbeard
Special Writer

Raise the Riveter doesn't have a thing on Mary Freeman, senior speech student of Van. She has recently taken up the hobby of building model airplanes.

While she was in Dallas on business last week, Mary bought a model plane kit for Dece Wheatley III. When she gave Dee this kit, Mary learned that the recipient was on his way to flight operations class and didn't want to carry it with him. Mary kept the kit.

As she carried the kit, Mary read that any child could construct the plane in 30 minutes. She began to work. After five long hours, she had used all parts in the box.

To add a touch of originality, Mary mixed some yellow paint and used a brush out of a bottle of finger nail polish.

When she brought the plane to the living room of Binnion hall to give to Dee, Ronnie Wade recognized it as being a P-40 even though the cockpit was on backwards.

"That's all right, Dee-Bo, I am going to make some more planes and you can hang them in your room," Mary commented.

Ogima Easter Annual Theme Is New York

The men's oldest social club, Ogima, featured new impressions of fifth avenue in carrying out the Easter fashion in their 29th annual dance presented in the Student Union building April 8.

With reflections from burning candles, the Ogima emblem greeted the guests from the center of the registration table and provided light for the guest book.

The foyer disclosed a flashing traffic light which was essential for any scene on fifth avenue.

A mural designed by Valton Holley, junior of Cumby, covered the foyer and all four sides of the dance floor. The mural was segmented in vignettes which revealed scenes among the tall buildings on fifth avenue as well as the rest of New York. The art work was done in four colors and drawn completely by a spray gun.

Show windows, displaying spring fashions, were designed by Ed Steger, local merchant. Men's suits, women's dresses jewelry ect. were displayed in the windows which were covered with cellophane.

Exes and their families and friends of members of the club were present for the occasion. Date bids were given to students off the campus who will be coming to East Texas State this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. King and George Powell were the sponsors present.

The EastTexans furnished music for the dance and following the annual a smoker was held.

Dr. Carr Speaks In Special Assembly

Dr. Edwin R. Carr, associate professor of education at the University of Colorado, was guest speaker at the assembly program in the college auditorium yesterday morning.

"The Social Studies and Education for Life Adjustment" was the subject of Dr. Carr's talk. Author of the book, Guide to Reading for Social Studies Teachers, Dr. Carr is a former member of the Board of Directors of the National Council for Social Studies. He has been active in high school, workshop and consultant social study work.

The educator's visit on the campus was sponsored by the National Conference of Social Studies.

A former student, Miss Myrtle Roberts, social studies director at Woodrow Wilson High School in Dallas, is a former president of the group.

Johnson Participates In Banking Seminar

Eldon D. Johnson, head of the department of business administration, served in the banking seminar in Dallas April 14, 15 and 16.

Sponsored by the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas, the seminar had a "Central Banking" theme and will feature representatives from colleges and state leaders in the banking industry.

Purpose was to discuss central banking problems. Mr. and Mrs. John E. Dowd spent the Easter holidays visiting friends in Dallas and Ft. Worth.

Your big chance. The girl you have been going with has asked you to escort her to a welsner roast her club is giving. You can be all the more beautiful. What will you wear that will be appropriate and yet feel comfortable?

Be sure you want to make a big impression. Wear a dress that is your good suit. Now to pick her up. Well, look at that? She's dressed in slacks. In fact everyone is. Of all the people that want to that welsner roast, you in your newly pressed suit, were the only one dressed right. However, you didn't have to get up at 11:30 as the rest of the party did because you were afraid of getting your suit dirty.

Funny thing about that girl. She has refused you every time you have asked her for a date since then. You guessed it was because you got her up at 11:30 the party by being dressed better than she was.

Chances are you know someone or you yourself have done something similar to the boy mentioned above. Very few times in your college life need this happen if you just use your head.

East Texas State is by no means a rich man's college where students come to school every day in a different suit. For weekdays and class wear, girls will be comfortable and inconspicuous with skirts, sweaters or blouses, tailored dresses and a suit for occasional wear. Jeans and slacks for girls receive a third strike on the campus, in classrooms and dining halls.

For boys, the weekday dress is a little more simple. Just put on enough clean, well-pressed clothes to cover your body and you'll probably pass. The average boy will, however, wear sport clothes-slacks, sweaters or shirts-sport coats and even blue jeans are permissible to wear, especially to labs.

For the formals and semi-formal affairs held at E. T. T. girls should dress conservatively. Never wear an evening dress to a record dance in the Student Union building on Thursdays.

Boys will find a tux nice to have around for a formal affair, but they can be supplemented by a dark suit. In the spring, white dinner jackets with dark trousers are the thing to wear if you have them, otherwise the dark suit again. The best rule to remember is don't over dress and keep in mind that the word at E. T. usually means semi-formal.

Dinner Dances Dinner dances usually require the boys best suit and a street length dress or silk suit for the girl. High heels and a small, dressy hat should also be worn by the girl.

For concerts in the auditorium, the boy should wear his clean suit again and the girl should be dressed up for the occasion, but not too flashy.

Receptions and teas require the girl to wear street length dresses, a hat, gloves, carry a handbag and wear heels. Boys, again, use their suit.

In church, both the boy and girl wear their best suits with the girl wearing her heels, gloves, hat and carrying the handbag again. A crepe dress will substitute for the girl.

'Holding' Better's Olympic Record

By Jim Lloyd Sports Editor

High jump artist "Chuck" Holding topped all performers in the open class high jump event at Austin April 4 and 5. His leap of 6-9 bettered the Olympic mark of 6 feet 7 15-16 inches set by Cornelius Johnson of the United States in 1936.

World record in the event is 6-11. Last year Holding had the highest leap in the nation, 6-8 1/2. His winning bound at Austin is the best in the country so far this year.

Five other Texas relays performances were the best track marks of this year. Included in this distinctive class are the 200 meter dash time of 20.3 seconds by Charley Thomas of Texas; Texas Western's Javier Montes' speedy 3:52.6 in the 1500 meter run; the 25 foot, 2 1/2 inch broad jump by Neville Fryce of Oklahoma; in Texas Aggies' mile relay by 1:12.6 and Paul Faulkner of Abilene Christian college's javelin toss of 207 feet, 6 3/4 inches.

East Texas entered only three other events in the 25th running of the Texas relays, but placed in each. One took two thirds and one fourth.

Third in 440 Mile Relay. The 440 yard relay quartet, Marvin Brown, Robert Smith, Bob Sloan and George Riley, clocked in at 42.9, just four-tenths of a second slower than the winning time of 42.5 of North Texas State. Howard Payne copped second.

Other third spot was taken by the Lions in the mile relay by team of Brown, Charles Buchanan, Joe Allen and Pro Gaddis. Abilene Christian and Oklahoma Baptist universally ran first and second respectively.

Sprint medal, composed of Allen and Pro Gaddis placed fourth behind Abilene Christian, Howard Payne and McMurry. Holding is a junior physical education major of Waco. He attended the University of Texas in 1948-49.

Brown is a junior economics major of Midland. He is a transfer from Tarleton Junior college. His 107 yard kick-off return in the Midwestern U. game here was the longest scoring run in the nation last year in college football.

Riley, Brown Football Halfbacks George Riley is a junior physical education major of Oil City, La. He is a transfer from Kilgore Junior college where he was little all-American back this past grid season. Basketball Prospects Good, Says Woodruff Spring basketball training and workouts were resumed Tuesday after the Easter holidays layoff. Practice sessions will continue about another week, says Coach Woodruff.

In addition to squadmen returning from last season's club, Coach Woodruff has been working out and talking to a number of junior college and high school basketballers.

Four top-flight ball players from Wharton Junior college and three from Victoria J. C. have visited the field house to take part in the program. Two of the men from Wharton were named to junior college all-American this past year. They are Charley Brown and Green. The three from Victoria rated all-regional. Freddy Harris of Kilgore J. C. and Jack Mosher of Houston also took part in the activities last week. Mosher made junior college all-American two years ago. Two prospects came in from Houston to engage in the sessions.

Although the Lions lost six men from their third place Lone Star conference team, Coach Woodruff says prospects look bright for next winter's campaign.

Included in courtmen who will not be handling the ball for E. T. next year are: E. C. Moore, "Cats" Howard, J. T. Shelton, Jimmy Fountain, Russ Smith, and Bob Byler.

All but Moore will graduate. Moore's basketball eligibility ran out, but he will be around as a powerhouse on Coach "Catfish" Smith's Lone Star out-of-rece championship football team this coming fall.

Sholars was named to the all-American team and Fountain received honorable mention. Buddy Taylor will be back for action if the army doesn't exclude him, Coach Woodruff concludes.

FOOTBALL COACH "CATFISH" SMITH and assistant Cecil Pirkey proudly display the Lone Star conference trophy won by the Lions grid team this past season. The Lions wound up with a 5-0 margin in conference play and had a 9-2 record in season battles. Only losses were to Abilene Christian college in opening contest of the campaign and to North Texas State, third on the schedule.

The footballers continued to improve throughout the season and compiled some healthy statistics for the record book.

James Gray, quarterback, tossed 19 TD passes, second highest in the nation behind "Babe" Parilli of Kentucky. Marvin Brown, left half, made the longest scoring run in the country last year, a 167 yard kick-off return against Midwestern U. here. He also led the LSC in points with 102.

Tommy McCormack led the collegiate ends in aerial grabs for 6-pointers. He snagged 12 over the season.

Four Lions rated honorable mention on the Little All-American team. They were D. L. Ashley, tackle, McCormack, end, Gray and Brown, backs. Four members of the 1951 football champs achieved all-Lone Star conference. Included are McCormack, end, Jack Hetherington, tackle, James Coble, guard and Brown, back. Second team honors went to Ashley, Ernest Stinson, guard, Charles Haldeman, center and Robert Williams and Gray, backs.

Spring term transfers should help to strengthen prospects for next fall even further. Dan Ray Day, 240 pound all-state defensive tackle at Henderson J. C., came to E. T. at mid-term as a sophomore. His home is Malakoff. Bernie Leftwich, 220 pound guard of San Benito, rated all-conference at Kilgore J. C.

Slated as right halfback running mate to left half Brown is George Riley, a speedy 150 pounder from Kilgore J. C. Riley, who clicks off the 100 in 1 seconds flat, was named to Little All-American team while at Kilgore. His home is Oil City, La.

At present, Riley and Brown are busy on Coach Joe Taylor's Lion track squad.

In addition, 23 letterman standbys will be back next September.

Lion Netman Top Austin College, 4-2

After losing to T. C. U. and tying Texas Wesleyan, the East Texas State Lions net team broke into the win column April 8, with a 4-2 win over the Austin college Kangaroos.

All of the wins by E. T. were one-sided while the number one doubles proved to be the only exciting match of the day. In this match, Walker and Walker of Austin college beat out Bill Dickerson and Marcus Norwood, 6-4, 6-1.

Jerry Davis suffered the other defeat for the Lions with a 6-2, 8-1 loss in the number one singles position. J. Walker provided the opposition for Davis.

In other singles, Norwood of E. T. won over Lamberth 6-1, 6-3 in the number two singles, Jimmy White outplayed Brock 6-2, 6-0 in the number three spot and Bill Dickerson took an easy victory from Silder of Austin 6-0, 6-0.

East Texas State won the two doubles when Bill Guthrie and Norvel Redfearn trounced Lamberth and Brock 6-1, 6-0.

Beef Cattle Pay Student's Way

By Guy Phillips
Special Writer

"Livestock is in my future," says Wayland Norrell, 20-year-old college agriculture student of Minter.

"Beef cows are making my future," he says. "In short, 28 head of beef cattle are paying his way through college."

He recalls that under the guidance of his high school agriculture teacher and his father, he obtained an interest for cattle. Beginning in 1941 with only one calf as a club project, Phillips watched his herd slowly but surely increase. By 1948 it was of sufficient size to send the owner to school.

Norrell relates many worries and difficulties that he has had with his herd, but he considers it well worth while in both experience and profits. During the summer months he retires from campus life to assist his father in their farming operations. The senior expects to spend a few years in service, then return to farming and ranching and working with his "educated cows." He states that "college will surely be of benefit—even to a farmer."

Rollins Comments On Student Body

Integrity and honesty of the student body are the principal worry of college officials throughout the nation, says John W. Rollins, dean of men.

Rollins, who attended the national meeting of Deans and Advisers of Men at Colorado Springs recently, reports officials are concerned about the increasing number of students who cheat their way through school.

The dean of men, who is chairman of a panel on teacher training institutions, states that officials in his group are particularly concerned about vandalism between schools on weekend days. The group showed a keen interest in the portion of East Texas State's constitution having to do with vandalism.

Rollins is mailing mimeographed copies of the student document to representatives who requested them.

"I am proud of the student body here—especially after hearing reports of officials from other schools," Rollins says.

Two Students Helped Establish Arts-Sciences College in Hawaii

Two founders of a college and members of its board are now students.

James H. Weir, senior sociology major at East Texas State college, and James C. Nance, junior business major, were stationed in Honolulu, Hawaii, during World War II. They along with another member of the Marine corps became friends of the Rev. L. M. Barrett, former pastor of Scatter Branch Baptist church, during their stay on the island in 1943.

During a visit with the minister, the friend T-Sgt. Dewey Jackson mentioned the $9,000 he had saved for ten years to buy a Cadillac once his discharge papers came through. At this same conference the pastor mentioned a dream he had long held -- the building of another college in Hawaii.

With the $9,000 in cash, the four purchased a mansion in Honolulu and converted the 30 rooms into classes. By April the college was chartered and 20 students had answered the first roll call.

Weir and Nance joined in the movement with financial help and became students in the first classes.

Other servicemen began to attend the night school.

Now operated by the Hawaiian Baptist foundation, the school was designed with three purposes in mind, to meet intellectual needs for better citizens, to meet spiritual needs and to encourage athletic for physical coordination.

Set up as a co-educational school of arts and sciences, the college was named Jackson in honor of the benefactor and Rev. Barrett was named president.

Now the school has a student body of almost 200 and a faculty of 20.

Weir, who holds a pastorate at Copville First Baptist church while he attends East Texas State, hopes to return to Hawaii in the future and become a member of the faculty at Jackson.
