"This Week"
 Wm. E. McDaniel

This week will be like with the entire student body abounding happiness and success in everything between now and next term. Next week to time for exams—may every student be successful. As for every course that is taking, December twenty-fifth is Christmas (as usual). Merry Christmas! Happy New Year! Be sure to come back next time!

The Lion outfit got a good start when they opened the season with a 36 to 37 victory over the Rice Institute. Our last night. This week hopes and be the same victorious spirit will continue throughout the entire season. It may be recalled that the Lions lost the "I. A. A. basketball championship last winter only by a narrow margin, which was really the result of a split series with Denton. Let's all go to the game tonight and see the Lions play our best game.

The crisis has arrived. There are only two more days before the final examination starts. There is no doubt that there will be more "burners of the midnight oil" between now and then than there has been any time this term. Perhaps even those who believe in passing their courses without studying will seek the seduction of their glasses and cram for a few hours. Maybe—how know?

It is rumored that a member of the faculty attended a Gamma meeting and play nearly last Thursday night while wearing a very unique arrangement of footwear. It is said that the Prof. under discussion wore red shoes and one blue shoe. This week believes that the act was an attempt to break the even rule and secure some extra legitimate claim. She claims to have ceased dressing in order to avoid a riotous scene which has changed only one shoe and accordingly forgot to change the other.

This week has heard recently that the lady of the month requirement for the new theatre has been received and the show will open within a short time. The confirmation is correct, the (Continued on Page 3)

Girl Outrages As Kodak Clicks
 We have just heard a story of a girl who is more than a student to a professor. This girl is a freshman who stays at the girls' dormitory, and her assignments in photography prove, by the following:
 Last Tuesday night, the freshmen under discussion, which went to town and attended the theatre, and did not return to the dormitory until 10:15 o'clock. Since such action is a violation of the rules of the freshmen girls, she was sent to Mrs. Lutz, whom she called to find out had believed Tuesday night to be Wednesday night. As punishment for the mistake Mrs. Lutz did not permit the young lady to carry the usual library on the following Wednesday night.

Memory Falls Mittay Days
 We have heard of people being shot with a camera, but have never heard of a happening similar to that of one of the boys on this campus last week. The story of the episode follows:
 Mrs. Paul's Home Economics class of the sub-college held an exhibit in the Education Building last Monday, and following the custom of that class, they decided to have a picture of the class and all went well until the flash pump was ignited. It was then that one of the girls fainted. Apparently as the result of fright received from the explosion. Incidentally, we wonder if the little bird that sat on top of the building posing for a picture is the same one that tells people such stories as this.

CAROL SERVICE WELL RECEIVED
 The thirteenth Carol service of East Texas State Teachers' College was held Friday night in the New Auditorium and was witnessed by a large audience composed of both students and young people. The song was adorned with a small Christmas tree upon which was placed the same star and the same decorations that have been used since the origin of this tradition. The popularity of an act is considered as the outstanding feature of the year in exemplification of the true Yuletide spirit that is so significant of Christmas time.
 The service was begun by singing of On Come All Ye faithfully by the Choral and Glee Clubs of the College, who marched in procession and continued by singing various carols. The entire audience participated unreservedly in the service. Miss Emma Murrie, director of music in the College, presided.

FIRST GAME OF SEASON CATCHES LIONS OFF-FORM, BUT IS WON BY SCORE 37-28
SECOND GAME TO BE PLAYED TONIGHT
 Playing before a packed gymnasium, the East Texas Lions' quintet scored a 37 to 28 victory over the Rice Owls, strong contenders for the Southwestern championship, last night in the season opener for the Lions.
 The Lions were playing far below their natural strength in the game Friday night but a long field goal by Harold Stringer seemed to give them new life and this coupled with the crisp shots of Buford Williams put the game on ice for them.
 Stringer, all-T. I. A. forward of the Lions, scored with a long field goal that encouraged the Lions for awhile but the Owls came back with a strong scoring attack that put them in the lead during the first part of the game. Williams seemed to miss many of the "crip" shots that he attempted but his scrapp and fight accounted for many goals for E. T.
 Had it not been for the quick handwork and consistent play of Zober and Hess the score would possibly have been around the half century mark for the Lions.
 The score at the end of the first half was E. T. 14, Rice 14. During the second half the Lions outplayed the Owls, their offense was functioning and their defense was fair. The Lions simply had the Owls' number during this half and they did not fail to make it click.
 Due to the fact that they had regulars at the first of the second half and after they piled up a close score, the Owls' defense was new in order to get a line on game.

FORMER STUDENT DIES OF PNEUMONIA
 Mr. J. C. Kennington, father of Mary Kennington, popular E. T. student who received her degree last spring, succumbed last Sunday after a four-day illness of pneumonia. He was 42 years old and came as a shock to the many friends that he had.
 Mr. Kennington was a prominent friend in New Boston, Bowie county, was an active worker in the Christian church, and also a member of the Masonic lodge at New Boston. He is a former student of the East Texas State Teachers' College and was well known and respected by his many friends here.
 Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the First Baptist church at New Boston, with the Masonic lodge in charge of the ceremony.

LOCUST STAFF IS MAKING PROGRESS
 Members of the Locust Staff have been busy for the past week mounting the program for the arranging feature parts of the first shipment which is to be sent to the requesters Saturday. Twenty panels of class pictures and several pages of organizations have been completed.
 "Cartoons and other art work for the Class Directory" has been completed by Fletcher Shipmet, art editor, and these will be ready for the first shipment," states Editor Carl Thomas. Several copies of the Locust Staff are being prepared by the publishers.
 "It is not too late to have pictures made for the Locust Staff," says Mr. Thomas and he urges that this be done immediately.

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

It is now 3:10 o'clock in the morning, and copy should already be in. Since this is the last issue before the Christmas holidays, we wish to take this opportunity to make a how to you and wish you "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year" before we go to bed. We have directed our sincerest efforts toward the publication of an East Texan full of crisp, wholesome, entertaining news during the past term, and we hope that our result has pleased the student body.

We have enjoyed the association with the whole student body, and wish everybody "A Merry Christmas" and lots of good luck. We also wish to express our hope that all the students of this term will return after the holidays and continue the life on the campus.

An all-college event invariably brings comment of some kind from the students, and the majority of those made by the boys in reference to the all-college dance of December 6, were similar to this: "If I could dance well enough, I would like to go". Boys who do not already dance have no opportunity to learn to do so, because co-ed dancing is prohibited unless the student has permits and even then he can dance once a term. The girls can learn to dance among themselves, because they get together and dance in the gym during off periods and also have their girl dances frequently, but boys do not and probably cannot do that.

In the University of Texas, a group of students meet one night of every week in a meeting called "The Gym Jam", and there they learn and familiarize themselves with the art of dancing. During the first half hour, only girls are allowed on the floor, and then the boys are admitted and dance with them until the session is terminated.

Why can't we have a dancing class similar to that in our institution. We have all come to the conclusion that there is no harm in dancing, so why not dance! What is permissible for that group which attends the all-college dances is permissible for that group which attends the all-college dances is permissible for all others who wish to do so but have not sufficiently mastered the art of dancing. A class such as that mentioned might be sponsored by the clubs on the campus, having different club assume the responsibility of conducting the class each week. Those who can already dance would attend the class but would be expected to dance with the beginners rather than others who dance well. An arrangement of this kind would undoubtedly receive the sanction of all concerned and would be a priceless help to those who care to dance. What do you think about it?

Sul Ross Admitted To S. A. C. And S. S.

"LAWN" The night slips by her long jet hair; The moon's a dull and silver blue; A sea of drenched dawn arises From the East—smoking college age!

MISUNDERSTANDING You say that you've forgotten Something that happened long ago; You tell me it is unpleasant And you do not wish to remember. Still I can not quite understand Your attitude, or the hidden meaning In your words when you speak. Why do you stand apart from me In such imperial splendor? Why do you look on me With such staided casualness? Your kisses have turned to ice Against my burning lips "Pardon me, you spoke so low I could not quite hear. Oh, so you have forgotten A puppy love of long ago."

Sub-College Class Exhibits Work

Displaying the work of the class during the term, the Sub-College Home Economics Department under the supervision of Mrs. Berry Fain, held open house Monday from 1:20 until 5 o'clock. Piece goods made by the class were placed on the walls and the girls of the class stood in the receiving line showing the guests around and serving them with refreshments of tea and cookies.

These exhibits are given each term to give the public a chance to see what the sub-college home economics is accomplishing.

Sul Ross Admitted To S. A. C. And S. S.

That the Sul Ross State Teachers College has made great progress since its founding less than ten years ago is shown by its admission last week as a first class college to the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, which convened for its annual meeting in Lexington, Ky., Dec. 2-7. The news of the admission was brought by Dr. H. W. Morelock, president of Sul Ross, who went to the meeting to represent the college. Dr. Morelock returned here early this week.

The Southern Association is the third standardizing agency to recognize Sul Ross, as the college is already a member of the Texas Association of Colleges. PROPHETESS AIDS IN DECIDING MAN'S

Age Old Problem Is Solved (CHOICE AS TO BLONDES OR BRUNETTES)

Character: Gallus, a Roman youth; Pythia, a prophetess. Scene: Shrine at the Oracle of Apollo. Over a chasm of lava flows a tripod. From the vapors issues a cold narduous stream. The tripod is a cold iron rod, with a scoured face and claw-like hands.

Gallus: "Enter, Gallus, dressed in the usual indigent toga. Beware before the shrine." Gallus: "O, Glorious Apollo, whom I adore, I beseech thee power to erring youth, lend sympathetic ear to one who has come from distant home to seek thy valued counsel. I pray that I may receive satisfactory answers to my questions. (Then addresses the prophetic priestess.) And thou, too most holy prophetess, skilled in futuring, grant that I may receive satisfactory answers."

(The Pythia offers no reply. The Senator over the chasm and the strutting fumes that issue from it. Slowly motioning in a drowsy way.) After a moment's pause with Gallus spying her in awe, she begins to speak mechanically, as if impelled by some supernatural power, as indeed she is.)

Pythia: "Speak, O Troubled Youth, and unburies thy soul. What have queried?" Gallus: "O, Holy One, let me remember that I am about to enter into popular society in Rome. Since I shall naturally be asked to associate with a great number of girls, I find that I must know one thing, that is this: Which is the more, preferable, blonde or brunette?"

Pythia: "O Foolish Youth, such a question can receive only an ambiguous answer. If I should speak disparagingly of one of these feminine types, a war even more devastating than the Trojan war might ensue."

Gallus: "Very good, O Omnipotent One! that the gods sent the brunette to the earth to enhance, by their contrast, the supreme beauty of the blonde, just as a blenish on a woman's cheek emphasizes the creamy beauty of the cheeks."

Pythia: "Nothin' could contain more fallity. His bracelet was sent to reach to rival of the University of Chiles, the blonde."

Gallus: "Is it true that the modern girl is going to the blonde? Is it true that the modern girl is going to the blonde? Is it true that the modern girl is going to the blonde?"

Pythia: "I must decline to give a biased answer. Suffice it to say that there are differences of beauty. You simply must let your latent lead you to answer. But I will say this: The record of neither is I give the way of all women. And remember that when you stand by the marriage altar, far you don the marriage halter. That is all."

The body of the prophetess begins to twitch, indicating that she is about to awake from her stupor.

Organization Pres.'s Discuss Plans For Coming Term

As twenty college social activities confronted this term, the Dean Wray at the purpose of the meeting Monday afternoon of all the presidents of the college organizations on the campus. At the meeting the presidents of the clubs were impressed with the importance of planning their terms that they early enough to turn up in the Dean's office so that their work may be put into a social calendar at the first of the term. In that way they hope that when fluctuating dates may be changed they will be able to have a more harmonious schedule. The result that will avoid so what have I ever claimed many activities piling up at the end of the term when many of the students desire to study. A similar meeting was called for the second Friday in the new term. By that time the clubs are requested to have formulated their activities so that they may present a tentative program.

 sensatio on the game, leading the scoring with 16 points. Captain Parker ran a close second with 11 counters. Captain Zuber and Hess were the outstanding players for the Owls.
 The starting lineup for the teams were:
 East Texas Captain, J. Stringer and Wright, forward; Williams, center; Cruse and O. Stringer, guards. Substitutions for the Lions: Parker for O. Stringer, Blocker for Cruse, and Travis for Wright.
 Home Owls: Hart and Hess, forwards; Norman, center; Zuber and Polk, guards.
 The Lions will engage the Owls in a second game to be played on the home floor at 7:15 and if the Lions improve as they should, the game will be in favor of the home club than was the encounter last evening.

 who had been connected with the College of Commerce, either as teachers or students. Among those were Dr. James W. Martin, director of Research, Dept. of Economics in the University of Kentucky, who is a graduate of Miss Gettrude Wade, a former instructor in E. T. in his teaching of Home Economics in the University of Kentucky, also Prof. Clarence Jones, head of the math. department at Teachers' College, Richmond, Va. Bill Doster, member of June, 1924 graduating class, now located in Louisville, Ky., with General Motors, came down to the express purpose of seeing Dr. Whitely. He expressed a wish to be recommended to all E. T. students and faculty.

 ment of the Dallas high schools, and quite a large number of celebrated instructors act as a board of governors.
 The program of the evening consisted of an all-Mexican dinner and addresses by several celebrities. Professor Partido Gomez, head of the Department of Spanish of the University of Oklahoma, was presented by Senor Casita Lara, Mexican consul in Dallas. Professor Gomez's address was given in Spanish and dealt with the subject of "Why Spanish Should Be Studied" and the historical, commercial, and literary values of the language were presented. Dr. Lefkowitz was presented by Superintendent Crocker of the Dallas schools. The spirit of this address was that Americans should "pass long enough" to consider the illustrious man of the histories of the different nations represented in the United States, thereby, rendering Americans more cosmopolitan of the Greeks, Romans, Jews, and other people of foreign extraction in their midst.
 A great deal of local color was added to the scene by one of the high schools which presented a typical Spanish market scene, and another high school presented a one-act play in Spanish.

SUCCESSFUL YEAR FOR C. H. S. TIGERS

The Commerce High School Tigers finished the best season in the history of the school and in a meeting of the coaches and officials of the school last Tuesday, it was decided that the men and the coaches should be awarded letters. The Tigers won a double victory this year and set two records in so much as they defeated the Farmerville Farmer for the first time in the history of the two schools, and they also won the championship of district 5, another feat heretofore unaccomplished.
 The following is a short summary of the Tiger season—Opening the season with Lakota, the Tigers made a clean sweep to take the game by a score of 10 to 0 and made the same score to their opponents 10 to 0. Both the Donham and Home Grove games after defeating Coleto to a Sulphur Springs, Class A team handed the Tigers their first defeat by a score of 7 to 0 but the Tiger machine scored an easy victory over the Leonard Tigers, only to have the game contested and ruled out. Before the second game with Leonard, the Tigers took a hard fought game with the Farmerville Farmer to the count of 29 to 27 and then turned again to Leonard by gaining undisputed claim to the district championship by a score of 12 to 0. In the first-foots-back and heavy line from Masonic Home, the Tigers won 12 to 0. In their class B game by a longcountdown that came in the latter part of the third period.
 It would be no matter that a star from the Tiger line up but as a whole Lewis could be named as the most valuable man on the team due to the fact that he did all of the passing, majority of the punting, and his share of running.

dition to the means of entertainment of the student body for the theatre is one of the favorite diversions of the students. Forrest Blankenship, circulation manager of the East Texas, has just stated that he would like to have Santa Claus bring him a little red wagon filled with fire crackers. Since he dropped his Ingersoll dollar watch on the concrete floor and broke it last Monday, this suggests that a new time piece would be a very appropriate gift for him. However, it is probably not altogether fitting and proper that a newspaper columnist make suggestions to Santa Claus.

Chapel Chats

Due to the fact that final examinations will be held next week, there will be only one chapel program which will be given Tuesday, December 17. The program is presented at this assembly, however, has not yet been definitely decided, but an effort is being made to get a Mr. Peet of Boston, who is a well-known and humorous speaker.
 The Enloe Quartette composed of Messrs. Bridges, Arthur, Horton and Coy Echols gave a very splendid program in Chapel Tuesday morning. The program consisted of duets, solo and quartette numbers that were very well received.
 Thursday morning Roy Johnson had charge of the program and presented a varied group of numbers consisting of titles and solo. Roy Johnson and Dale Drake surprised the audience by playing an accompaniment to two of the solos rendered and Miss Lena Rose Fuller assisted at the piano.

Ex-Student Is Killed

Luther A. Chancellor, principal of the Silsbee Grammar School and ex-student of E. T. was killed in an auto accident near Kemp, Texas, early Sunday afternoon, Dec. 1. After spending Thanksgiving with his family and friends in Klondike and attending the Texas State Teachers' Convention at Dallas, Mr. Chancellor was returning to his school when his car was hit by another overturning the car into a ditch and pinning him in water where he was killed before he could be extracted from the position.
 Mr. Chancellor attended this college during the year of 1925-'26, and was one of the most efficient members of the debating team of that year.

City Is Decorated For Christmas

Christmas spirit seems to hold complete sway over the business houses of the city, judging from the numerous and colorful decorations that are being displayed from the roofs and show windows of the various stores. Long rows of colored lights and numerous evergreen trees are placed over the business section, and Santa with his toy sack hands out to greet all entrants into town. Sometimes during the early part of next week a large Christmas tree will be placed on the square and will be dedicated to the poor and needy. Presents will be given on Friday night and a Carol service will be held.

Dormitory

As is the custom for the holidays, the dormitory living room is decorated for Christmas festivities and the girls living there are looking forward to the Christmas breakfast which Mrs. Acker is planning for Sunday morning. One corner of the living room is filled with a large tree which is covered with berries, tinsel, and bright colored lights.

 Each year for several years, Santa Claus has visited the dormitory girls during this annual breakfast and left a gift for each girl. Plans for this year have not been announced and the interest of the dormitory students is high.
